Rail Hike Granted

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Interstate Commerce Commission granted the nation's railroads today a $300-million annual increase in freight rates - the first in seven years.

The action came despite Johnson administration requests to hold the line on rate hikes because of their possibly inflationary effects on the economy.

The ICC said the present level of rates "is clearly inadequate to provide the carriers with sufficient revenues, under economical and efficient management, to meet the needs of the commerce of the United States and its national defense."

The rate increase will be about three per cent. The ICC thus gave the railroads almost what they sought. The industry had asked for increased revenues of $327.6 million a year.

The commission in its 52-page order said the increase would become effective not less than 10 days after the railroads file with the ICC a master tariff plan, detailing the rate hikes.

Theoretically, if the railroads filed their plan today, the increase could become effective in 10 days.

The railroads had said they were faced with increased costs this year totaling about $441 million, and that at the same time net income would fall below what it was last year if rates were continued at present levels.

The ICC said the railroads immediately and urgently need additional revenues to cover at least $246.4 million of increased wage costs and a substantial part of higher payroll taxes of about $63.1 million.

In an obvious answer to the administration's expressed fears about the possible inflationary effect of the raise, the ICC said reductions in freight rates "sonce 1963 have had a deflationary effect."

The ICC said the major source of substantial rate reductions has been continued modernization of railroad plants and equipment.

It said "We believe that authorizing moderate increases in freight rates at this time would, in the long run, do less harm to price stability than would denial of such increases or prolonged delays in making needed increases effective."

Cong Dealt Heavy Losses

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have killed 350 Viet Cong in the largest allied assault of the war in the Mekong Delta, field commanders in the operation reported today.

The U.S. Command in Saigon announced the massive ground and river operation by an estimated 10,000 troops was launched last Friday to clear out Viet Cong whose mining of the main highway from the delta has raised food prices in Saigon. The announcement of the operation was withheld for five days for security reasons.

The U.S. Command said it had reports of 200 Viet Cong killed and that U.S. casualties were 16 dead and 59 wounded. Unofficial reports from the field said 28 South Vietnamese troops had been killed and 50 wounded.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, only light ground action was reported.

The air war in North Vietnam jumped back to normal scale Monday as the weather cleared and Navy fliers resumed full operations after the disruption caused by the fire aboard the carrier Forrestal.

U.S. fliers flew a total of 136 missions, 46 more than the 90 flown Sunday. Many of their targets were in the Hanoi-Haiphong area which had been protected by bad weather in recent weeks.

Two more American warplanes were lost, raising to 627 the number of U.S. combat planes reported lost over North Vietnam. Three crewmen were listed as missing.

Sweet Corn Rolls from Bootheel

By Leo Schade

EAST PRAIRIE - What started as a 40-acre sweet corn production eight years ago has developed into a 1,500-acre undertaking.

In two weeks lower Mssissippi county farms will place an estimated 300,000 crates, or 18,000,000 ears of choice sweet corn on the nation's tables.

It began in 1959, when Wendell Choate, route two, began growing sweet corn as an experiment. Since, six more farms in the Dorena-East Prairie area have joined in the venture. Joining Choate have been Sam Jones, Jim Davis, Bruce Larkin, James Pollack, H.V. Murrow and James Moreton.

Starting as a hand picking operation, it has developed into a mule-train project with as many as 40 persons boarding the train in a single field operation.

Picking has been stepped up this year by a mechanical picker that will pick 10 to 12 acres per day. It will do what a mule-train can do with 40 persons.

In 1962 a cooling system was added that will bring corn temperature down to 40 degrees, ready to be loaded into refrigerated trucks, at the rate of 1,000 crates per hour.

From mid-July through mid-August, trailer trucks by the dozens each day line up, to carry away the table delicacy.

More than 300 men and women are employed during the picking season. At its heighth every available man is put to work.

Due to the short growing season and the fact that the corn must be picked at a tender stage, 14 from Florida have been brought in to assist.

Choate and associates have planted 200 acres of cabbage as an experiment. The plants are having difficulty in getting a start because of wet, cool weather.

Small Bootheel acreage has been planted in potatoes, cucumbers, and the once widely grown watermelon and cantaloupe. Other plantings being considered are onions, tomatoes and squash.

Choate farms 2,000 acres in cotton, beans, corn and wheat. He has saved about 75 per cent of his cotton crop despite a wet spring. Corn and soybeans will be down this year because of rain.

HEADING THE OFFICE STAFF for more than 300-man crew at the sweet corn packing plant in Dorena are smiling secretaries Harriet Tinnon, seated, and Peggy Bennett.

Symington Seeks Aid Explanation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D.Mo., asked today if "massive multi-billion dollar aid given India by the United States" has enabled India to buy submarines from Soviet Russia.

Symington, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, said in a statement that a 14-member Indian delegation visited Moscow in August 1965 and agreed to purchase "four Soviet submarines of an interesting type."

This was "one month before the outbreak of hostilities between India and Pakistan," the senator said.

Later the purchase was reduced to three submarines, Symington said, "because of financial stringency."

"The first of these submarines is expected to be delivered later this year," he said.

Earthquake Toll Continues to Rise

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— The toll from earthquakes that devastated Caracas and northwest Venezuela climbed today to 149 known dead, the Interior ministry reported. At least 100 persons still were missing.

The U.S. Embassy added three more to the list of U.S. citizens killed in the most destructive quake Saturday, raising the toll of Americans to 11.

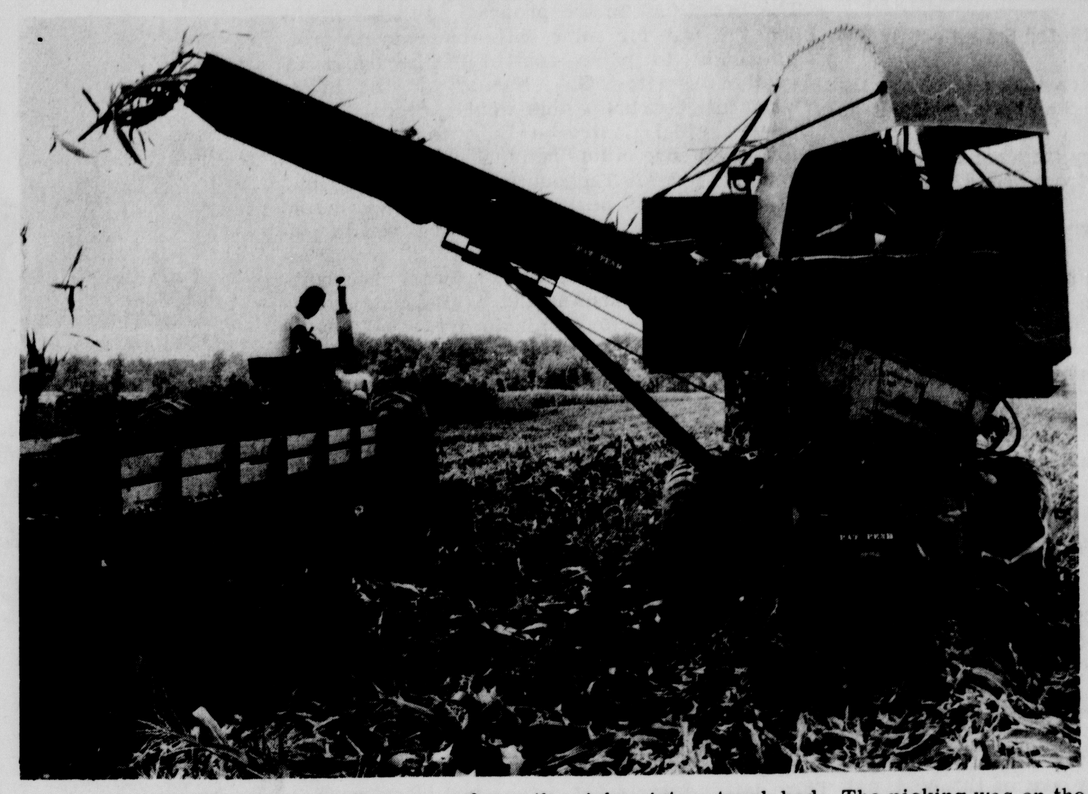
The greatest amount of rain recorded in one 24-hour period was 1.20 inches July 29.

88 at Picnic

Eighty eight Rotarians and their families attended a pool side picnic at the Country Club last night.



EARS OF SWEET CORN, as they pour from the picker into a truck bed. The picking was on the Bruce Larkin farm, 18 miles south of East Prairie. The picker covers 10 to 12 acres a day.

A MECHANICAL SWEET CORN PICKER was added this summer to the 1,500-acre field project in Mississippi County. Rollers in front draw in stalks. Ears are clipped off as they enter the machine. Stephen Lenart, a corn grower from Lantana, Fla., stands on the machine.

SWEET CORN, processed at the rate of 1,000 crates per hour, are being sent through a cooling machine at Dorena. Wendell Choate, left, heads the operations. Daniel Tanksley, East Prairie, and Lester Cockrell, Dogwood, handle the crates.

Pearson Ponders Reply to De Gaulle Views

OTTAWA (AP) - Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, evidently annoyed if not angry, was considering today whether he would try to answer Charles de Gaulle's latest criticism of Canadian affairs.

Pearson's office said he was studying the advisability of another statement reinforcing the slash at the French president he took last week. A source close to the prime minister said it was "a pretty good guess" that he was annoyed.

Quebec's separatist minority was overjoyed at the De Gaulle pledge Monday night to help in the "liberation" of French Canadians. This was in a statement echoing De Gaulle's views on is visit to Canada and the cancellation of his visit to Quebec.

The statement said De Gaulle "recognized among the French Canadians the unanimous conviction that after the century of oppression which followed British conquest, the second century under the system defined by the 'British North American Act' of 1867 had not assured them, in their own country, liberty, equality and fraternity."

France, he declared, means to aid the French Canadians "to reach their objectives of liberation which they themselves have fixed." However, he added that "France has no designs of direction over, or even more so of sovereignty over, all or part of the Canada of today."

Pearson termed his remarks unacceptable to his government and to Canadians, and De Gaulle in retaliation canceled the visit he was to have made to Ottawa.

Accident Injures Woman

A St. Louis woman suffered multiple cuts to the face and neck when the car she was driving sideswiped a pickup truck at 8:08 a.m. today on West Malone near Missouri, police reported.

Dottie Sue James, 31, St. Louis, was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community hospital following the accident.

The pickup truck was driven by Jesse Berry, 50, 228 Alabama, who was charged with careless and imprudent driving for failure to have his vehicle under control, patrolman Thurman Burns said.

Witnesses told police Berry's vehicle, which was traveling east on Malone, was over the center line when the collision occurred. The James vehicle was traveling west on Malone. Both vehicles were heavily damaged.

Berry told police that he was avoiding another pickup truck, which pulled in front of him, just before the accident occurred.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Do the Negroes in the United States really desire to return to slavery?

Trading the white masters they had before the Civil War for the United States Government as the master.

During the days of slavery they were taken care of by the white masters from the cradle to the grave.

Some had good masters and some had bad masters.

Will not the same thing happen under the benevolence of Uncle Sam.

Some of his regulations will be good and some of them will not be good.

Not all of the Negroes want everything given to them.

We know many of them who are honest, hard working citizens.

We also know many who think that A.D.C. and direct relief are a way of life. Who will not take jobs when offered.

Why should LBJ call on a committee to find out the cause.

We know the cause. It is the assinine promises made by the politicians when they know at the time the promises were made they could not be fulfilled overnight, but would be a matter of generations.

Did they tell the Negroes this. No, they did not.

We thank the Lord every night for the Negro citizens of Sikeston. They are of the best, not the worse.

VIET-WRONGS: That last anti-Vietnam war spectacle in Washington, D.C., partly engineered by Dr. Benjamin Spock and Norman Thomas, was something to behold as was the reporting of it. The day was beautiful: the sky was magically swept clear of rain clouds by 10 a.m. because the Rain God was pacified. The Washington Post (whose idea of editorial excellence was demonstrated when it pontificated on the good fortune of Americans to have had Tito as a guest in this country) reported on the good personal appearance of the Peacenik marchers. This suggests there were two crowds of 20,000 or more, because two staffers wandered among the bearded, jobhpurred, tennis-shoed, shaggy-maned, flowing-haired, unpressed, garb-wrinkled, sullen-faced multitude of "peace-lovers" and gasped, as much at the appearance of the know-nothing teenagers as at the mothers whose five-year-old children carried signs. Several nonexamples of American youth complained that some of their Vietcong flags had been snatched from them and were told by the police to report the theft "to another precinct." It was much more peaceful a march than a sensible one, owing to excellent group orientation. The tranquility of the marching thousands suggests that the movement will try to earn favor by good behavior; another example of congenitally bad reasoning, for bad ideas don't become good ones because of a spurious public relations campaign.

This weird collection of know-nothing pacifists, beatniks, pediatricians, socialists, communists and brainless bleeding hearts, it must be noted, has yet to explain why the atrocities and terror of the Vietcong - and the communist government their victory would bring - are better than the way of life the South Vietnamese have chosen to defend. They are full of sound and fury, but they signify nothing. Theirs is a classic demonstration all right - one of collective ignorance liberally sprinkled with subversive influence.

During the "demonstration," the other side behaved admirably. Not a one of its members burned a single copy of Dr. Spock's famous baby book.

GUEST EDITORIAL

By prominent publisher William I. Nichols, discussing recent race riots with Miss Martha Deane, on her radio program July 18:

"When it comes to the causes of today's unrest, I think a lot of it comes under the heading of what sociologists call "the revolution of rising expectations," which is causing so much unrest in so-called underprivileged areas, both here and abroad. Everywhere people are hearing about economic miracles and so they want to share in the new affluence - everybody, everywhere, and all at once. But, unfortunately, it doesn't work out that way. The whole history of minority groups in America shows that progress can be made but it takes patience and work. And it happens gradually."

With the exception of Vietnam this country's foreign and domestic policy appears to be to meekly submit to any form of persistent pressure.

This is notably true in the Canal Zone.

The Johnson administration is trying to get the Senate to ratify a proposed new treaty with the Republic of Panama. The proposal embodies the spirit of giveaway and submissiveness.

It would give up this country's sovereignty over the Canal Zone, which has prevailed since the canal was opened in 1914.

Another characteristic of the Great Society is present. The annual tribute to Panama would be increased steeply.

Pouring more money into that country will not increase the declining prestige the United States has there.

It's not just a matter of dollars although they won't solve anything.

The basic flaw in the proposal is that it would open the way for some anti-American or pro-Communist to seize control of the canal as Egyptian Dictator G.A. Nasser did the Suez.

What an opportunity this would present Cuban Dictator Fidel Castro in Cuba for a major subversion coup in this hemisphere.

Another federal handout would be intolerable in this dangerous period in the Cold War when the Vietnam war isn't rapidly being won to put it mildly.

The Middle East sits on a powder keg with Russia rapidly rearming the Arab countries for another attempt to eliminate Israel and with persistent open insurrection, anarchy and armed rebellion in the streets of this country's major cities.

Missourians opposed to this betrayal of United States interests should lose no time in expressing their opposition to U.S. Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long in the Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C.

Congress should go right ahead and eliminate the Subversives Activities Control Board, Simon McHugh, 29, and all. The country needs neither.

Bobby Baker might still be wheeling and dealing in and out of Washington, D.C., if it weren't for nationwide publicity exposing his activities.

Bobby was a protege of President Lyndon B. Johnson. So is Simon.

Mr. and Mrs. McHugh are among those intimates in whose presence the president is comfortable and relaxed. Mrs. McHugh is a favorite former secretary of the president. The McHughs were recent visitors at the Texas ranch.

There is no evidence to justify any belief that McHugh packs anything approaching the ability to earn $26,000-a-year he is being paid now unless it is that there are no work or duties connected with it. On that basis anyone could qualify.

McHugh hasn't had much experience in any civilian endeavor but in the real estate business his friends say that he "lost a lot of money."

That was before he joined the federal bureaucracy. Since then times have been kinder to him.

The White House insists that he is able and loyal" but there is quite a credibility gap between the Pennsylvania Avenue residence and the rest of the American people at other addresses. Many of whom eary their money.

The board to which McHugh was appointed hasn't done anything in the past 20 months because the United States supreme court ruled that most of what it had been doing before was unconstitutional.

The Wall Street Journal exposed the elevation of the 29-year-old accountant to the soft government job paying $26,000 a year and the White House propaganda ministry immediately labeled it a "hatchet job."

Of course that is what it was but the task demands a heavy handed meat-ax approach.

Many of the Great Society bureaus need to be weeded out and cut back in the interests of achieving a sounder national economic base.

Money still doens't grow on trees in this country-not even in Texas.

A fine place to start would be to eliminate the Subversive Activities Control Board. The good work could go on from there.

Among the Casualties

AUGUST 2 - WEDNESDAY

CHIEF SEATTLE DAY, Aug. 2-4. Indian festival, Suquamish, Wash.

Drivers were urged today to avoid extremes of speed, either above or greatly below posted limits.

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol particularly urged drivers to adjust their speed to the prevailing conditions, not only by slowing down when conditions are hazardous, but also by speeding up, not to exceed the speed limit, when it is safe to do so. The driver who is being passed continually is driving at an abnormal slow speed which increases his chances of being involved in an accident.

"Posted speed limits indicate the speed at which the majority of people can safely drive under favorable conditions," Hockaday said. "It is well-known that it is illegal to go over the speed limit, but it is also illegal and dangerous to drive greatly under the speed limit except when necessary because of conditions. On some highways, minimum speed limits have been posted as a measure to expedite traffic and to minimize the danger of rear-end collisions caused by a driver misjudging his rate of overtaking a slower vehicle."

The Patrol Superintendent pointed out that drivers are required to keep to the right so that other traffic can pass freely. However, on a two-lane road where passing is difficult, the driver going even five miles per hour under the speed limit can soon have a long line of vehicles following him. The chance of an accident increases tremendously in this congestion.

"If you want to drive abnormally slow, you should avoid main roads, but on any road you must be aware of the effects of your slow driving on others," Hockaday continued. "Keep well to the right to give faster traffic as much room to get by as possible. Or, pull off the road periodically to let accumulated traffic pass. If all else fails, speed up to match the general flow of traffic within the speed limit."

Then the husband was called to the phone. After he had left the room, the daughter turned to her mother and said: "Mother, I wish that you could teach Daddy to say 'fertilizer' instead of that awful word 'manure'. It just isn't dignified."

MAN'S STOREHOUSE OF ACHIEVEMENT

The sounds and symbols of Greece and Rome survived. Because they survived they were able to give today's Western culture both the fabric and the utterances of its present tongues. Because they survived, they preserved for the world a priceless treasure - a storehouse of literary and scientific achievements; a just and workable jurisprudence; a detailed history of how empires were built and allowed to erode.

But while Greek and Latin lived, other languages were erased from the minds of those who survived dying cultures. So it was with one of the most majestic civilizations of all time. It was not until 1799 that man found the key that finally enabled archealogists to translate the heiroglyphics of a civilization more ancient than either Greece or Rome -- that of Egypt.

The key was a small stone found by chance at the western or "rosetta" mouth of the Nile. Here a French officer found a basalt stele inscribed with a decree by ancient priests announcing their support of Ptolemy V Epiphanes. The decree was inscribed not only in heiroglyphic, but in demotic and Greek as well. The Rosetta Stone unlocked the hitherto undescipherable inscriptions on the ancient monuments of Egypt. Once again the tombs sang out the proclamations of immortality of the mighty Pharaohs who had caused them to be erected.

Other monuments from the past remain silent. The magnificent pyramids, cities and temples built and abandoned by the mysterious Mayans in Central America still stand mute before the uncomprehending gazes of archeaologist and tourist alike. No Rosetta Stone has been uncovered to translate the strangely fascinating hieroglyphics of a culture not quite dead when the Conquistadores came upon it. Unless that key is found, an ancient order's mighty effort to achieve immortality will have been in vain.

LOCAL INITIATIVE GOES TO WORK

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, has provided inspiring proof that local intiative is far from a thing of the past. There, a major drug girm is cooperating with local government authorities, in a program designed to rehabilitate a 20-block housing blight. Like blighted zones in other cities, the area was once fashionable, with row houses three and four stories high. Gradually decay set in, and with it came disease, delinquency and despair.

To begin with, the drug firm whose headquarters is nearby established Information Service Centers to tell people where they can get help with food, clothing, jobs, education, training, debt problems and so forth. Finally, the company tackled the housing problem, in cooperation with the City Planning Commission. It agreed to pay a substantial share of the interest cost on loans to developers for acquiring properties and rehabilitating old homes.

The results of these efforts are impressive. As each house is remodeled, residents of the neighborhood are moved in, and already the "fallout" from the program is evident. Other residents are beginning to clean up and improve their own properties.

A spokesman for the drug firm observed, "At this moment prospects are bright that industry and government can join hands successfully to try and find a solution to a critical community problem." So far as is known, the Philadelphia program is unique, but it points the way for similar projects in other cities.

SLACKS - HIS YEAR'S STAR!

If you thought you saw many more different slack styles and colors last year, you are right. Slacks accounted for about 33 1/3 of all sportswear bought by men, young and old. And the reason was -- in the simples of terms - FASHION. It wasn't too long ago that you had a choice of a pair of gray flannels -- and not too much else. New colors, uninhibited patterns and new-and-revived textures all contributed to the appeal and popularity of the offerings in the stores. This year, '67, there is even great variety -- and the average man's wardrobe of slacks will probably be larger, brighter and more diversified than in '66.

HOW TO AVOID FRUSTRATION

Often the biggest problem a firm believer in freedom has to meet is that of overcoming a feeling of frustration. There is a sure way to avoiding frustration. That is to do something for freedom's cause every day.

There is plenty to do. If the activities open to the average American interested in saving freedom seem insignificant, they are not at all when lumped together with the work of other active freedomists.

The letter written on a freedom subject to a newspaper, the word of praise uttered to the merchant who lets his patriotism show in his advertising, the applause given a speaker who makes a point for Americanism, the introduction of points for freedom into ordinary conversation - all these are activities that can be carried on by any individual. Each may seem of small value in itself, but all of them added together can exert a steady and growing force.

Above all else, the freedomist should promote the idea of "Each one teach one." This concept can move mountains. Even the most pessimistic must conclude that there can hardly be fewer than two million patriots in the United States. If each of these three months would persuade one other to become active in the expansion of freedom, amazing results would follow. In six months America could boast eight million active patriots. In one year there would be 32 million working for freedom - almost half the number who vote in a presidential election. The freedom fighter who refuses to be frustrated can save the day for our country. HLH

NEW YORK (AP) — This may be a typical conversation in the future:

Guest: "My, what a delicious stew. Where do you get such wonderful beef?"

Hostess: "Oh, it's not made of beef. I simply put in parts of our old automobile."

Guest: "The fenders?"

Hostess: "No. The fenders on that particular car model are a bit tough, so I ground them up as hamburger for our dog. For the stew I used mostly the dashboard and choice filets from the brake bands. They are ever so much more tender."

Sounds far-fetched? Well, at the moment it is. But perhaps not for long.

According to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, scientists of the Ralston-Purina Co. have raised the possibility of making airplanes and spacecraft with edible portions made of soybean products.

They would keep from starvation astronauts marooned on the moon or plane pilots stranded after crash landings in remote areas of the earth.

The idea is fascinating. But why limit it merely to parts of aircraft and space capsules?

As most husbands who have ever eaten a precooked and frozen television dinner know, practically anything can be made edible today. Modern chemistry can make almost any substance palatable, particularly if you salt it enough and cover it with a few inches of catsup.

This raises the possibility of solving forever one of the biggest problems facing today's civilization: how to keep it from being covered up by its own debris.

We are in danger today of being strangled by the things we don't consume but can't seem quite able to get rid of entirely. Our wastebaskets and garbage cans are stuffed with paper wrapping and nonreturnable bottles, those cardboard sheets the laundry puts in shirts, that clinging filmy plastic the cleaner puts around suits and dresses.

Our closets are full of wire paper hangers that breed and multiple in the dark faster than we can throw them away.

Discarded plastic detergent containers bob in our lakes and rivers. Millions of worn-out automobiles, in sad cemeteries of the machine age, despoil our our lovely countryside. Beer cans litter shoulders and ditches bordering every highway.

Why? Simply because it isn't edible.

Why can't science concentrate on making them out of a low-caloric, tasty protein fiber? All that would be required would be the shifting around of a few molecules here and there to change one substance into another.

Think how much money you'd save if you could pour milk over the chopped-up container it came in and eat the crunchy container as a breakfast food.

Wouldn't it be nice if, after draining a can of beer, you could munch on the can as if it were a cracker or a cookie?

The same thing could be done with most furniture, draperies and clothing. They could be made edible, too.

"You want a new dress, dear? Not until you eat the old one."

As a gesture to international good will, science might even develop edible casings for hydrogen bombs. Then, at a given signal, the inhabitants of every nation might hold a vast world picnic at which they'd eat the bomb casings en masse, thus giving mankind, for the first time in its history, peace and a full stomach simultaneously.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Canadians, who were flabbergasted over President De Gaulle's recent behavior, will be interested in reading an account of his behavior half a century ago.

An account appears in Minute of May 26, 1966, a French paper critical of De Gaulle, though similar stories have appeared in pro-Gaullist newspapers. Source for the story is the diary of Capt. Robert Destouches, commander of the 9th Company, 110th Infantry, French army, whom De Gaulle relieved at Verdun; also Lt. Casimir Albrecht, the German officer who took De Gaulle prisoner.

On August 15, 1914, approximately two weeks after World War I started, De Gaulle was wounded in the arm, near Dinan. The wound was superficial, and he recovered quickly, then served in a regiment near Cognac where there was little action. There he was stricken with scarlet fever, and it was 19 months before he got into the front lines at Verdun, one of the fiercest fronts of World War I.

At that time De Gaulle was sent to command the 9th Company of the 110th Infantry regiment, which had lost 1,000 men and 20 officers.

Capt. Destouches, whom he relieved, reports in his diary: "The captain who came to relieve me presented himself, swagger stick in his hand, gloves like fresh butter, with the air of a conquerer in a neat uniform as if he were going for a walk on the boulevard.

"De Gaulle," said Destouches, "was stupified that there were neither rows of barbed wire nor organized trenches nor shelters for the troops and that this terrain did not resemble at all that which he had occupied in the Aisne Province." Destouches said that to compare the two was crazy, as Aisne had no real action.

"I told him that for three days we had nothing but attacks and not a single article of engineering supplies -- no shovels or picks and had not received a single centimeter of barbed wire and that the sector was accordingly not well organized."

WHITE FLAG APPEARS

On March 2, 1916, there was a German attack.

German Lieutenant Albrecht, who is alive today and who captured De Gaulle, has given the following account of what happened.

"During the attack on the morning of the 2nd of March we concentrated our fire on what appeared to be a command post. After half an hour I saw coming out of a hole some vaguely white cloth looking like a shirt fastened to a bayonet. I then ordered the shooting to stop. Then several French soldiers appeared, and I noticed particularly the officer that commanded them because he was so tall and he appeared to be haggard and shaky. So I addressed myself to him, 'Gentlemen, it is very sad all these dead,' and the tall French captain replied, 'Yes, it is true,' and he handed me his belt and his pistol."

For this alleged bravery De Gaulle was awarded a citation which reads in part: "Capt. De Gaulle led his men in a furious assault, and in a hand-to-hand fight, the only solution that he judged compatible with his feeling of military honor, fell in the Melee."

The question arises as to why De Gaulle was given this citation for bravery when actually he surrendered.

What happened was that after De Gaulle was taken prisoner there was no communication between his company and regimental headquarters. The two French liaison agents had been killed. A French bugler reported having seen the tall captain of the 9th Company fall; therefore, Col. Voudhors of De Gaulle's regiment thought De Gaulle had been killed along with the Major of the regiment, and asked for a citation to be awarded posthumously to these two officers.

General Petain, who had known and liked De Gaulle, went along with the recommendation and awarded the citation while De Gaulle was in a German officers prison camp.

CAMBRIDGE IN LIMELIGHT

An interesting chain of events preceded the outbreak of violence in Cambridge, Md., which ever since the departure of Negro leader Gloria Richardson has been quiet.

Miss Richardson left Cambridge after many stormy months of 1963-64 to become Mrs. Dandridge. Since that time she dropped almost completely out of the civil rights limelight. With her departure, Cambridge also dropped out of the limelight.

Last spring however, Gloria Richardson, now Mrs. Dandridge, turned up on Bimini Island to consult with Adam Clayton Powell. She had two reasons for the visit:

First, she wanted to help her husband, a free lance photographer, get an exclusive story from Powell for Life magazine. This failed.

Second, she asked Powell's advice on how to get into the forefront in the civil rights movement. One of her ideas was to write. Adam's answer was crushing.

"Nobody would buy it," he said. "They don't know you anymore."

Mrs. Dandridge brightened up somewhat when he added, "You might try a magazine article tied to black power."

Last week, Gloria Richardson Dandridge was sitting beside SNCC leader Rap Brown at the Newark black power conference. On her other side was Omar Ahmed, director of the East Harlem Corps. Apparently she was taking Adam's advice about getting back into the black power movement.

And some people think that Rap Brown may have taken her advice in regard to Cambridge, Md. At any rate, Rap Brown left Newark immediately following the black power meeting, and headed for Cambridge, Md., where within hours that city exploded.

Cambridge and Gloria both got back in the limelight. That limelight, however, burned approximately two blocks of Negro homes.

Lovely Witch Tells Which Wish She Would Wish

EDITOR'S NOTE — Which wish would a witch wish? Elizabeth Montgomery offers a few suggestions, based on her on-camera experience as "Samantha. If the nose knows, she'd wish for a big one.

By Elizabeth Montgomery
For Cynthia Lowry

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of the questions I am most frequently asked is, "If you could make wishes come true by twitching your nose, what would you wish for?

As a result of playing Samantha in "Bewitched" people have flattered me by thinking that I am an authority on the subject.

All right, I'll try to answer the question.

If I had the power, I don't think I'd use it any more than Samantha does on the show. Bill, my husband, William Asher, producer-director of "Bewitched", wouldn't let me anyway, just as Darrin doesn't allow Sam to indulge herself.

My nose is fairly small and I thus would have to twitch up fairly small things. If I had Jimmy Durante's nose, my capabilities could probably arise to untold heights. Come to think of it, after watching him I am not sure that Mr. Durante isn't a warlock— a male witch— and one of the most charming!

I would be content to twitch over little things, little things that annoy me. I would have a constant supply of well-sharpened pencils. There would always be a parking place waiting for me. Any puppy coming into the home would be instantly housebroken. There would be no weeds in the garden, no brown spots on the lawn, no dirty dishes in the kitchen.

There would be no such things as wet paint, nor would it rain until at least two days after the car— or broomstick— has been washed. And every time I picked up a quarter, it would be one of those nice solid, old-fashioned silver quarters. Copper is for pennies.

There's one more question that the persistent questioner inevitably comes to. What would I do if I had just one twitch? That, of course, is the oldest children's game of all.

One twitch? All right. If there were something really marvelous I could do for my favorite artist, Andrew Wyeth, that he couldn't do for himself, I'd do it. And then, hopefully, he might give me just one of his paintings in return.

There is, of course, one little drawback to all this. And I really think it's just as well. I can't really twitch. Or can I?

Sixth Straight Win

Cards Jolt Second Place Cubs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis powered its way past the Cubs, 9-2, Monday in Chicago to gain a 4½ game lead in the National League pennant race.

Lou Brock and Orlando Cepeda drove in seven of the St. Louis runs. Each had a three-run homer and Brock added a sacrifice fly.

Roger Maris drove in another run on a sacrifice fly and Curt Flood singled to drive in one run in the seventh.

Cepeda's homer came in the sixth and Brock's in the eigith.

Ray Washburn got credit for the victory but needed help over the last one and two-thirds innings from Hal Woodeshick. Washburn's record is now seven and four. Rich Nye was the loser.

St. Louis hopes to increase its lead again today at the expense of the second place Cubs. Nelson Briles started for the Cards and Ferguson Jenkings for Chicago.

Kansas City goes to Boston for a twi-night doubleheader with Chuck Dobson and Jack Sanford scheduled to start for the A's and Dave Moorehead and Jim Lonborg for the Red Sox.

Clock-fancier Mike McCormick isn't missing a tick in his second time around for the San Francisco Giants.

Bo Belinsky, never much of a clock-watcher, finally is making time for the Houston Astros and they figure it's better late than never.

McCormick, who shifted his collection of antique timepieces from Washington to San Francisco when the Giants reacquired him in a winter trade, became the National League's first 14-game winner Monday when Jack Hiatt's grand slam pinch homer gave him an 8-4 victory over Pittsburgh.

Belinsky, whose watch stopped several times in Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Houston when the midnight curfew was at hand, held the New York Mets to two singles and beat them 3-2 Monday night with ninth-inning help from Larry Sherry as the Astros stretched their season-high winning streak to seven games.

In other National League games Atlanta trimmed Cincinnati 5-2 and Philadelphia downed Los Angeles 4-2 in 11 innings.

McCormick, who started with the Giants in New York 11 years ago at the age of 18 and made his way back into their starting rotation after stopovers in Baltimore and Washington and a long bout with arm trouble, fought the Pirates to a 4-4 standstill through eight innings.

In the bottom of the eighth Hiatt pinch hit for McCormick and cleared the bases with his homer off reliever Elroy Face.

McCormick, 14-5 is tied for the major league victory lead with Jim Lonborg of the Red Sox.

The 28-year-old southpaw has 30 clocks on display in his suburban San Francisco home.

Belinsky, who was out of time after being drafted by the Astros from San Diego of the Pacific Coast League last November, brought his record to 3-6 and lowered his blown-up ERA to 4.76 by stymying the Mets despite a shaky start.

The flamboyant left-hander was clipped for two runs in the first inning on two walks, an error, Tommy Davis' single and a bases-loaded wild pitch.

Belinsky issued a two-out walk in the second, then set down 19 straight batters before the ninth. After walking Ron Swoboda, Bo was lifted and Sherry came in to snuff out the threat.

Ron Davis' leadoff homer triggered a two-run Houston burst in the first inning and Bob Lillis' run-scoring single in the fourth broke the 2-2 tie.

The Braves struck for three runs in the fourth inning and added two more in the fifth on Clete Boyer's 15th homer in snapping a three-game losing string and moving past Cincinnati into third place. Knuckle-baller Phil Niekro went the distance for Atlanta, scattering nine hits.

Pinch hitter Tony Taylor singled home the tie-breaking run in the 11th inning at Los Angeles and pinch hitter Billy Cowan's sacrifice fly gave the Phillies an insurance run as they ended the Dodgers' four-game win string. Gene Oliver homered for Philadelphia and singled to start the 11th inning rally.

Cards Have Comedians, Singers, Cheerleaders That Can Play Ball

CHICAGO AP -- The guy with a crew cut, stripped except for his bright red undershirt, sat back on a stack of foot lockers completely relaxed.

Roger Maris' keen, grey eyes glanced from Curt Flood to Lou Brock to Orlando Cepeda.

Flood was talking about his four straight hits and how good it was to be back in the lineup after an extended layoff because of an injury. Brock talked about his first homer in nearly two months and Cepeda about how happy he is to be a member of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cardinals had won their sixth straight game in a 9-2 romp over the Chicago Cubs Monday and extended their lead to 4½ games, the biggest margin in the National League since June 6 when Cincinnati held the same advantage over the Cardinals.

They sang in the showers. They led cheers in a boisterous dressing room. And whenever they explained their success, the name of Roger Maris was whispered.

Manager Red Schoendist, explaining the recent Cardinal success against lefthanders, said: "Maris. Earlier in the season he had a bad foot and I kept him out against lefthanders and rested him in doubleheaders.

"Recently we haven't had too many doubleheaders and I've kept Roger in against everyone. He's done a great job. But then they all have."

Brock calls Maris "the pulse we didn't have last year. He's not the Roger Maris I had read about. That Roger Maris doesn't exist. This guy is great. He gives us another big bat but he makes the big plays in the field."

Maris, the guy who hit 61 home runs for the New York Yankees in 1961 and then came close to quitting baseball, came out of the shower smiling.

"What a great bunch of guys," he said. "Listen to 'em. We have comedians, singers, cheerleaders but they all can play ball. This club has everything a team needs to win a pennant.

"Sure, we can win the pennant," continued Maris. "There's enough hitting, enough pitching and plenty of speed. But don't forget, to win a pennant you need the breaks. Maybe we're getting them. We've really pulled ahead this week and we've done it by beating the clubs closest to us."

LIBERTY, Mo. AP -- Sloppy was the term that Coach Hank Stram said of Monday's workout by the Kansas City Chiefs, who returned to one-a-day drills after about two weeks of twice daily practice sessions.

Stram expressed his displeasure and said execution and concentration was very poor. He warned that if things didn't improve today the squad would revert to two-a-day practices.

Stram said of the mid-90's heat that the team can't be champions worrying about the heat. "Champions just worry about doing what they have to do to win."

The Chiefs asked waivers on two rookies, flanker George Anderson of Southern University and defensive back Tandy Holmes of Pepperdine.

PITCHING -- Lee Stange, Red Sox, fired 6 2-3 perfect innings and wound up with a three-hitter in blanking Minnesota 4-0.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. AP -- A synthetic surface similar to that in the Houston Astrodome may soon make lawn tennis about as popular as crabgrass.

The product was on display Monday at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club as the week-long Eastern Grass Courts Championships got under way.

Grass gave lawn tennis its name but "maintenance of grass courts is such a headache," according to Don Hobart, chairman of the tournament. "There's so much costly labor involved and the playing season is so short."

The Monsanto Chemical Co., which astroturfs the Astrodome, has put a test court of synthetic green "grass" over one of the clay courts here. Hobart goes to great lengths to point out that it's only a test but it could be the beginning of the end for the grass tennis court.

"I can foresee this, or something like it, replacing all the grass courts at the club eventually," Hobart admits.

The synthetic court was placed down in 15-foot-wide strips which are glued together. It can be sprayed with a resinlike substance which can vary the speed of the court. The only maintenance it requires is an occasional vacuum cleaning.

Benton Clips Wyatt In Tourney Opener

CHARLESTON -- The eight-team first annual Charleston Little League baseball tournament opened with Benton and Cairo posting first round wins. Benton clipped 8-4 and Cairo whipped Bertrand 9-1.

Tournament action resumes tonight with the Sikeston All-Stars meeting Dexter at 7 p.m. followed at 8:30 by the Charleston-Morehouse game.

Benton rode a three-hit pitching performance by Jim Wade into the semi-finals of the tournament as Wade allowed four runs on three hits, giving up seven walks and striking out eight.

Benton tallied eight runs on 10 hits, including two walks as four players collected two hits apiece in leading the offensive attack.

Benton scored in every inning but the first adding three in the second, one in the third, two runs each in the fourth and fifth innings.

Wyatt jumped out into the lead in the top of the second only to fall back in the bottom half. Its last three tallies came in the sixth inning.

Butch Smoot was the big hitter for Wyatt, banging out two doubles while teammate, Larry Miller, collected the only other Wyatt hit, another double.

Jim Taylor's legs begin a run for further glory this week. Larry Morris' legs have carried him to the end of a career.

Taylor will be running from his familiar fullback position Wednesday night in the National Football League's first preseason exhibition, but his uniform and teammates will be different.

For the first time since turning pro in 1958, Taylor will not be playing for powerful Green Bay, but for the New Orleans Saints, the expansion team which acquired him from the Packers during the off-season.

Morris, who starred as a linebacker with the Chicago Bears, before going to the Atlanta Falcons last year, told the Falcons Monday that he was retiring because his legs weren't in top shape and he didn't have the speed and quickness needed to help the club. He missed most of 1966 season with a leg injury.

Saints' Coach Tom Fears named eight other NFL veterans besides Taylor Monday to start on offense Wednesday night against the Los Angeles Rams at Anaheim. The two rookies will be halfback Don McCall of Southern California and guard Del Williams from Florida State.

WASHINGTON AP -- Larry Stotts, Newton, Kan., scored a total of 1,081 points to tie for fifth place in the boys scratch division of the All - American Youth Bowling championships here Monday.

The career of another veteran, defensive tackle Riley Gunnels of Pittsburgh, apparently has ended. The 30-year-old Gunnels, a seven-year veteran, was hospitalized last week in Pittsburgh for a kidney disorder, and Monday was transferred to an Atlanta hospital for further treatment.

The NFL Cleveland Browns put two of their five holdout players - offensive tackle John Brown and linebacker Sid Williams - on waivers. The other holdouts are fullback Leroy Kelly, Mike Howell and John Wooten.

Atlanta asked waivers on defensive back Carl Silverstri and flanker Tom Hutchinson.

Defensive tackle John McDowell was waived by the NFL St. Louis Cardinals, the NFL New York Giants cut linebacker Stan Sczurek, flanker Al Snyder and defensive end Bill Matan.

Baltimore of the NFL wavied running back Jim Todd, while San Diego of the American Football League dropped safety John McGeever and the AFL New York Jets wavied defensive back Arnie Simkus and flanker Earl Christy.

Sikeston's 12th Annual

Aces, New Madrid Take First Round Victories

New Madrid and the Sikeston Aces opened the 12th Annual Sikeston invitational Little League baseball tournament for nine and ten year olds last night with victories.

Sikeston's Aces took an 18-1 win from Bloomfield as Mark Becker hurled a no-hitter.

New Madrid edged Chaffee 14-12.

Action resumes tonight in the 12-team tournament with Illmo-Scott City meeting Richland in the 7 p.m. opener followed at 8:30 p.m. by the Sikeston All-Stars' appearance against Oran.

Finals are set for Saturday night.

Brad Shain led a 16-hit Sikeston attack that produced 18 runs with three hits, including a double while teammate Dewayne Self had two hits, both doubles.

The Aces raced 12 men around the bags in the first inning and eased to their opening game triumph.

Bloomfield tallied its first and only run in the bottom half of the first inning. Ricky Underwood crossed the plate after reaching first on an error and advanced to second on Ronnie Rounsaville's walk and an error by the first basemen.

New Madrid jumped into a 7-0 lead in the bottom half of the first inning and added two more scores in the second for an 9-0 lead.

The first two innings, Girvin Ellington, New Madrid hurler, put the side down in order but had trouble in the third, giving up four runs and issued two more in the fourth and six in the fifth, allowing Chaffee to take the lead.

Eugene Robins pitched the last half of the fifth and put the side down, giving New Madrid a 12-9 deficit going into the bottom half of the fifth.

New Madrid rallied for the win with five tallies in the fifth and gave Robins the victory as New Madrid was able to tally only three hits, including Randy Davis' double.

David McConnell led the seven-hit Chaffee attack with two hits, a double and triple.

"THE DETECTIVE" IS AN IMMEDIATE SUCCESS FOR AVON

Already Back to Press #1 Bestseller

On May 1st, Avon Books launched the first paperback edition of "The Detective" with the biggest initial printing in the firm's history - over 800,000 copies - and a publicity and promotion campaign that included a personal appearance tour by the author, Roderick Thorp. The first sales figures reported in to Avon showed "The Detective" to be an immediate bestseller, and a second printing was rushed out two weeks after the first. Paperback bestseller lists across the country verified the Avon sales reports. "The Dectective" appeared on the lists almost immediately after publication, reaching the $1 spot in New York and Chicago. It was listed as #1 nationally in newsstand sales by Bestsellers Magazine.

Avon's bestselling paperback edition marks the second phase of the remarkable success story of "The Detective," Rod Thorp's novel of marriage, sex, and crime. In April, 1966, Avon bought the reprint rights from Dial Press for $250,000; in May, the hardcover edition was published; in June, the book appeared as the Literary Guild selection; and, by July, it was the #1 bestseller in ten cities from Boston to San Francisco. To date, the book has sold over 365,000 hardcover copies, including book club sales. In October, Twentieth Century-Fox will start shooting the movie version, starring Frank Sinatra in the title role.

Vacationers Spent $722 Million in State

JEFFERSON CITY -- Vacationers in Missouri spent $721.7 million last year, an increase of $88 million or 13 per cent over the record 1965 season, according to a report released today by the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

Of the total figure, $194.7 million or 27 percent was spent by Missourians vacationing in their home state while over 20 million out - of - state visitors spent $527 million.

Jackson County led the way in total tourist dollars, according to the report, with more than $130 million or 18.4 percent of the total tourist trade in Missouri.

The most tourism - oriented county in Missouri was Camden where 40 percent of the total retail sales came from tourist business. Taney County was second for 9.8 per cent of all retail sales in Missouri last year.

The study indicates that 73 per cent of the year's total tourist business was done in the summer months of June, July and August. Fall was the next best season with 15 per cent of the 1966 business.

Henry Maddox, director of the Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, said he is pleased to know that Missouri's tourism business is continuing to grow at a rapid pace. "Missouri has been in the tourist business for many years and has been a popular recreation area for a long time. We feel that a 13 per cent increase in a mature segment of the state's economy is a major accomplishment for the industry."

E. B. Kinder, director of the recreation - travel section of the division, said he too is happy with the results of the study. "This is the third year that we have used the same criteria and methods to measure the state's tourist business. We feel that these measurements are accurate and as objective as possible. In these three years we have seen income from the tourist industry increase from $560.2 million to $721.7 million. This is real progress."

Kinder also pointed out that these figures cover only the tourist business and not the entire travel serving industry. He said that the travel serving industry in Missouri in 1966 totaled almost $1.5 billion with tourism representing 49 percent of the total.

"Conventions, business travel, and travelers who enter Missouri but do not stay in the state overnight are part of the travel serving industry but are not considered tourists. Some states include them in their 'tourism' figure but we do not," Kinder said.

The study indicates that Illinois provided Missouri with the greatest number of tourists, followed by Kansas, California, Texas, Iowa, Oklahoma and Indiana. Over 90 per cent came by car and 40 percent of the total stayed in motels. Camping was second on the list of places of lodging with 21.8 percent, and 20.6 percent stayed with friends or relatives.

General sightseeing was the favorite activity, lodging took the greatest share of the tourist's dollar, 32 cents, and food was second at 27 cents.

The study was done by John Kleindienst, assistant director of the travel - recreation section.

Medicaid to Increase Data Processing Load

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Experts decided Monday a large central data processing unit may be necessary by next Dec. 1 when the Division of Welfare starts processing increased claims under the new Medicaid laws.

The division now processes 87,000 state and federal transactions a month but that number is expected to increase to 800,000 when Medicaid transactions are started.

A team of business consultants conferred with state officials on the problem Monday.

MOISTURE ON CAR WINDOWS? ERASE IT. . . . . .

Know how moisture condensation inside your car can fog up all the windows? According to American Oil, there's an easy remedy: Use a blackboard eraser on them. You can carry it in the glove compartment. A few quick swipes with the absorbent felt and all windows are clear.

PRE-TRIP TIRE CHECK VITAL

Check your tires carefully before a vacation trip, the American Oil Women's Representative advises. The air pressure ordinarily recommended for a car is based on an average capacity of three or four passengers and no luggage. Vacation-bound cars tend to be more heavily loaded. With enough extra weight, you'll need more pressure in each tire. Your car own'ers manual or your serviceman can tell you the exact air pressure you need for the load you're carrying and the kind of driving you expect to do.

Phyllis McGinley in Sixpence in Her Shoe:

The ability to forget a sorrow is childhood's most enchanting feature. It can also be exasperating to the point of frenzy. Little girls return from school with their hearts broken in two by a friend's treachery or a teacher's injustice. They sob the afternoon through, refuse dinner and go to sleep on tear-soaked pillows. Novice mothers lie awake with the shared burden. Experienced ones know better. They realize that if you come down in the morning to renew your solacing you will meet - what? Refreshed, wholehearted offspring who can't understand what you're talking about. Beware of making childhood's griefs your own. They are no more lasting than soap bubbles.

In a Memphis, Tenn., newspaper this headline: "Heavy rains assure city's milk supply."

Letters to the Editor

July 28, 1967

The Honorable Paul C. Jones
House of Representatives
Washington D. C.
Dear Mr. Jones:

I have written you several times about matters that have developed and are developing in America.

It is my opinion that the average citizen of this Country has come to the end of his patience with this rioting and looting. This kind of lawlessness cannot and must not be tolerated any longer.

If this administration cannot adopt laws to cope with this situation, then an administration must be elected that can. This is the general feeling of the American people.

It appears that the present welfare system is greatly responsible for this mess. Many who are on welfare don't want work, and would not work is they had a job. This system must be revised. You know that the working people are about ready to revolt.

No one ever gave me a dime. The Bible says, "If a man will not work than he should eat." Some welfare is necessary. Our system is breaking down the morals and destroying the initiative of a great segment of our society.

Sincerely yours,
R. C. Martin

Nail Biting Girl Needs Professional Help

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a college student (male) who feels more than a little ashamed writing to you. For years I used to die laughing at some of those nutty letters that appeared in your column. Now I am choking on humble pie and taking my turn with the rest of the "nuts."

I am dating a great girl who has just about everything in the world going for her. She is bright, attractive and has a terrific sense of humor. The only thing that bothers me about this girl is that she bites her fingernails way down to the cuticle. Her nails are so chewed up that her fingers look almost deformed.

Would it do any good if I came right out and told her it would please me greatly if she overcame this ugly habit? Yes or no? - JOHN

Dear John: No. Asking her to overcome this ugly habit will not help. It would only make her more self-conscious. Nail biting is a symptom of an unresolved emotional problem. The girl needs to unload her frustrations and anxieties -- preferably on a professional ear. Let's hope she does so soon.

Dear Ann Landers: A faculty member at our university is a stamp collector. The only problem is he collects stamps from other people's mail before they get a chance to open it.

This sneaky little habit has led to considerable irritation among other faculty members and staff people who frequently find personal and business letters ripped open at the upper right hand corner.

If a person who worked in a clerical capacity did this he'd get read off in no uncertain terms. Certainly a double standard should not exist. Several of us know who the guilty party is, but we are reluctant to incur his animosity. Any suggestions? --ANOTHER PH.D.

Dear Friend: I am glad to note that you are a doctor of philosophy because your philosophy is unwell, and in need of a doctor.

Why don't you simply tell the clown to keep his hands off mail that doesn't belong to him? If he sees a stamp he wants he should have the courtesy to ask for it.

Dear Ann Landers: About the "mean" mother who insisted that her five children play in the rec room and declared the living room out of bounds because she wanted one room in perfect condition at all times: I observed a similar situation when I was a baby-sitter a few years ago. I, too, thought the mother was "mean" but I now see she was doing her children a favor. Those kids grew up with a healthy respect for orderliness and the rights of others.

Too often parents underestimate the intelligence of their children. Kids, very young kids, DO understand justice and respond to reasonable requests. They also love and appreciate parents who raise them with discipline. --- A.B.C.

Dear A.B.C.: Thanks for your support. I've said it before (like a hundred times) and I'll say it again. Discipline is a special kind of love. It says, "I love you enough to put forth the energy to insist that you behave." Children should not be allowed to play in every room in the house just because they feel like it. Mothers have rights too.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Discarded Ex-Husband Freed of Ailmony Pay

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Georgie was married to a beautiful girl and a good cook. Unfortunately they were two different women. And, when wife No. 2 discovered that Georgie was a bigamist, she lost no time in attempting to resurrect her former status.

Immediately, she informed her former husband that he could resume making his alimony payments to her that he had discontinued when she strolled down the aisle with Georgie.

"Since Georgie was already married," she pointed out, "he couldn't possibly have married me. Therefore, the marriage was like it never happened, and I'm still your lovely-dovey divorcee."

Once off the hook, however, the freedom-loving ex-husband revealed no inclination to jump back on.

"You roped me once, honey," he told her, "but you can't do it twice."

"Honey" thought otherwise, however, and took the matter to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you require the discarded ex-husband to resume his alimony payments?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that when a woman remarries, she elects to look toward her new spouse for support.

Therefore, even when she innocently enters into a bigamous marriage, she is thereafter precluded from receiving alimony -- from a prior husband. By remarrying, she relinquishes her right to alimony from him.

The Prayer

From

The Upper Room

He is the head of the body, the church . . .; that in all things he might have the preeminence. (Colossians 1:18)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, help us to realize the importance of being wholeheartedly true to Thy Son, always giving Him the supreme place in our Christian life. We thank Thee for the way of life which He taught and lived. Help us to be always worthy of our high calling in Him. In His name we pray. Amen.

Over the mailbox of a Michigan farm home: "Police dogs for sale. Will eat anything. Very fond of children."

TO THE EDITOR:

The need for electoral college reform is unquestioned; but the consequences to the nation's future would be tragic if the Electoral College system is destroyed by the direct vote system. In founding our Republic the need for the smaller States was recognized. The Electrocal College system has acted as an equalizer between densely populated and sparsely populated States by providing the latter a bonus of electoral college votes with an elector for each of the two U.S. Senators and one for each State's Representatives in the House. This bonus system which has been followed for the small States and new States would be destroyed by the Direct Vote Plan. The Congressional District Plan will cure the inequities in the Electoral College System while guaranteeing and perpetuating what the Founding Fathers sought to achieve through its formation.

Yours very truly,
Howard M. Russell

Legislative Pay Hike Delayed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson ruled today Missouri legislators cannot get their pay increase until Jan. 8, 1969, the first day of the next legislative session.

Legislators voted to increase their pay from $4,800 to $8,400 a year. They also appropriated $525,000 to make the increase effective when the law takes effect Oct. 13.

But the attorney general pointed out the constitutional amendment allowing legislators to fix their own rate of pay says:

"No law fixing the compensation of members of the General Assembly shall become effective until the first day of the regular session of the General Assembly next following the session at which the law was enacted."

Anderson told the state comptroller, John C. Vaughn, who asked for the opinion, all representatives and senators, including holdover senators, will be entitled to the pay increase on the first day of the 1969 session.

Under those circumstances, the $525,000 voted in the omnibus appropriations bill to make the increase immediate will revert to general revenue.

"who's gonna know?"

Since the beginning of time, men have excused their shortcomings and shortcuts by saying, "Who's gonna know?"

Is that alibi more common today? Some people think so.

You see it in everything, from the citizen who cheats on income tax, to the public official getting a pay-off. You see it in men who lack pride in workmanship, and find no joy in excellence.

In young people. Yes, and in their parents, too.

There are few of us, indeed, who aren't guilty of taking these ethical shortcuts. But the temptation to say "Who's gonna know?" diminishes directly in proportion to the real strength of our religious faith.

Your church or synagogue is where you build and strengthen your faith—and convictions. Worship this week—and put your faith to work.

Three More U.S. Planes Downed As Total Air Losses Reach 825

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the loss of three more American warplanes in combat and a Communist attack on an American ship.

The ground war lapsed back into a lull with no further fighting reported in the 10,000-man allied Operation Coronado II in the Mekong delta south of Saigon.

Two of the planes were lost over North Vietnam and the other in South Vietnam, bringing the total number of American warplanes reported lost in combat in the war to 825. This includes 629 over North Vietnam and 196 over the South. One of the losses over the North was an Air Force RF101 reconnaissance Voodoo and the pilot was missing. The other was a carrier-based Navy A4 Skyhawk; its pilot was rescued.

Communist fire brought down an Air Force F100 Supersabre fighter-bomber on a combat support mission over South Vietnam and the pilot was killed.

The U.S. Command also announced that six Vietnamese civilians were killed and 23 wounded by U.S. artillery and air strike mistakes. In a third such incident, a U.S. Army helicopter accidentally fired on troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 22 miles northeast of Saigon, killing one U.S. soldier and wounding seven.

A military spokesman said Viet Cong positions along the banks of the Long Tau River opened up on the American merchant ship Seatrain Florida 15 miles southeast of Saigon with small arms, automatic weapons and recoilless rifles, but the only damage was two punctured tires on a vehicle the ship was carrying.

Navy river patrol boats, army gunship helicopters and air force fighter-bombers swarmed over the area and killed four Viet Cong, the spokesman said.

The ship is owned by Seatrain Lines Inc. of New York.

Field commanders in the delta operation made estimates of enemy dead ranging from 150 to 350, but the U.S. Command put the figure at 200. The Saigon headquarters also reported 16 Americans killed and 59 wounded so far in the sweep. Unofficial reports from the field said 28 South Vietnamese soldiers had been killed and 50 wounded.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force jets swarmed over the Hanoi region and blasted a North Vietnamese army barracks, a rail siding and the Bac Giang electric power plant, 28 miles northeast of Hanoi.

U.S. Navy plans from the carriers Oriskany and Intrepid attacked cargo craft along North Vietnam's seacoast and other targets northeast of Haiphong, the main Communist port.

The carrier force on Yankee Station, in the Gulf of Tonkin, was temporarily reduced to two by the fire on the Forrestal last weekend and the departure of the Bon Homme Richard for normal leave. A replacement carrier, possibly the Constellation, was expected to join the Oriskany and Intrepid soon

Recovery Inc. Name For Housing Group

"Recovery Inc." was chosen as the name for a group of Sikeston ministers and laymen who are organizing to find ways of improving conditions in Sunset Addition and other areas of Sikeston where there is substandard housing.

The group is in the process of forming a corporation. A seven-man board of directors was appointed at a meeting Tuesday night at the city administration building.

Board members are the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter McGrane, Rev. Joseph Wagner, Kendall Sikes, Don Fulton, Dr. Robert Lively, Herman Paullus and Lee Shell.

Five committees were appointed at a meeting Thursday to handle functions expected to be needed to accomplish improvement of housing.

The chairman and co-chairman of each of the committees plus the Rev. Mr. Wagner and the Msgr. McGrane will make up the steering committee of the organization.

The major area of discussion Tuesday concerned how finances would be raised. Nothing was decided. One minister expressed opposition to setting an allotted sum to be raised by each church in Sikeston.

A tentative goal of $100,000 to $250,000 for operating funds was set at the original meeting of the group at a meeting July 19.

How the corporation will accumulate operating funds is expected to be the chief topic discussed at the next meeting, which will be set next week.

A. J. Day declined his appointment to the finance committee and Jack Hogan was appointed to replace him.

Mayor Sikes outlined a suggested scope for each committee at the meeting Tuesday. Further definitions of the scope of each committee is expected as the program continues.

Sikes ideas for each committee are: Community betterment,

1. To plan to assist Negroes to find jobs.
2. To report to the city any outside toilets and houses unfit for habitation.
3. To encourage home owners to have fire inspections conducted by the fire department.
4. To encourage a new effort for areas to clean up, fix up and paint up.
5. Suggest small loans to loan committee for paint and materials.
6. To sponsor a contest to encourage better living conditions.
7. To encourage law enforement.

Real estate committee:

1. Check offers of property for sale by white landowners.
2. Check ownership of empty lots and attempt to establish if good titles can be had.
3. Decide ownership of some of the worst shacks in Sunset.
4. Find satisfactory location for subdivision and price.
5. Explore plans that may fit in with present plans of some government agencies.

Loan committee:

1. Suggest to steering committee rate of interest to be charged borrowers.
2. Make rates and regulations of making loans.
3. Form collection of loans.
4. After all plans are formulated and passed by the steering committee, then loans should be made by this committee.

Finance committee:

1. Shall be responsible for raising money from the churches of Sikeston.
2. Work closely with the loan committee in collection of loans.
3. Be responsible for a set of books, which will be displayed to the steering committee at least four times a year.

Public relations:

1. Provide speakers to civic clubs to explain functions of the corporation.
2. Inform the public of the activities of the corporation.

Trade School To Start

The Semo Trade - Technical Institute will begin classes at the high school Sept. 11, despite low enrollment, Jim Cornett, director, said.

Four programs offered for two-year courses are drafting technology, electronics technology, printing technology and secretarial science.

Enrollments will be accepted until the starting date. Students have enrolled in each of the programs to be offered.

The program was in danger of being dropped after poor early response, Cornett said but the state department of education has authorized the instruction.

Response to a new program usually is poor initially, he said.

The program is designed for students, who must work while attending school. The program will operate from 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Both theory and practice will be included. Home work assignments of necessity will be kept light, for the students' benefit, Cornett said.

The school year is divided into two semesters. The first starts Sept. 11 and ends Jan. 12, 1968. The second semester starts Jan. 22 and ends May 17.

Cease-Fire Violations Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The cease-fire between Jordanian and Israeli troops was broken today with gunfire erupting across the Jordan River for the second straight day.

A Jordanian military commu-nique in Amman said the two sides exchanged fire for one hour, broke off for five minutes, then resumed. The shooting was still going on this afternoon, it said.

It claimed the Israelis had suffered losses in men and vehicles, with no casualties on the Jordanian side.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel Aviv said one Israeli was wounded.

The spokesman said the first exchange took place when Jordanian troops fired on Israeli positions with small arms.

The Israelis replied and the shooting lasted for about 55 minutes, he said. The second incident occurred at 3 p.m. when the Jordanians again opened fire, and received returning fire, the spokesman added.

The Jordanian communique said 12 Israeli vehicles rolled down to the river about two miles north of the Damia Bridge at 11:55 a.m. and fired on Jordanian positions in the hills east of the river. Jordanian forces returned the fire, and the exchange lasted an hour.

The Israelis used four armored troop carriers, four cars with heavy machine guns and four other armed cars, the communique said.

The communique said, "It was believed that many losses were sustained on the mechanized forces of the enemy."

It was the fifth violation of the cease-fire on the Jordan River since the six-day war in June.

Gunfire flared across the river in almost the same place Tuesday in two exchanges lasting 30 minutes, but no casualties were reported.

At Khartoum, capital of Sudan, Arab foreign ministers were bogged down in efforts to prepare the way for a summit meeting to deal with what they call "Israeli aggression."

Tight-lipped and grim, delegates filed out of the old republican palace after a heated three hours of discussions.

Premier Sayed Mahgoub of Sudan, who is conference chairman, told reporters: "We began to study the agenda and it was a deep and frank study. The discussion concerns concerted efforts to eliminate the results of Israeli aggression."

Delegates were privately pessimistic that the foreign ministers could create an atmosphere in which a summit conference could meet without aggravating Arab feuds, let alone achieve worthwhile results.

Tetley Shot to Death

IRONTON -- Edward Howard, 61, St. Louis, was charged with first degree murder this morning following the slaying of Robert Earl Tetley Sr., 63, Oran, Monday night.

Tetley was found dead Tuesday morning at a farmhouse on his cattle farm east of Belleview where he had been staying.

Tetley was found in bed, undressed, with gunshot wounds in the temple and right forearm.

The weapon, which was not found, was a 22-calibre gun, prosecuting attorney Jack Duncan said.

There was no evidence of a struggle.

Duncan said witnesses had seen Howard at the farmhouse Monday night.

A coroner's inquest is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Tetley, a farmer, was born May 29, 1904, in St. Francois county, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Samuel Tetley.

He married the former Miss Susie Martin of St. Francois county Sept. 20, 1925. The couple had lived near Oran for 11 years.

Tetley was a member of the First Baptist church, Oran; and the Morley Masonic lodge 184, of which he was a past master. He was a Royal Arch Mason.

Crews, Jefferson City; four brothers, Emmet Tetley, Eldon, Joe Tetley, Farmington, Curtis Tetley, Falls Church, Va., and Albert Tetley, Birmingham, Ala.; three sisters, Mrs. Henry Newman, Sikeston, Mrs. Trixie Hulsey, Dupo, Ill. and Mrs. Richard Falk, St. Louis, and nine grandchildren.

The body is at the Smith Funeral Home, Oran, where Masonic services will be conducted at 8 p.m. Thursday. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Oran First Baptist church with the pastor, the Rev. W. Clayton Humphrey, officiating. Burial will be in the Forest Hills cemetery, near Oran.

Burlison To File For Seat

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Bill D. Burlison, prosecuting attorney of Cape Girardeau county, announced plans today to file for U.S. Congressman, for the 10th Congressional District on Aug. 15.

Burlison said he has canvassed the 21 counties in the district during the past few months.

"After talking to hundreds of county officials, central committee members, and other important Democrats, I am convinced that these leaders now feel, and the voting population will feel, upon being exposed to the issues of this campaign, that I am the candidate best qualified to represent all of the people of this district," he said.

Burlison was born and reared in Pemiscot county and has lived his professional and family life in Cape county. He is married and has three children.

Paul C. Jones, D-Kennett, has announced plans to retire as representative of the 10th District at the end of his present term.

Long Attacks FTC Blood Bank Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., told a Senate subcommittee Tuesday that if a Federal Trade Commission ruling is allowed to stand nonprofit blood banks in 81 major metropolitan communities will be put in grave danger of being crippled or put out of business.

Sen. Long spoke at the opening of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee hearing on his bill to exempt blood banks from FTC jurisdiction.

The senator said the community nonprofit blood bank in Kansas City, Mo., has been adversely affected by the FTC ruling last year that the Kansas City bank was conspiring to drive the private for profit blood banks in the city out of business. The commission decision was 3 to 2.

About $34 billion was spent for education of all kinds last year in the United States.

Social Security Hike May Be Softened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is trimming President Johnson's Social Security proposals sharply to avoid piling a big payroll tax increase on top of an anticipated jump in regular income taxes.

Instead of a benefit increase for retirees of at least 15 per cent as Johnson proposed, the committee now all but finally has voted for 12½, The Associated Press learned. Instead of raising the current $44 minimum monthly payment to $70, the committee would hike it to $50.

Another preliminary decision is to set aside entirely the administration proposal to extend hospital and other benefits of medicare, now confined to those 65 or older, to younger persons retired because of disability.

These rollbacks make possible a much more modest increase in the payroll taxes that finance basic Social Security and medicare. These taxes now are levied on a wage base of a maximum $6,600 per employe. Employers and employes each pay 4.4 per cent.

Johnson's proposal would have increased the base next year to $7,800, the first step in a staged rise to $10,800 by 1974.

The committee instead has written in a single increase, effective Jan. 1, to $7,600. Members concede future Congresses may have to make more increases.

The maximum annual Social Security tax an employe now pays is $290.40. Under the administration proposal, the maximum next year would be $343.20. Under the committee version, the maximum would be $334.40— up $44 from this year— and for those earning no more than $6,600 there would be no increase.

All decisions made by the committee still are subject to change before it votes to send the bill to the House.

Clifford Denies Peace Feeler of Mission

SEOUL (AP) — Clark M. Clifford denied today a report that he and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, presidential envoys on an Asian mission, are feeling out the Vietnam war allies about a possible peace proposal.

"The report was in error," Clifford said on his arrival with Taylor from New Zealand for talks with President Chung Hee Park and other South Korean officials.

"We have not discussed any peace plan. We discussed plans for and development of the war."

That was his response to a request for comment on a statement by CBS television Tuesday night that President Johnson "is in the final throes" of deciding on a major peace gesture to the North Vietnamese to coincide roughly with the South Vietnamese presidential election Sept. 3.

Clifford and Taylor said they would discuss here "the next allied summit conference and any other points Park and other Korean leaders may wish to explore." But they said they were not here to reach any agreement of any kind.

They are here on the last leg of a tour which has already taken them to four other Vietnam war allies — South Vietnam, Thailand, Australia and New Zealand.

The report, made from Washington Tuesday night on the Walter Cronkite program, quoted an unidentified "high source" in the nation's capital as saying: "The chances are better than 50-50 the President will attempt some kind of bombing pause just after the elections."

The peace gesture is backed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, the CBS report said. But it added the military Joint Chiefs of Staff "are vigorously opposing" any such peace proposal.

The report added: "The theory is that the elections are a show of good faith on our willingness to let the Vietnamese run their own affairs. And that this, coupled with at least a reduction in bombing, might— just might— get a meaningful reaction from the North Vietnamese."

Sanitary Servers Discussed

MATTHEWS - The City Council heard a discussion last night by Joe Williamson and Associates, St. Louis, on a proposed sanitary sewage lagoon.

The Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City, a bonding company, will assist in the project, and a survey will be made in the next 90 days. Plans were made to seek federal aid on the project.

A census will be taken and the number of users by the St. Louis firm to arrive at a preliminary cost.

The meeting was in charge of Mayor Harold Burch, with councilmen, Harlan Gilmer, Gene Curtis, Ellis Reid and Ralph Faries, in attendance.

Gas On Rise

A gas war, which motorists in Sikeston have been enjoying for the past four weeks, is expected to come to a close tomorrow.

Independent service station owners met Tuesday night and decided to effect a price rise on regular and ethyl gasolines today.

Regular gas, which had been selling for 22.9 cents per gallon was upped to 30.9 cents per gallon.

Ethyl, which had been selling for 25.9 cents per gallon, has been raised to 32.9 or 33.9 cents per gallon today by the independents.

Major gasoline dealers were selling regular gasoline for 24.9 cents per gallon, and ethyl for 28.9 cents per gallon today.

The price of the major brands is expected to rise, if the independents don't lower their prices again.

Orbiter Makes Fix on Star

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The last of America's orbiting shutterbugs— Lunar Orbiter 5— rolled over gently in space today, cocked an eye toward its guiding star and found a blur.

"We've got a star, but we don't know which one," a spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said after two attempts were made to find the bright star Canopus.

The craft, he said, has to search with its light sensor for some bright heavenly body, and lock onto the light, to maintain its proper attitude in space. Canopus is normally the light source used.

The stubby craft was boosted aloft from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Tuesday in a launch that was called "textbook perfect."

Orbiter's goal, after its 250,187-mile journey through space, was to slip into orbit around the moon, from which it was to take pictures of the lunar surface.

Previous orbiters looked specifically for safe landing spots for astronauts, a task lunar Orbiter 5 will also perform, but the main interest with the current mission lies in a classic scientific riddle.

Astronomers have long argued over what formed the moon's lumpy, pock-marked features— meteor impacts or volcanic eruptions. The weight of most opinion favors the impact theory, although photos from other orbiters indicate some of the features may be of volcanic origin.

Firemen were called to extinguish a fire at the Sikeston Compress at 9:29 p.m. Tuesday.

Damage was slight to the west end section of the building, which is used for storage by Anchor Toy.

Wooden chairs stored in the building were damaged.

No evidence of arson was apparent, Fire Chief L.D. Ramsey said.

A fire broke out at the compress early Sunday morning and a kerosene can was found near the scene. A group of Negroes pelted firemen and police with rocks and bottles for a brief period at the fire scene Sunday.

Barber's Fishing Woes Change to Good Luck

It takes H. W. Clem, a barber on West Malone, to describe a fishing venture, when bad luck was changed to good luck.

"You must have patience when fishing," said Clem, who had woes while fishing at Duck Creek. "We went for a few hours of fishing, and before starting for the deep waters my wife asked me to dump the contents of a litterbag from the car. I unconsciously threw the bag and its contents in the junk barrel. As we went to start the motor on the boat, the battery was dead, and I had to use the oars."

After a few hours of fishing without any luck, the barber added, "I pulled the boat to the bank. A windstorm came up a few minutes later and swept the boat into deep water. I retrieved the boat after a time with poles and coathangers attached to the poles, and found that my wife had lost her rod and reel during the rescue. On returning to the car I found that a tree limb had fallen and dented a fender.

The congenial barber continued to roll out his story. After all of the misfortune, he gathered his wits together and retrieved his litterbag, and decided to stay on and fish and change his luck.

It took he and his wife to change it. They came back to shore with a catch of 20 blue gill and bass, all of good size.

Carrier Casualty List Includes 4 Missourians

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department issued Tuesday night an interim list of casualties in the fire aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal, counting 80 dead, 42 missing and 23 injured.

The list carried a notation indicating it is not the final count in the disaster.

The casualties were caused by fire and explosions on the flight deck of the Forrestal as the ship maneuvered in the Gulf of Tonkin off Vietnam on July 29.

The list includes four Missourians, three dead and one critically injured.

The dead:

Gerald Albert Wehde, aviation mechanic, son of Mrs. Helen Bernice Wehde, Old Monroe, Mo.

Charles Ray Rich, aviation ordnanceman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Clinton Rich, Mountain Grove, Mo.

Rail Rate Hike Expected to Send Prices up

NEW YORK (AP) — Your pocketbook eventually may feel the impact of the $300-million annual freight rate increase won by the nation's railroads Tuesday.

Groceries, cars and paper products may inch upward in price when the new Interstate Commerce Commission rates become effective.

"The ultimate consumer will feel the squeeze of these increased costs," said one Wall Street analyst.

The increase was the railroads' first general rate hike in seven years and came despite administration pleas that such raises be considered "in the light of the national interest in promoting price stability."

The American Paper Institute, representing the paper and wood pulp industry, estimated the new rates would cost its members about $22 million annually.

Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. said the rates would add about $1 million annually to its $50-million railroad freight bill.

"Rarely are costs of this type absorbed," said an Olin spokesman.

C. F. Fisher, transportation director for the Great Northern Paper Co., said "ultimately they (the increases) have to show up somewhere.

The housewife in the supermarket may feel the pinch also. The new rates "cannot help but have an effect on food prices in the long run," said George W. Koch, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, representing 300 food processors.

"Eventually, they will have to be passed on," said the American Institute of Food Distribution.

One Wall Streeter close to the industry guessed that when the prices of 1968 model cars are announced, some of the rate increase will be reflected.

In Detroit, the Big 3 automakers declined comment. But more than 50 per cent of General Motor products move by rail.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS:
CAPITAL PUNISHMENT CLIMAX

A U.S. District judge in San Francisco will hold a full-scale hearing on Thursday (Aug. 3) in an attempt to declare the death penalty in California unconstitutional.

THE LONG CAMPAIGN against capital punishment is approaching a climax. Paradoxically, the fight is being pushed to a finish by the fact that two new Republican governors, Ronald Reagan of California and Claude R. Kirk, Jr., of Florida, have favored the death penalty.

Capital punishment is not a live politcal issue in most jurisdictions, but it has long been debated in California. Florida's Kirk is conducting a statewide war against crime.

Punishment by death of late has fallen into disuse. Although only 13 states have abolished capital punishment or restricted it to special cases, the past few years have seen few executions. Last year there was only one; in 1965 only seven. This year there already have been two, one in California and one in Colorado.

Now the fate of 58 men in San Quentin's death row depends in large part on a hearing for Thursday. Federal district court Judge Robert F. Peckham will hear testimony on his own stay of executions in California. The ban was a response to a petition filed by the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund. A similar blanket stay in Florida covers - temporarily again - 51 persons under death sentence. The American League to Abolish Capital Punishment reported recently that more than 400 prisoners were held under death sentence.

MOST OF THE LEGAL DEFENSE of persons sentenced to death is being conducted by the NAACP and the Civil Liberties Union. Of 403 state prisoners under death sentence at the end of 1966, 212 were in the South. (There were two federal prisoners.) The NAACP Defense Fund is seeking to show that the death penalty for rape is virtually restricted to Negroes in the South.

Since 1930, when the U.S. Bureau of Prisons began compiling statistics, there have been 33 federal executions - only one in the past decade. State executions total 3,858, of which 53.6 per cent were Negroes.

THE DEATH PENALTY is forbidden or highly restricted in Alaska, Hawaii, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. In signing the New York law in 1965, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller decided to spare those who would not be subject to capital punishment under the new legislation. So 14 condemned slayers in Sing Sing today are not in danger of execution.

The California stay and subsequent refusal of an appeals court to repeal it was welcomed by leaders of the opposition to capital punishment. "Ultimately," Melvin Wulf, general Counsel of the Civil Liberties Union, said on July 10, "the U.S. Supreme Court will be faced with these cases and will have to confront the persuasive arguments that capital punishment is cruel and unusual punishment and violates due process of law."

The opponents contend that "scrupled" jurors - those who do not believe in capital punishment - are not permitted on juries, and that thus defendants are deprieved of being judged by a fair cross section of the community. In any event, the issue can not long be avoided through unwillingness to use the penalty. The climax is being forced.

The Colonel said: "Don't expect any friend to give you more than your money's worth."

* * *

AN ORGANIZED CONSPIRACY to overthrow the U.S. government is believed by some responsible leaders to be under way, showing up in its most violent form in the continuing challenge in Detroit by snipers and outlaws fighting police, Guardsmen and Vietnam-trained U.S. soldiers.

The conspiracy, led by Communism International, was predicted months ago by J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, and spelled out, in fact, by Gus Hall, Communist leader in the U.S. Communists very frankly indicated they would infiltrate college campuses, labor unions, instigate demonstrations and riots, inciting the so-called oppressed minorities to arson and killing - all this making an effective deterrent to our efforts in Vietnam.

Top-level leaders, notable Dwight D. Eisenhower, military hero of World War II and ex-president of the United States, are seeing an "organized pattern" in the widespread violence and terming it "callous lawlessness" and demanding that the FBI intervene and put a stop to disobedience to the law.

It doesn't take a government investigation to determine what is going on. Everyone but government executives, from President Johnson down, can see it simple by reading the news. Today's news, for example: Black Power advocate H. Rap Brown, arrested by the FBI, shouted, "we built this country, and we'll burn it down." A large group of black nationalist leaders, disbanding a meeting in the east, called for a separate nation for black people, Stokely Carmichael, self-styled "black power" chief has arrived in Cuba via Czechoslovakia for "conferences" with Communist Castro and Soviet Russian "advisors." Adam Clayton Powell, speaking from his hide-out in the Bahamas, said "black rebellions are a necessary phase of the black revolution," and threatened that if 12 Negro congressmen are not elected "all America will go up in flames." In the face of threats like these - threats which the conspirators are making good - spineless editors, congressmen and television speakers - black and white - are still calling for more civil rights, more poverty aid, more appeasement of the insurrectionists and criminal outlaws. Instead of clamping the riot-mongers into jail (they got just one of them today) they are put before television cameras, repeating their demands and threats for additional reparations!

But who, pray tell us, who is asking, demanding, enforcing obedience to the law? President Johnson today meekly asked a group of law-abiding boys at Boys Nation to respect the law. One congressman asked that "shoot-to-kill" orders be given police, Guardsmen and U.S. soldiers on looters, snipers and arsonists. But others insist that the Negro and other "impoverished, depressed, unemployed" groups must be lifted up nearer utopia before lawlessness is to be stopped.

The answer to these problems, as this small voice said months ago in the "Sorry State of the Union" editorials, must be found and faced by Congress, with new laws or enforcement of old to halt Communist infiltration and agitation in this nation.

What can WE do here on the quiet home-front? The question is asked in a strong, frank, thoughtful "Letter to the Editor" which we received this morning from Harold W. Cleveland, Rolla schools music teacher. Mr. Cleveland says:

"Your editorial regarding Race Riots and Anarchy represents a sobering commentary on the current state of the Union. The facts you presented are irrefutable, but what are WE supposed to do about the situation - write our Congressman?

"If our elected representatives need to be told that the current state of affairs is detrimental to our national welfare, then we are really in trouble!

"Yet surely something must be done to rectify the inconsistency of fighting a war in Vietnam - to guarantee a people's right to self-government - while at home the same precious right of majority rule is being mocked.

"Yes, Mr. Editor, something should be done, but who will bell the cat!?

'The fact remains that we who love our country must remain idle observers to the outrages you have described until some 'properly constituted government authority' awakens to the absurdity of our present conflicting policies.

"With all the furor concerning the rights of 'colored' people, I wonder why I seldom hear much about the rights of the American Indians - they're certainly not 'white.' Obviously, there's not much voting going on down at the ol' reservation!

"Meanwhile, Mr. Editor, you write editorials and I write letters, for to do otherwise would constitute sedition!" Mr. Cleveland concluded.

After some people have had a friend for some time, they begin to treat him as if he were an enemy.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — "Watching a baseball game to me is like going to church," said Carl Reiner. "There is time to think and ruminate.

"I'd rather have been a baseball pitcher than anything."

Young Carl, alas, had a big failing as a player. He could throw a fast ball, a slow ball, a curve or a fadeaway. The one thing he couldn't throw across the plate was a strike.

So, after finishing high school at 16 and working briefly as a shipping clerk and machinist's helper, he turned to acting.

Reiner, one of the best-liked men in show business, quickly became a master at pitching funny lines. Now he has matured into a quadruple-threat man in the entertainment field as actor, writer, director and producer.

Carl, who made his mark as a "top banana," or supporting comedian for Sid Caesar for eight years, widened his fame by originating and producing the "Dick Van Dyke Show," a popular television series.

His latest film opus, "Enter Laughing," introducing Reni Santoni to stardom, is based on a semiautobiographical novel that Reiner wrote in 1958. Carl directed the film and also served as cowriter and coproducer with his long-time friend, Joseph Stein, author of the Broadway hit, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Reiner, who still says his vocation is acting, regards writing, directing and producing as his hobbies. But he enjoys them all.

"The thing I get the most satisfaction from is anything that I start as a blank page in a typewriter, and then follow all the way through, whether it's a book, a play or a film," he said.

"There's something wonderful about catching a fish, cleaning it, cooking it and serving it, and then having someone say, 'Very good.' "

The tall, hazel-eyed actor picked up the rudiments of comedy writing by working with the gag men on the old Sid Caesar shows.

"But I had been such a poor student in school that I hesitated at trying anything at all serious. I felt I didn't know enough words to become a real writer.

"My wife got me over that hurdle. She convinced me that it wasn't important whether I knew a lot of long words, only whether I knew the right words."

Carl is convinced now that empathy, the feeling for people, is more valuable to a writer than a big vocabulary.

Reiner feels he is normally neurotic: "If you're not neurotic to some extent, you can't function in this society." But he believes his most valuable personality trait is an inborn, unquenchable optimism.

"Life is supposed to be fun," he said. "The human being isn't supposed to be genuinely happy very often, but if your problems don't let you have fun and moments of joy, then you haven't had much of a life."

FREEDOM IS OPPORTUNITY, NOT GUARANTEE

Freedom is opportunity. It is not a guarantee of income, advancement or success; nor is it protection against failure. Some think this harsh, believing that we have an obligation to provide such guarantees and protection. However, they should remember that when socialistic human engineers make it impossible for a man to fail, they also make it impossible for him to succeed.

In his book about collectivistic government, "Nineteen Eighty-Four," George Orwell said future collectivists would deliberately teach that "Freedom is slavery" and that slavery -- even if not called by that ugly name -- is Freedom. There are signs that Orwell's grim predictions may be coming to pass in the constant manipulation of the word "Freedom" to mean dependence on government rather than protection from government control. Want and hunger are enemies of all men, just as they are allies of socialism. The free way of life has produced in this country the highest standard of living the world has ever known. This Freedom did more to eliminate hunger and want than any state and any ruler in history, no matter how great their "benevolence." If we insist on turning off this road of liberty to the ancient swamps of collectivism and all-powerful government, at least let us have the grace met to pretend that in doing so we are merely providing a new definition of Freedom.

Freedom does involve protection, but not protection against the natural hazards of life. It offers protection of the individual by his government against foreign invaders and domestic criminals, and the use of courts for settling disputes. These are purposes of limited government -- the balance and separation of powers which the Constitution provides.

There must be protection by government against violence; but there must also be protection from government which seeks to use its authority to increase its own power.

By its nature, government has the authority to impose force upon anyone. It has the physical ability to compel any citizen to do what he is told. This is why government is always a threat. It is also why excessive power in the hands of government menaces everyone, not just the popular target of the moment. The guns which today are turned on the group, section, person, or economic class which we dislike may be pointed at us tomorrow. Unlimited power, by definition, knows no restraint or law above the whim of those who run its infernal machine.

The tragic error which too many make today, and which has been made repeatedly throughout the course of history, is for Group A to assume that it can afford to give government unlimited power for one or more specific ends regarded as all-important, and still prevent that power from being used against Group A itself. When one begins to think in this way, soon all do so. And so the powers grow until none can escape them.

At the time of the Bolshevik take-over and afterward, many Russians fooled themselves into thinking they were using the Bolsheviks, when actually the Bolsheviks were doing the using. The German government of Kaiser Wilhelm thought, by sending Lenin to Russia in a sealed railway carriage to stir up revolution, it was using him to further the German war cause. Instead, they lost; and the Russia it helped to establish now rules one-third of Germany.

The Soviet labor unions, the revolutionary group among the Russian intellectuals, and the "Social Revolutionaries" who brought down governments by assassination in the name of the Russian peasants, made this same mistake. When Lenin finally grasped the Social Revolutionaries, machine-gunned labor union strikers in Kronstadt, and scornfully dismissed the intellectuals in his famous pamphlet, "Left-Wing Communism, an Infantile Disorder."

When the conflicting groups had been wiped out, Russia had a new master far more terrible than any Czar -- a worthy successor to the Mongol conquerors who followed Genghis Khan. All had sought to attain their goals through building up the power of the government without limit; all failed except the Bolsheviks.

That is how all men lose when Freedom is lost, and the handful on top are as tightly bound as those they enslave. No despot is ever free; he is a prisoner of his own monstrous system -- a parasite on the productivity of others who is forever hounded by men of scheming ambition.

One of the saddest spectacles on the American scene today is that of the racial and religion minority groups in the U.S. who turn to government as their ally. They have every right to seek justice in the courts and through appeal to the conscience of America; but when their efforts aim toward giving government new powers without thoughts of the long-range effect, they damage their own cause as well as the liberties of all Americans.

Members of every minority group should know that they are likely to be the first to suffer under a total state, simply because they are different and not easy to control. History is full of examples. Everyone has heard of the mass extermination of Jewish people by totalitarian Nazi Germany. Persecution of Jews in Soviet Russia is at last coming to public attention. It is know that rigid segregation is practiced in Moscow on a racial basis (African students must attend a university from which the white Russian students are barred).

When these things happen in a free country, minority groups protest. When they happen in a country which has fallen to unlimited government, minority groups can only suffer in silence.

American minority groups, confident in their ability to deliver large blocs of votes in elections, forget that this will avail them nothing if government becomes so strong it will dominate the "choices" offered on every ballot, as in Communist nations today. If the goal of most pressure groups continues to be to give more and more power to government, the day will come when they discover that the old tactics don't work any more, that their rulers turn a cold shoulder to them with the reminder that alternatives to the regime in power have all been destroyed.

In the same way, working people and their labor unions have a vital stake in Freedom, which alone permits them to bargain for better wages and working conditions, and to strike without fear of legal punishment. It is a fatal error for working people to build up the power of government on the assumption that government will act only against employers. Once it is strong enough, government will act against anyone it chooses, including labor unions and the working man.

No society of imperfect men is or can be perfect. Even Freedom is not a sure cure for every evil. Evils will remain in the freest society until eliminated by a steady rise in moral standards; but so long as a society is free, it can move forward and improve itself by the initiative of its citizens without waiting for any dispensation from above. Under a government with total powers, evils of every form inevitably multiply because nothing can be done about them except by the men at the very top.

Our Freedom can still be saved, but it will not be saved unless more of us realize the personal stake that each has in Freedom. Let us limit government to keeping the peace among us, instead of using it to gain selfish ends.

IS YOUR CHILD REALLY GIFTED?

The difference between the average and the bright child is easy to detect, if you know what to look for, the Catholic Digest points out.

If a child makes long speeches and uses language fluently much before he is two and a half, he is certainly above average.

If a bright child is adept with his hands, he would soon learn to handle a hammer. If he is mechanically inclined, he is more likely to work with mechanical gadgets. If he is artistic, his scribblings will have some shape or form.

Another guide to the bright child is the number and variety of his interests. The gifted youngster usually has many sides; he turns easily to new tasks or pursuits. An early sense of numbers is another indication of a child's brightness. Once again, "early" means considerably before other children of the same age.

All youngsters ask questions, but the more they ask and the harder their questions are to answer, the brighter the children are likely to be.

RULE THE SEAS: RUSSIA'S GOAL

Not all Russian spectaculars take place in the ocean of space. In the past decade and a half the U.S.S.R. has made impressive strides toward becoming a leading power on the world's oceans.

A few of the statistics:

In 1950, the Russian merchant fleet comprised only 432 ships of 1,000 tons or over, totaling 1.8 million deadweight tons. By 1960, the U.S.S.R. was in 11th place among world fleets; by 1965 it was sixth and pressing Japan for fifth. As of June, 1966, it had 1,360 seagoing merchant vessels aggregating 9.8 million tons. Its current five-year plan calls for 15 million tons by 1970.

This is still a long way from the U.S. total of 28.3 million deadweight tons. But during the past 20 years, the U.S. active fleet has declined from 2,332 vessels to about 900, according to Paul Hall, president of the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department. Since 1953, U.S. tonnage has fallen by 8.8 million tons -- greater than the Soviet gain in the same period.

Since 1962, Russia has built 502 merchant ships to our 87. Last year, Russia spent approximately $1 billion on shipbuilding; this country spent some $106 million. And where 80 per cent of the Soviet fleet is less than 10 years old, 70 per cent of all U.S. flag ships are more than 20 years old.

By the end of 1966, the Soviets were carrying some 75 per cent of their trade in Redflag bottoms. The U.S. merchant fleet carries only 7.7 per cent of our trade. We have been forced to charter foreign vessels for the Vietnam war, 98 per cent of the supplies for which are transported by sea.

The Soviets employ 9,000 people in oceanography; we employ 3,700. Their seagoing science fleet numbers 200 shps to our 142.

All of which leads Hall to warn that the Russians are closer to sinking us than burying us. His alarm is shared by others.

It is the "aggressive, precisely planned" policy of the Kremlin to transform the U.S.S.R. into the world's dominant maritime power, says Edwin Hood, president of the Shipbuilders Council of America.

As the Russian fleet expands and is able to diminate the sea lanes, the fleets of other nations could be squeezed out. The potential danger, he says, is that the Communists could then withhold ocean freight services from any nation out of favor with them.

Reasons given for the decline of the U.S. merchant fleet are numerous. They include bureaucratic indifference and confusion in Washington, unfavorable policies of the State and Defense Departments, preferential subsidies to a handful of lines and union practices which have encouraged American companies to employ foreign crews on ships licensed to nations like Liberia and Honduras under "flags of convenience."

H. L. Hunt Says

DIRECT VOTE PLAN NOT NEW

Most thoughtful students of the U.S. governmnetal structure agree that the Electoral College system of naming the President should be reformed. There are those who want to abolish the Electoral College altogether and substitute for it direct popular voting for the President and Vice President. Others suggest adoption of a constitutional amendment to provide for one presidential elector from every congressional district and two electors at large from each state.

The direct vote plan was thoughtfully considered -- and finally rejected -- by the Founders of Freedom at the 1787 constitutional convention. James Madison of Virginia stated forthrightly that the district system of choosing electors was "mostly, if not exclusively, in view when the Constitution was framed and adopted." Another Virginian, George Mason, told the convention that at least seven proposed methods for selecting a President had been considered and that the proposal for the direct vote had always failed. At one point in the convention a motion that the President be elected by direct vote was rejected by a vote of seven states to three. Alexander Hamilton spoke for the majority when he declared, "Let the election of the President be confined to electors."

At the end of many weeks of study and debate at the constitutional convention, Benjamin Franklin was asked by interested persons outside the convention, "What do we have?" His reply: "A Republic if you can keep it."

The Republic can best be preserved through reform of the Electoral College system by adoption of the congressional district plan. A resoltuion proposing the necessary constitutional amendment is before Congress. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The racial setback of America's big cities has obscured some American victories in diplomacy.

The most important backstage development in the recent United Nations debate was the fact that Soviet Russia was pressured by its satellites to abandon its support for the Arab states.

Such countries as Romania, Czechoslovakia, and to some extent Poland, told Foreign Minister Gromyko that they would not go along with the demand for an Israeli troop withdrawal unless the Arabs ended their war against Israel. This meant the recognition of Israel. They argued that it was unrealistic to claim Israel did not exist.

This was a victory first for the argument which President Johnson gave Premier Kosygin at Glassboro -- namely, that Israel exists, and that her troops could not be withdrawn without the end of the Arab belligerency and some recognition of Israel. Otherwise, another war was inevitable.

Second, this was a victory for some quiet diplomacy conducted by LBJ, Chief Justice Earl Warren, and various Americans dating back through the days of Truman and Eisenhower. Their diplomacy was aimed at making friends with East European Communist countries -- a policy which has been castigated by the Bill Buckleys and the professional right-wingers, but it has worked.

LBJ AND ROMANIAN

One illustration of its working has just come from behind the one-time iron curtain regarding the recent talk between President Johnson and Premier Ion Gheroghe Maurer of Romania. During the United Nations assembly when Maurer was in New York, President Johnson invited him to Washington for a talk.

Reports have now come back from other Communist diplomats that Maurer found the president "intelligent, well balanced, and receptive"; that the meeting gave Maurer an opportunity to learn the U.S. position on the near East and the United Nations.

The Romanians also reported that they found the Soviet position on the near East "unreasonable," and the American position of requiring some recognition of Israel by the Arabs "responsible."

Maurer expressed the opnion to other diplomats that he was disappointed that relations between Romania and the United States had moved so slowly, and hoped that trade would pick up. He found Johnson sympathetic to better Romanian - American cooperation, and eager to learn more of Romani's problems.

Maurer reported to other diplomats that the United States was the strongest world power, stronger than Russia, and that he had no illusions about the American desire to dominate the world. However, the United States, in contrast to Soviet Russia, would not seek to intrude on Romani's domestic policies.

Later, party chairman Cleausea asa publicly announced Rover the near East, though reaffirming Soviet-Romanian friendship. He also announced a drastic shakeup in the Romanian secret police, criticising it for having abused the legitimate rights of citizens.

"AMBASSADOR" WARREN

News dispatches from Eastern Europe state that Chief Justice Earl Warren has been visiting the capitals of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Poland this summer. This will probably bring a loud accusation from the far-out right wing that the Supreme Court is selling out to Communism.

Real fact is that this is the second visit Warren has taken to Eastern Europe, the first having been to Romania, Bulgaria and Russia in the summer of 1963, at which time he called briefly upon Krushchev and spent much more time in Romania.

He drove from Northwest Romania through the heart of the country, visiting farms, universities, city councils, and ending with a call on the late chairman Gheorghiu Dej and Premier Maurer.

Later, when Kennedy was assassinated, Maurer came to the funeral as official representative, and Warren dined with him at my home. These friendly talks unquestionably led up to the current improvement in U.S. - Romanian relations and the current independence of the one-time Soviet satellite.

The Chief Justice does not try to do any politicking on these trips. He is a listener. But the fact that the No. 1 jurist of the Western World and the No. 2 man of the United States takes the trouble to travel a long distance and try to get a better understanding of a nation makes a profound impression.

This is what the Chief Justice and Mrs. Warren did when they traveled through the west coast of South America last winter, going as far as the interior of Bolivia. He merely discussed the American system of jurisprudence and the U.S. system of an independent judiciary.

This also made a profound impression, especially in countries where new revolutionary presidents sometimes appoint their own friends to the Supreme Court immediately after they take over. Some congressmen were critical because the State Department paid the Warrens a per diem traveling allowance, but their visits paid real dividends.

Note -- The State Department is now urging Justice William Brennan to visit law schools and legal groups in Chile, Argentina, and Brazil which the Chief Justice did not visit; and has asked Justice Potter Stewart to go to other Latin-American countries this summer.

Pat Nugents Begin Second Honeymoon

NEW YORK (AP) — Patrick and Luci Johnson Nugent were mobbed by more than 300 midtown theatergoers Tuesday night as they started their second honeymoon with a stop on Broadway.

The Nugents had left their 3-week-old son Patrick Lyndon in the White House with his grandparents, President and Mrs. Johnson— but they hadn't forgotten him.

"He's fine— I haven't talked to him recently," quipped Pat, during intermission at the Imperial Theater, where he and Luci had joined a group of friends to see the musical "Cabaret."

The Nugents are heading for a second honeymoon in the Bahamas-- but Luci said all plans hinge on baby Lyn.

"Our plans aren't really definite at all," she said. "We've got a new baby, you know."

The couple slipped into fifth row orchestra seats virtually unobserved— but by intermission word had filtered through the sell-out crowd that the Nugents were in the orchestra.

The Nugents waited until most of the theater had emptied before leaving— but the crowd hadn't gone far.

As they rapidly made their way through the lobby, they were surrounded by well wishers. Secret Servicemen pushed the crowd back, cleared a path to a waiting limousine and hustled them off.

Paper Dress Fashions Hit Sikeston

BY CAROL MILLER

Advertised for travel, leisure, work and fun, paper dresses hit the fashion scene about the same time as spring.

More often found in drug stores and supermarkets than conventional outlets, the paper dresses have met with limited success in the Sikeston area. Although it is hard to judge the repeat business, most merchants say they sell well the first time around. One described a "great demand."

A survey of the women disclosed that they usually buy the dresses for a special occasion or out of curiosity.

Fashioned in colorful prints and stripes, they come in standard sizes and are usually A-line styles with either a square, scoop or tie neckline. Many are a blend of 80 per cent cellulose and 20 per cent cotton.

One problem women do not have with paper fashions is troublesome hemming - to shorten scissors easily clip to the desired length.

The dresses are fire retardant unless washed or dry cleaned. They can be ironed with a cool iron.

Seldom seen on the city's streets, the dresses first hit the east coast and the college campuses. They reach their height of attractiveness in mother-daughter sets.

Paper fabric is even on the market for home styling, but Mrs. Hal Robertson did better than that. For a paper party this month in honor of the birthday of Charles L. Blanton III, she designed a dress from the Daily Standard by taping, sewing and pasting together articles, headlines and advertisements from newspapers. The A-line style, backed with muslin lining, was trimmed at the armholes, neckline and hem with red seam binding.

Mrs. Robertson's only difficulty in creating the dress was turning it from the wrong to the right side after the seams had been sewed.

She drew her pattern from the paper dress of a friend to get the right flair to the skirt and then fashioned the top similar to a favorite nightgown.

"I like the paper dresses, but one or two would be plenty for any wardrobe, she said. "They seem to be the coming thing."

Mrs. Manuel Drumm is less enthusiastic. The first time Mrs. Drumm wore her new paper dress, it was ruined when she sat on a brick hearth. She said they are all right to cook breakfast in or for a special occasion but not for a complete wardrobe.

What makes a woman decide to purchase a paper dress? With a coupon for savings and a friend's affirmative opinion, Mrs. Merline Hagy purchased a pink and black tent dress that tied on the shoulder.

Her only objection is that it is a little hot, but she would buy another if she liked the design. On one occasion when she wore it to work at Sikeston high school some of her friends did not realize it was paper.

Some women make gifts of paper dresses.

Mrs. Bernard Rice and Miss Judy Matthews hold what seems to be a prevailing opinion that the new paper styles are fun to wear and save ironing but they are only a passing fad.

'ROUND THE TOWN

Mrs. David Kelley and sons, David and Mark, of Steele, are visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robley Lennox.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lane and Hal and Beth of Memphis arrived Thursday to spend the weekend with Mrs. Lane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kirk. The family attended the wedding of Mrs. Lane's niece, Miss Joan Kirk and Lloyd Stoner, Saturday.

Rick Holyfield and Jim Brewer returned Thursday from two weeks vacation in California. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stewart. They visited Las Vegas and other points of interest on their trip.

After my first month as a new cadet at West Point, I was completely indoctrinated in the principle of unquestioning obedience. One afternoon, on an errand from one barracks to another, I was halted by a sharp command out of nowhere. Too intimidated to look around, I stood fearfully waiting to hear what rule I had violated. Instead, I received one command after another: "Right face! Left face! Forward, march! Halt! About face!"

It was a full 20 minutes of these silly maneuvers before I finally spotted my tormentor - a happy-go-lucky painter on his lunch break, sitting in a third-floor window, munching his apple and having a grand time.

PUZZLING PICASSO

CHICAGO (AP) — A 50-foot sculpture design presented to Chicago by Pablo Picasso will be erected on Chicago's Civic Center plaza.

Chicagoans may wonder what the sculpture is supposed to represent, but civic leaders are happy with the work which is a semi abstract and can be interpreted as a woman's head.

Roger Stevens, chairman of the National Council on the Arts, said during a ground breaking ceremony that Chicago's acquisition of the sculpture fulfills the council's programs — to obtain suitable works of art for the open places of large and small American cities.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION:
90% of today's prescriptions contain drugs unknown just a few short years ago
Many of today's "wonder drugs" are only adolescents in the developing world of scientific miracles. The hypertension drugs made their debut with Rauwiloid in 1953. And in 1954, tranquilizers were first released for public consumption...the same year Jonas Salk led the way for the dramatic breakthrough in polio control. In 1962, enzymes were introduced to accelerate tissue repair and reduce inflammation. Going back a little further we find that penicillin...which has proved so necessary to life...has been in use just 19 years. It was only 14 years ago that the antihistamines first appeared on your Pharmacist's shelves. Bearing these developments in mind, the future of prescription drugs promises discoveries inconceivable to the imagination.
For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to

Reserve Clause Questioned

CHICAGO (AP) — The reserve clause — a baseball team's legal hold on a player's exclusive services — is expected to trigger a flurry of debate once again at the major league summer meetings.

Representatives of the Players Association will meet today with league officials and club owners to discuss the demands of the athletes which were relayed last week to the owners in a seven-page letter.

In their statement, the players said the reserve clause deprives an athlete of "bona-fide bargaining power in his salary negotiations with a club."

The players doubted the legality of the reserve clause and said they disagreed with the owners' longtime contention that removal of the reserve clause would be injurious to baseball.

Lilbourn, New Madrid Claim County Titles

RISCO -- Lilbourn's Little League and New Madrid's Pony League baseball teams are champions of their respective league after dethroning the defending champions in last night's finals of the New Madrid county tournament. Five teams compose each league.

Lilbourn, behind the one - hit pitching and batting of Grant Damback swept past the New Madrid Little leaguers 7-0.

New Madrid staged a sixth inning rally that gave it the lead and enabled it to defeat the defending Pony league titlist, 3-2.

Lilbourn's Little Leaguers with a lot of hustle and errorless play swept to its 11th season victory against one loss, coming at the hands of New Madrid.

Lilbourn, coached and managed by Jimmy Dambach won two tournament games, taking a 2-1 decision over Gideon and the title game.

New Madrid's Little Leaguers record ran to 10 wins and one loss along with one tie in league play with Risco.

Lilbourn broke up a scoreless duel in the third inning with a pair of runs and added five in the fourth for its game's winning total.

Fred Copeland, last year's most valuable player in the Sikeston nine and ten-year-old tournament, collected the only New Madrid safety.

Tommy Maschmeyer, Greg Weeks and Dambach collected two hits each as the team amassed seven safeties. Dambach had a home run, Weeks a triple and Allen a double.

New Madrid's Pony Leaguers, trailing going into the sixth inning 2-1, added two runs for the lead as two leadoff bunt singles by Randy Fowler and James Brotherton, a sacrifice by Doug Thompson and a triple by Jerry Robbins, scoring Fowler and Brotherton gave them the lead and victory.

Gideon's clean-up hitter fanned with Mark Littell on third, who singled with two outs, for the third out, ending Gideon's bid for a second straight Pony League title.

Both squads had four hits in the Pony League title fight but clutch hitting in the sixth by New Madrid produced the victory.

New Madrid's Robins won his own game with a two-run sixth inning triple. He had six strikeouts in the game.

Mark Littell was the losing hurler for Gideon, fanning four New Madrid batsmen.

Sikeston 3-0 Winner

Charleston Bombs Morehouse, 23-0

CHARLESTON -- First round action of the First Annual Charleston Little League baseball tournament was completed last night with Sikeston opening the night with a 3-0 win over Dexter followed by Charleston's All-Stars rousing victory over Morehouse, 23-0.

Action resumes Thursday night with semi - final round games. Benton meets Cairo, Ill., in the 7 p.m. game followed at 8:30 by the arch - rival contest between Charleston and Sikeston.

Ricky LaPlant hurled the Sikeston All-Star little leaguers past a tough Dexter opponent last night, 3-0. He had a no hitter going and had only one batter to face for the ace in the sixth inning but he (Mayer) bounced a hard grounder off the third basemen's glove for an infield single. He had 12 strikeouts for the game.

Dexter's Lowes limited the Sikeston offense to three hits, but fine baserunning gave the Stars the victory.

Sikeston struck with three runs in the first and held that margin throughout the game.

Ricky Guttenfielder had two hits for Sikeston while teammate LaPlant had the other safety, a double.

Charleston used 15 players, banging out 13 hits, including three homers, two triples and five doubles as they trounced Morehouse's little league tournament entry.

Morehouse gave up 12 walks to add to the Charleston scoring and committed four errors.

Carlisle hit a grand slam homer for Charleston and teammates Clark and Pierce added round tripers for additional scores. Clark's came with two on and Pierce's with none on.

Charleston tallied 13 runs in the first and pushed across nine in the second as the team batted around twice in each inning.

Chaney was the winning hurler while Dewitt absorbed the loss for Morehouse.

Hoskins and Taylor collected hits for Morehouse.

Cruise passengers eat and drink half their weight on a typical two-week Caribbean cruise. For such a voyage from New York, one ship takes aboard 500 pounds of venison, 10,000 pounds of steak, 8,000 pounds of filet mignon, 9,000 pounds of beef ribs, 8,000 pounds of turkeys, 7,000 pounds of chickens, 1,500 pounds of ducks, 2,000 pounds of bacon, 4,000 pounds each of legs of lamb and lamb chops, 6,000 pounds of veal, and 15,000 pounds of other cuts of meat. Also, 200 pounds of fresh caviar, 5,000 pounds of fish, 2,000 pounds of shrimp, 900 pounds of live lobsters, plus great quantities of beverages and fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables.

Widows and Widowers

The U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census reports the number of U.S. widows was more than four times the number of widowers in 1966. There were 8.9 million widowed women in the nation, compared to 2.0 million widowed men at that time.

About 240 tornadoes occur each year in the U.S.

BIG ONES THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY

Despite the typical fisherman's line, not all "the big ones" got away during the past season . . and the evidence should be readily available in local food stores.

A reportedly "extremely heavy supply" of frozen fish fillets and steaks have placed these denizens of the deep on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's current Plentiful Foods list.

Some 175 million pounds of fish, in fact, are accounted for in cold storage, ready for market. This is at least 15 percent more than a year ago and nearly 30 percent more than summertime supplies in 1965.

Both salt-water and fresh-water fish will be found among this abundance, according to the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries' market news. Steaks and fillets of cod, sole and ocean perch are considered perhaps the most numerous.

Lake trout and yellow (or walleyed) pike are readily available, too.

Another part of this "catch" are the offerings of red snapper, dressed halibut and fish sticks and portions.

Seafood lovers will be glad to know that the new season for shrimp has begun. This should lead to increasing supplies of smaller sized shrimp, although the larger ones are relatively scarce.

Still other fush and seafood items may be attractive buys to homemakers from time to time - for example, Canadian whitefish - as fresh catches come to market.

Foresters Try Again

The second game of the best of three playoff series between Sikeston and Cape Girardeau for the state district title will be attempted today.

The two state playoffs begin Friday with Pine Bluff playing the winner of the series. A Sikeston win would move the tournament to VFW stadium starting Friday and with games scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

Oran Bumps Scott Central

ORAN -- Scott County Central's Braves fell into a tie for the SEMO high school league title last night after suffering a 4-2 defeat at the hands of Oran.

Oran collected four runs on 11 hits as Steve Ruffin and Larry Whorton led the hitting attack with two hits each.

Whorton connected on a sixth inning homer while teammates Rodney LaGrand tripled and Doug Hanley doubled.

Oran tallied in the second with one run and added two in the fourth and one in the sixth for its total. Both Central runs came in the fourth.

Karnes was the losing hurler.

Considered one of the poorest countries in Africa, Somali's gross national product in 1964 was only $100-million.

If You Were the Judge

His Death No Accident

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Dinty's conscience was a very poor guide. Deciding to make a clean breast of things, he confessed to his best friend that he had been romancing the latter's wife, and got shot right in the middle of his confession.

When he died, Dinty's widow immediately applied for payment under a policy of insurance that covered Dinty in the event of his accidental death.

"Your husband's death was no accident," she was told by a company agent. "He was shot intentionally and on purpose. In fact, under the circumstances, it would have been more of an accident if he hadn't been shot."

"That's absurd," was the widow's answer. "An accident occurs when something unforseeable happens. And, believe me, if Dinty thought he was going to get shot, he would have kept his mouth shut. While he may have been a little stupid, he wasn't crazy."

Intent upon collecting under the policy, Dinty's widow took her claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider Dinty's death an accident?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held, in effect, that when a man admits to a husband that he's been carrying on with his wife, it's tantamount to committing suicide; that he can expect to be shot and his death, in such a case, is not accidental.

(Based upon a 1945 U.S. Supreme Court Decision)

Cubs End Cards String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those Cubs of Chicago again demonstrated they are bound to have something to say about the National League pennant chase. And Tuesday, they forced the league leading Cardinals to listen closely.

The Cubs backed Ferguson Jenkins six-hit pitching with timely base running and hitting for a 3-2 victory over St. Louis and moved to within 3½ games of first place.

Chicago scored twice in the first inning on singles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams, a wild pitch by Nelson Briles, and Ron Santo's double. They added what proved to be the clincher in the sixth on singles by Santo and Ernie Banks and Clarence Jones' double.

Ferguson shut out the Cards until the eighth. Then, a walk an error and two singles gave St. Louis two runs and with the bases loaded on another walk, it appeared the Cards were still in the game.

However, Ferguson got Orlando Cepeda on a fly ball to end the rally and kept the door closed in the ninth to record his 14th victory against eight losses.

St. Louis winds up its current series with the Cubs in a double-header today. Steve Carlton and Dick Hughes are the mound selections for the Cards. Bob Shaw and Ray Culp will pitch for the Cubs.

Leave it to Willie Mays.

It was a pitcher's paradise in the National League Tuesday night until Mays caught up with Woody Fryman in the seventh inning of San Francisco's 3-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

Willie walloped his 14th home run of the season and No. 556 of his career helping Juan Marichal win his 14th game.

Mays' blast was the first and only homer of the night as the pitchers shut off the power in the National League. The shot soared over the right center field fence at Candlestick Park and was Mays' first circuit since June 28. He struggled through a homerless July with a heavy cold and influenza.

In other National League action Tuesday, Chicago cut St. Louis' lead to 3½ games by clipping the Cardinals 3-2, Cincinnati shut out Atlanta 2-0 on Jim Maloney's three-hitter, New York topped Houston 5-1 and Philadelphia nipped Los Angeles 2-1.

Marichal hurled a six-hitter and drove in the game's tie-breaking run with a sixth inning single following hits by Hal Lanier and Tito Fuentes.

Roberto Clemente had tripled home a run for the Pirates in the third but Jim Hart's two-out single in the fifth following an error by Gene Alley, tied it for the Giants.

Ferguson Jenkins hurled a six-hitter and won his 14th game for the Cubs, as the Cardinals' six-game winning streak came to an end.

Ron Santo and Clarence Jones smacked run-scoring doubles, helping Chicago to an early 3-0 edge. Jenkins was coasting on a two-hitter until the eighth when the Cards rocked him for both their runs. But the young righthander pitched out of the jam and hung on for the victory.

Maloney, 9-7, hurled his second complete game of the season and was in control all the way against the Braves. He scattered three singles and struck out eight.

Maloney protected a 1-0 lead provided when Tony Perez rapped into a bases-loaded double play in the fourth. Then doubles by Don Pavletich and Chico Ruiz gave him an insurance run in the eighth.

Self Defense Verdict in Gun Death at Steele

STEELE - Self defense was the ruling in an inquest held in the slaying of a 43-year-old Negro man by a city policeman, also a Negro, Sunday.

Tommy German, mayor and Pemiscot County deputy sheriff, reported that Tommy Lee Hill was shot "three or four times" by Otis White during an attempted arrest at 2 a.m. Sunday at Twigg's Cafe.

According to German, "White told a Negro woman she was under arrest and Hill pulled a gun on him. White shot him and every time Hill recovered from a bullet hitting him, he'd raise the gun again, so White kept on shooting."

When the mayor arrived at the cafe Hill was dead and still had a .38 caliber pistol in his hand. The woman White was trying to arrest fled.

Don't use kerosene or gasoline to start fires, warns the National Safety Council.

Dexter Hospital at Half Way Mark

DEXTER - The Dexter Memorial hospital, Stoddard County's first hospital, is nearing the "half-way mark," it has been announced, and a second fund-raising campaign is under way, to complete the construction.

The hospital, planned as a 50-bed, non-profit institution, is being financed by public subscriptions plus a federal grant from the Hill-Harris funds. The public subscription plan was adopted after three failures in trying to vote a bond issue in Stoddard County.

The Dexter hospital is 25 miles and half-way between Poplar and Sikeston, nearest sites of other hospitals.

The hospital, expected to be ready for use in the summer of 1968, will serve an area with a population of 25,000 to 30,000 persons.

Westvaco to Begin Building

WICKLIFFE, KY. - Westvaco is scheduled to start construction on its $80 million pulp and paper plant at Wickliffe in August.

The announcement concludes the final stage of financing to assure the plant's construction in the Ballard County seat of Wickliffe.

Earth work will be the first phase of the construction with actual building scheduled to begin in the spring of 1968 and to be completed in 1970.

The dramatic conclusion of the "fairy tale" story occurred in Wickliffe and in the company's New York headquarters.

Wickliffe city officials delivered to New York the $80 million worth of construction bonds to the underwriter, Drexel Harriman Ripley, Inc., for distribution to buyers.

The bonds were sold within a few hours after the City of Wickliffe, adopted the ordinance offering them for sale.

The official party on the New York trip included Mayor James A. Wilson, City Clerk Flo Draper, and City Attorney Noah Geveden.

Mrs. Draper, signed 17,000 bonds, 24 at a time, at the Chase Manhattan National Bank of New York. The bonds were then delivered to the underwriter.

The $80 million check to the City of Wickliffe went to the construction fund trustee, James A. Payne, executive vice president of Chase Manhattan National Bank.

While the New York delegation concluded its phase of the operation, another important part was taking place in Wickliffe.

Two Paducah attorneys, Henry Whitlow and Tom Waller, who have represented Westvaco ever since it was a vague prospect under the name of the Ohio River Valley Timber Co., and C. W. Gafton, Louisville attorney and bond counselor, delivered the deed to the City of Wickliffe for the 1,200 acres of land Westvaco bought for the plant site in Ballard and Carlisle Counties.

At the same time the City of Wickliffe presented the lease on the land to the representatives of Westvaco which will run for 25 years.

Westvaco will employ several hundred people, mostly men during the construction period as many as 1,000 will work on the plant during peak periods.

The plant is expected to contribute $20 million annually to the economy of the state and area.

Approximately 250 people will be employed by independent wood producers in the area as a result of the plant's operation.

Illmo's Doctor Faces Navy Duty

ILLMO - Dr. J. Marstall Jung, of Illmo-Scott City, has been ordered to report for duty with the Navy, and persons living in that twin-city town are shocked and a little frightened at the news. Dr. Jung is the only physician there.

A civic leader in Illmo, said contact is being made with the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, an agency who works with American Medical Society in procuring doctors for small communities. He said that prior to Dr. Jung's arrival, Illmo-Scott City was without a doctor for 12 years.

The situation in Vietnam, with "it's ever increasing need for doctors" is the reason given by local draft board members, for drafting Dr. Jung and other small the town doctors.

Dear Editor Blanton

THE WHEEL OF EDUCATION

The child is the hub, or the focal point, the teachers are the spokes that holds the wheel firmly, the rim, the paint and other trimmings represent all others in the Wheel of Education, that are vital in the proper direction in which this wheel must roll.

The teachers are recognized as the most important in all phases of learning. They are nearest to the child at time of molding personalities, maturity from baby to boy and in guiding the child in his tempermental tantrums to joyous laughter. They teach the child the beginning skills that he will need all through his life. One weak spoke in the wheel can do much damage to many pupils. Without proper guidance and presentation in teaching the realm of the great Educational Wheel can not roll into the successful achievement.

Educators must face significant literary facts, stay out of ruts, keep salaries, building and environments conducive to attract the very best to teach in todays modern classrooms. People not dedicated to their professions should not be permitted to work and further disturb the disturbed.

Academic frustrations and failure heads the list for dropouts in our schools. The untrained individual is at the bottom of the heap, economically. He is the first to feel the effects of the diminishing demand for unskilled labor. Training the very young is one of the finest solutions, before damage has been done to the pupils minds and hearts.

The humanities approach complements and accompanies the techniques to inspire creative thinking, curosity and the desire to learn. This comes naturally with the capabilities of a good teacher. This does not mean that he must be an A student himself, with an IQ of 140. It simply means a combination of qualities that compose a good teacher as, personality, enthusiasm, love for people, pleasant voice tonality, compassion for color and creed, one who reads extensively, and is trained to do the job.

The Wheel of Education rolls into a new trend of teaching every few years. Specialization for all levels is coming in the near future, as no teacher is capable of teaching all academic subjects, fine arts, physical education and give his best care to the emotional, intellectual and physical growth of each individual child.

To the Editor:

According to the July 31 issue of U.S. News & World Report, the House on July 20 refused to take up a rat control bill which would have earmarked $40,000,000 in federal money to help states and localities get rid of rats.

Representative H.R. Gross of Iowa suggested the possibility that a "High Commissioner of the Rat Corps" would be named.

In administering these various federal programs a multitude of federal workers are put to work, and by the time their salaries are paid there is little money left to take care of the program. Our state governments should resent the federal government trying to take over all of their responsibilities. Local government knows where rat infested areas are. Let's permit them to do the job.

Defeat of the bill brought a critical statement from President Johnson that it was a "cruel blow to poor children." These are compassionate words, but the deeds of this "Great Society" have put ropes around the necks of our children for their lives and their children's lives in taxing us to death.

It doesn't take $40,000,000 to cover garbage pails, and responsible adults should not be throwing garbage in the yard. No amount of federal money can eradicate this problem.

One last suggestion on rat control that costs nothing: Has Mr. Johnson explored the idea of using our cat population?

Flood Damage Tops $3 Million

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — June and July flood damage in the millions caused Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Tuesday to ask President Johnson to declare 57 Missouri counties disaster areas.

He said damages totaled $3,211,000 to roads, streets, bridges, dikes, levees, drainage ditches and public utilities. The cost included fighting the floods and health and sanitation measures.

The figures were compiled by the State Civil Defense Agency on the basis of reports from local officials.

If the counties are declared disaster areas, federal funds would be available only for temporary repair of public works.

FOOD INDUSTRY

Robert D. Stuart, Jr.
President
The Quaker Oats Company

Last December, our forecast of lower food prices during the first half of 1967 was quiet risky in view of the many variables related to the Vietnam war. Yet, the forecast proved correct, and grocery store food prices in April were 1.6 per cent lower than in December despite a 0.5 per cent increase in the Consumer Price Index.

These lower retail food prices have been an important factor in moderating the rise in over-all consumer prices. The percentage of disposable income that Americans spent on food dropped again from an average of 18 per cent for 1966 to 17.5 per cent in April, 1967. This is the lowest percentage in our history and is far lower than for any other country in the world.

Now, the recent Middle Eastern developments and the continued volatility in Vietnam make forecasting even more difficult. Nonetheless, it seems inevitable that food prices will rise during the second half of the year. We cannot expect prices for food to keep going down when costs for just about everything else are rising.

While prices for foods eaten at home declined in the first four months of 1967, restaurant and institutional food prices inched upward. We believe that both the "at home" and "away from home" categories will reflect higher prices in the last half of the year.

The variables in Vietnam and the Middle East make it hazardous to predict the amount of increases, but with wholesale prices already turning up, retail increases of at least 2 per cent over current levels are a probability by the year's end. Despite this, food prices for the year are not expected to increase as much as the over-all Consumer Price Index.

Supplies of beef, pork, lamb, eggs, and poultry during the first quarter averaged well above 1966 levels, causing a 7 per cent reduction in prices received by the farmer. For the full year, livestock marketings will be only 2 per cent above 1966, and higher red meat prices at the farm and retail levels will result although poultry prices may remain under 1966 levels.

Food dollar sales and physical volume are up currently as the industry meets the demand caused by higher per capita income and a growing population. Disposable personal income rose by 7 per cent in the first quarter over a year earlier.

Despite the general slowdown in some business sectors during the early months of this year, grocery store sales in dollars in the first quarter topped those of the first 1966 quarter by about 3 per cent. We expect the growth rate to be at least this much for 1967 as a whole, and probably slightly better.

Although either increased economic assistance in the Middle East or stepped-up military efforts could lead again to talk about price controls, we believe that action in this area is unlikely, barring a dramatic escalation of defense needs. The food industry's track record on prices during a period of rising inflationary pressure is one of the strongest arguments against any hasty authorization of price controls. Revival of the tax increase proposal of last January is a strong posibility, however.

The food industry, which has traditionally operated on lower profit margins than most other businesses and with a high degree of competition, will have to be especially inventive in overcoming the cost-profit squeeze in the months ahead. Items such as the recently negotiated wage increases of 9 per cent fore chain store warehouse employees and truckers in San Francisco and of 8 1/2 per cent for chain store retail clerks in Detroit are significant in their effects on both prices and profits.

On the other hand, the evident necessity for reflecting these increases costs in higher prices, when combined with less emphasis on discount merchandising, may lead to better profits in the second half of 1967. At the same time, there should be an improvement in the rate of return on new product investment as consumers are able to afford more convenience products and retailers become increasingly aware of the profit potential in these new items.

With both higher costs and higher prices ahead, we believe that food company profits will be quite uneven during the second half of 1967. While industry averages should approximate current levels, the profit performance of any particular business will depend not only on the marketing skills of its management but also on the competitive climate of that business's area of activity.

Mail Delivery Tall Order in Manhattan

NEW YORK (AP) - There was an era in this country when the mail was a case of writing your letters and taking your chances.

Couriers couldn't always overcome the weather and highwaymen; stagecoaches couldn't always avoid Indians, and once in a while, a Pony Express rider and his saddlebags would disappear along the trail.

But all that was many, many years BZC - Before Zip Code.

Today's postal system has long since overcome the problems of the 17th and 18th centuries.

But in New York City, the problems of the 20th century are murder.

Manhattan's main post office - called the New York Post Office, although its territory does not cover the city's four other boroughs - says it handles more mail each day than all the post offices in France - some 31 million pieces.

That totals eight billion pieces a year, one-tenth the national volume on one 13.5-by-2.5 mile island that is the heart of the nation's business world.

The Post Office thinks it performs the monumental task with unheralded efficiency, but not because the people it serves make the job particularly easy. In truth, New Yorkers seem inadvertently to everything they can to make the difficult job impossible.

They have a tendency, because this island is relatively small, to stack their homes and businesses one on top of another until the resulting skyscrappers soar so high one gets a whiplash craning to see the tops of them.

In the 102-story Empire State Building, for example, it takes 25 mail carriers working eight hours a day to get everything in its ordered place. They make three pickups and three deliveries daily.

"Whenever I see a new skyscraper going up, whether it's a business office or a new apartment complex, I don't see brick or aluminum or glass, I see one gigantic mailbag," said Acting Postmaster John R. Strachan.

Strachan - who gets fewer than 100 complaints a day from Manhattanites - doesn't worry much about the service. He says he is confident that no matter what New York builds, the Post Office can handle its mail.

That is, if his men can get to it. Everyone knows the "snow nor rain, or heat nor gloom of night" bit, but these are modern times.

From about 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., the streets of Manhattan become a creeping glut of motorized commerce that defies any mail truck to accomplish the swift completion of its appointed rounds.

But by far, Strachan says, the biggest problem is that New Yorkers are creatures of habit and one of their worst habits is dumping the vast majority of their mail into chutes and boxes in the evening.

"If I could have one wish for the Post Office, it would be that people get out of the habit of mailing everying when they leave their offices at night and start mailing during the day," Strachan said.

"Most of the mail in Manhattan is business mail. I know people write business letters and prepare advertising all day, not just in the late afternoon. So why don't they mail it when it's ready?"

There are more than 40,000 postal employes in Manhattan, and Strachan says he can get more if he needs them.

"But what good would twice that number be if they're just going to be immobilized in traffic or stand around with their hands in their pockets for lack of anything to do?"

Woman Has Key Role in Rebel Band

CAMIRI, Bolivia (AP) — A woman guerrilla named Tania has brought psychological warfare to Bolivia's Marxist rebel front in the mountains.

A jungle version of World War II's Tokyo Rose, she uses a bullhorn during combat to exhort Bolivian troops to lay down their arms.

"Surrender, little soldier, you're surrounded," she will cry unseen in the dark green foliage of the mountainside.

"It is startling and really shakes you the first time you hear her," said a medic who has been involved in two clashes between the army and the guerrillas.

Tania also acts as a decoy. Her small, booted footprints are seen along the mountain trails.

"We've learned to start taking cover when we see her footprints," said the medic. "They usually mean ambush."

Tania is well known to many people in this oil town of 22,000 in southeast Bolivia, about 360 miles from La Paz, the capital. Her full name is believed to be Tania Gutierres Baurer. She was a frequent visitor in February, a month before the fighting began, and because of a weakness for pasta became a regular at the Maietta restaurant, run by Italian Federico Forfori. He says she is about 29 with a deep voice and authoritative mien.

It was not known then, but at the time the guerrillas already had established a clandestine base 40 miles north of Camiri.

She is believed to have come on shopping or intelligence missions.

The fact the guerrillas brought Tania along for psychological warfare purposes is another indication to Bolivian military authorities here that the rebel band is largely an import from Cuba.

"It has organizational refinements beyond the capacity or means of Bolivian Communists," said one officer.

The guerrillas, estimated at 80 to 100 men, appear to have opened up two fronts in the southeast part of the country. One group is known to be operating some 75 miles north of Camiri. The other has hit towns southwest of Santa Cruz, a prosperous oil and sugar center of 100,000 people 170 miles to the north.

On July 7, in the most daring stab since fighting began in late March, the guerrillas took over the small town of Samaipata, 60 miles west of Santa Cruz, for a few hours. They killed one soldier and captured an officer and nine men but released them all unharmed later.

This raid put the guerrillas within 100 miles of a military base where 16 Green Berets of the U.S. Special Forces are putting specially selected Bolivian troops through a tough four-month course in counterguerilla tactics. The objective is to create three special Ranger battalions.

This training program was established by a U.S. military assistance agreement under which Bolivia also receives some military equipment. The Bolivian air force recently acquired four U.S. T28 training planes and two P51 Mustangs, World War II fighters. That is as far as the assistance goes.

Washington bars U.S. military and official personnel, even Peace Corpsmen, from the guerrilla operation zone.

The zone now is confined to an area of 3,600 square miles in the southeast, although there have been guerrilla sightings elsewhere in the country.

Coldest Temperature

The coldest temperature in the history of our planet was logged in the year 1958 at Sovietskaya, a Russian base about 700 miles from the South Pole. A temperature of 127 degrees below zero was recorded.

DISCOVERING AMERICA BY CAR

This summer most families will be exploring the country by car, largely because of the comfort and convenience auto travel offers. Discovering America can be even more fun and convenient with thorough advance planning, the kind that starts with a trip plan. You can order good plans --complete with marked maps; hotel, motel, and highway information, and expense-record forms -- from major oil companies or through membership in organizations like the American Oil Motor Club.

Request that your maps show the scenic route if you really want to explore. Take a direct route back if you must, or an alternate scenic route if you have time. Out - of - the - way places can add unprecedented pleasure and advanture to a trip. Your wandering needn't be haphazard, however. The second part of good planning is knowing where you can get accurate local information -- at As You Travel service stations, for example, or the special tourist-information booths set up in many cities during the travel season. (The emergency information local sources have -- where to find a good doctor, lawyer, or veterinarian, for instance -- can be might helpful, too, if you suddenly need it.)

So you don't miss the unplanned fun, determine the main things you want to see and do and exactly how long it takes to get from one to another. Then add a few days of uncommitted time to your vacation to enjoy some memorable side-pleasures.

"Get in Dutch"

The expression, "get in Dutch," meaning a great deal of trouble, started when Britain and Holland were battling for control of trade on the seas. The English tried to discredit everything Dutch by propaganda methods — thus everything Dutch was considered bad.

Hawkins is the son of Editor R. N. Hawkins of the Portageville Missourian and Mrs. Hawkins. He served four years in the air force, stationed on Guam for almost two years. Married to the former Dorothy Case of Pittsburg, they have four children, Randy, 11, Kim 10, Michael 8, and Christopher 3.

The family plans to move to DeKalb this month.

LIGHTS FOR SAFETY

Driving with your headlights on day as well as night is a good safety precaution in the heavy traffic of a holiday weekend - or anytime you're on the highway. It makes other motorists especially aware of you and reminds them to drive carefully. Their oncoming lights help break the monotony of driving for you, particularly if you're traveling a seemingly endless stretch of expressway.

FOR THE FIRST TIME since cancer deaths have been recorded in Missouri, the number of cancer deaths went over the 8,000 mark in 1966. Statistics compiled by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Missouri Department of Health and analyzed by the Missouri division of the American Cancer Society show that 8,059 Missourians died of the disease last year, a jump of 154 over 1965.

Cancer Death Toll in Missouri Tops 8,000

JEFFERSON CITY -- The annual death toll of cancer went over the 8,000 mark for the first time in Missouri in 1966 when 8,049 deaths were recorded by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Missouri Department of Health. The figures compiled by that agency and analyzed by the Missouri Division of the American Cancer Society show consistency with the figures of previous years in that more males were killed by the disease than females and that cancer of the lung is the leading cause of cancer deaths, taking both males and females together.

However, although the number of cancer deaths increased by 154 over the previous year of 1965, the number of lung cancer deaths actually decreased by nine. There were 1,436 fatalities from lung cancer - 1,224 male and 212 female. These figures represent an increase of 27 for men and a decrease of 36 for women.

Cancer of the large intestine and rectum, taken together, accounted for 1,123 deaths, counting both sexes, and thus is the number two killer. But cancer of the breast is still the highest killer among women; 610 died of it that disease last year. Cancer of the reproductive organs was the second highest killer of women with 636 deaths.

Although usually thought of as an adult disease, cancer caused the death of 89 children under the age of 15 last year.

Cancer authorities state that one out of three cancer patients is now being cured of cancer, whereas one out of two could be cured if people would use the knowledge that is available to protect themselves against the disease - annual checkups and observance of the seven warning signals. On this basis, it can be assumed that about 2,000 Missourians lost their lives needlessly to the disease in 1966 because they did not use this information. Nationwide, it is estimated that approximately 100,000 persons lost their lives needlessly for the same reason. The American Cancer Society states that over 1,400,000 cured cancer patients living in the United States attest that cancer can be cured. The Society is pushing a public information and education program to try to decrease the number of needless deaths, especially in six sites that cause most of the deaths, yet have a good rate of cure when detected early.

Sensing The News

BY THURMAN SENSING
Executive Vice President
Southern States Industrial Council

Though the United States rightly wants to be a good neighbor to the Latin republics in this hemisphere, it should never indulge in appeasement of countries in this hemisphere by sacrificing sovereign rights and imperilling the security of the Americas.

Unhappily, it seems that the Johnson administration may indulge in the ultimate appeasement of Panama with regard to the canal and canal zone. On the President's desk, at last report, were draft treaties covering the strategic waterway and the zone which the United States was held since 1903. According to reliable reports, the draft treaties involve a surrender of U. S. sovereignty over the Panama Canal and the canal zone.

In the light of what has happened in the Caribbean and elsewhere in the world -- principally at Suez, a U.S. backdown on the Panama Canal issue could be fatal to the best interests of the United States and other countries in this hemisphere.

Since the communists came to power in Russia, their propaganda has hammered at U.S. control of the Panama Canal. The communists understand that the U.S. would suffer a terrible blow if the inter-oceanic canal were lost. They recognize how much the communist world has gained by the ousting of the British from the Suez Canal, and they hope for a similar success in the Panamanian isthmus.

U.S. sovereign rights over the canal and canal zone were confirmed in a solemn treaty signed by Panama and ratified by the United States. No Panamanian government can take away from the United states the authority it rightfully possesses under this treaty. Only the U.S. Senate can abandon the rights enjoyed by the United States, and this it should never do, no matter how much the President may plead.

The U.S. is on the wrong course with respect to Panama. Since the 1950s, there have been many riots and threats of riot against U.S. citizens living in the isthmus. These riots have been organized to bring pressure against the United States to relinquish its rightful authority in the zone. They constitute political blackmail of the United States. Several administrations have erred in handling the problem. They have bowed to pressure from the blackmailers. As always is the case in blackmail, concessions have resulted in fresh demands. One can be sure that new Panama Canal treaties would result in another wave of demands on the U. S. The truth is that appeasement doesn't pay.

The idea of sharing control of the Panama Canal with the Panamanians is an absurdity. Panama is one of the most unstable countries in Latin America. It simply isn't a fit partner for the U. S. in an operation of immense importance to all the maritime and trading nations of the world. Responsible Latins should understand this as well as U.S. citizens. Chile and Peru, for example, are utterly dependant on efficient operation of the Panama Canal.

Yet no one could offer any evidence supporting the view that Panama has the technical competence and political stability essential to the management of the Panama Canal.

It would be a mistake, of course, to regard the furor over the Panama Canal simply as a case of Panamanian nationalism. Behind the commotion are the ambitions of the Soviet Union and its Caribbean satellite, Red Cuba. Since Fidel Castro first grabbed power in Havana, he has been interested in sparking revolution in Panama -- revolution aimed at seizure of the strategic waterway. It is reasonable to suppose that the recent discussions between Castro and Premier Alexei Kosygin of Russia involved the Panama Canal question.

PAUL FLOWERS' GREENHOUSE

Ever since my favorite housemaid - of - all - work upgraded herself to a domestic auxiliary, I have been entranced by the wonderful world of occupational euphemism, even unto the precincts of my own trade, craft and profession, now popularly known as journalism.

One need not be an ancient to recall when the word "journalism" wore a halo of mild opprobrium and fetched forth scorn from oldtimers who wanted nothing better than to be known as reporters, beat, or re-write men.

A few decades ago, had you referred to one of the oldtime reporters - say the fictional Hildy Johnson in the Hecht - MacArthur play "The Front Page" or real ones like 'Fuzzy' Woodruff, 'Pee Wee' Hull, Gene Travis, or 'Spider' Rowland - as a journalist - you would have had a fight on your hands, but our craft has become more effete, and journalist is today.

This is in line with widespread upgrading of names for practitioners of assorted arts and crafts, and the end is not in sight.

Although loosely applied, in public usage, to any male person who teaches, the term "professor" now has been narrowed to one holding the highest rank in the pedantic hierarchy; the professor outranks the associate professor, who in turn outranks the assistant professor, who similarly is a cut above the instructor. If you don't believe those distinctions mean something, ignore them and brace yourself for your comeuppance.

There are those of us old enough to remember when "professor" was a term of endearment applied to one who played the piano in a temple of public accommodation, but the term now implies maximum respectability.

"Doctor" is another honorific which has gone through a spectrum of associations. When Gear spoke of "doctor and saint," he alluded to one much learned in philosophy, logic and esoteric matters. It is only in comparatively recent times that healers, fixers of artificial postures, veterinary practitioners and spine adjusters assumed the title; and there are those of the healing arts who object to use of the honorific by specialists in other disciplines.

Likewise, the scholar (in almost any field) who passed his class, seminar and research projects, pumped through the oral comprehensives, and published a dissertation, reverses his "earned" doctorate, and looks down his nose at anybase upstart who sports an honorary degree.

It would be unkind to mention that the "earned" doctorate requires five, six or seven years of post - baccalaureate work, while as an expert in highway construction, manipulation of financial institutions, or administration of great mercantile establishments might have invested 35 to 50 years acquiring the wisdom qualifying him to don the toga and hood (and the assets to endow a chair, build a library, or finance a new student center for the institution conferring the degree).

Folks do like high - sounding titles. As the housemaid becomes a domestic auxiliary, the janitor becomes a sanitary (or maintenance) engineer; press agents become public relations counselors; cobblers are known as footwear engineers; and the onetime interior decorator graduates into an "engineer of good taste." The undertaker progresses to funeral director and then to mortician; the real estate agent becomes a member of the national board and assumes the title of Realtor; a craftman who wires your house is an electrician, and a limb pruner emerges as a tree surgeon.

The hairdresser becomes a beautician; the barber; who abandoned surgery after the striped pole became a familiar symbol, is a tonsorial artist or hair stylist; the floor - walker graduates into an aisle manager; and the dog-catcher becomes a warden of the humane shelter.

The pool hall hatches into a billiard studio; the corner saloon (where not outlawed) is a cocktail lounge; garbage becomes table - waste.

Instead of the good old honest second - hand things, now we buy used, reconditioned, or repossessed goods; the drummer is a detail man.

Commercial Appeal

NEW PUSH -- OLD IDEA

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) -- The idea of churches paying taxes, as advocated by some churchmen recently, is not a new one. The Christian Churches (Disciples) headquarters here notes that President James A. Garfield, a lay preacher in the denomination, told Congress in 1874:

"The division between the church and state ought to be so absolute that no church property anywhere in the state or nation should be exempt from taxation, for if you exempt the property of any church organization, to that extent you impose a church tax upon the whole community."

BE SURE OF YOUR SIGHT

Good vision is essential to good driving, says the American Oil Women's Representative. Before taking the wheel, she advises, be sure your sight isn't impaired by . . .

1. Lack of glasses or proper lenses. Have your eyes checked frequently, with special reference to driving. If you normally wear glasses, be sure you have prescription sunglasses, too.
2. Sunglasses with elaborate sidepieces or with lenses in tints that distort shapes and distances. (Sage green and grey are the best lens -colors.)
3. Objects on the rear-view mirrow, stickers on the back window, items on the back deck that block the window.
4. Faulty headlight beams. Beams need periodic adjustment so they throw maximum light at the proper angle to the road.

On long-distance trips, stop and rest -- or change drivers -- whenever your eyes begin to feel tired.

The lieutenant, back home after a tour of duty as a military adviser in Vietnam, was explaining that a big problem there was how to distinguish between the peasant farmers and Viet Cong guerrillas. "Isn't there some sure way you can tell a communist?" inquired one of his listeners.

"There's one sure way," said the lieutenant. "If he shoots you, he's a communist." Joe Ryan

Mrs. Quick is a past vice president of the Junior Federated Woman's club, vice president of the Stoddard County Association for Retarded Children and president of the Dexter - Bloomfield branch of the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Quick has made centerpieces of spools from a shirt factory. She sprayed the spools gold, arranged them in a circle and decorated them with artificial fruit and flowers.

Quick is a basket - ball fan and raises a large garden.

A treasure in the home is the family's china closet. Mrs. Quick has a bowl that belonged to her grandmother.

Recipes that Mrs. Quick suggests are:

BANANA SPLIT CAKE

Mrs. Quick says that this cake is very good and extra moist.

Melt a 4-ounce bar sweet cooking chocolate or 4 ounces of semi-sweet chocolate in 1/4 cup water over hot water. Sift together 2 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon salt. Cream 1 cup shortening (half margarine and half cooking oil) with 1 1/2 cups sugar.

Blend in 2 unbeaten eggs and 2 egg whites one at a time beating well after each. Stir in 1 cup overripe bananas, 1 teaspoon vanilla and the melted chocolate.

Add the dry ingredients alternately with 1 cup buttermilk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Blend after each addition. Stir in 3/4 cup chopped pecans.

Bake in three 9-inch pans at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

For the banana filling:

Combine 3/4 cup canned milk, 3/4 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks (saved from whites used in cake), 3 tablespoons butter. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until very thick -- about 10-12 minutes.

Add 1/2 cup mashed bananas and boil 1/2 minute longer. Remove from heat and add 3/4 cup chopped nuts and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cool and stir occasionally.

This is only a filling and topping. If sides are to be covered, double recipe.

NEVER - FAIL DOUGHNUTS

Dissolve 1 package yeast in 1/4 cup warm water. Heat 1/2 cup milk to boiling point then pour over 3 tablespoons shortening.

The hot milk will melt the shortening. When slightly cool, add 1/2 cup sugar, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix well. Add 3 1/4 cups flour, small amounts at a time.

Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Turn out on a floured board and roll out to about 1/2 inch thickness. Cut with a doughnut cutter and fry in hot fat.

When both sides have been browned, dip in a glaze of powdered sugar, cream and a little vanilla. Mix up desired amount. It should be thin so excess will drip off.

CRUMB TOP APPLE PIE

Slice apples 3/4 full or more in 9 - inch pie pan. Sprinkle 2/3 cup sugar over apples. Dot with butter, about 2 tablespoons, 3 or 4 tablespoons water and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1 cup flour
1 stick oleo

Mix brown sugar, flour and oleo by hand until about the size of peas. Pour over apple mixture. Bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes.

RECEPTION SALAD

1 package lemon Jello
1 large can crushed pineapple
1 8-ounce package Philadelphia cream cheese
1 small can pimientos.
1 cup celery, chopped fine
1 cup pecans, chopped fine
1/2 pint whipping cream, whipped
Pinch of salt

Boil juice from large can of crushed pineapple. Remove from heat and add Jello and stir until dissolved. Cream the cheese and pimientos. To this add celery, nuts, salt and pineapple. When pineapple juice and Jello are cold, add to creamed mixture.

Last, fold in whipped cream. Freeze or chill several hours.

LEMON-SOUR CREAM PIE

Combine 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch and dash salt. Slowly stir in 1 cup milk. Cook and stir till mixture is boiling and thickened.

Blend small amount of hot mixture into 3 slightly beaten egg yolks; return to hot mixture. Cook and stir 2 minutes.

Add 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon shredded lemon peel and 1/4 cup lemon juice. Cover and cool. Fold in 1 cup dairy sour cream. Spoon into baked 9 - inch pastry shell.

Beat 3 egg whites with 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla to soft peaks. Gradually add 6 tablespoons sugar, beating to stiff peaks. Spread meringue over pie, sealing to edge.

Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden. Cool.

At the height of World War II, some British MP's protested indignantly in the House of Commons because Field Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery had entertained a defeated Italian general at dinner. After listening for a time, Winston Churchill, who is known for his love of a good table while Montgomery is something of an ascetic, rose and addressed the House: "I do not know if the honorable member who is complaining has ever had dinner with Montgomery, I have and my sympathies are entirely with the Italian general!"

Geoffrey Daukes

FEDERAL SPENDING -- In a recent address on federal spending Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.) said, "Inflation is taking a bite out of all our incomes and it threatens to take more. In a sense, inflation is nothing but a tax - and a most dangerous tax at that. A tax levied by the government to slow-down inflation and prevent our government from going into a deep deficit is far preferable. No administration can afford to permit run-away inflation."

Food Aid Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave speedy and unanimous approval today for an immediate start on an emergency program to provide food and medical care for starving and needy persons anywhere in the nation or territories.

Cutting through usual red tape, it passed a bill authorizing $25 million this fiscal year and $50 million the following year "to prevent human suffering or loss of life."

Sen. John Stennis, D.Miss., proposed the emergency program after a Senate Labor and Welfare subcommittee held that families were starving and lacked the basic medical care in the Mississippi Delta and some other areas.

The funds would be administered by the secretaries of health, education and welfare and agriculture along with the governors of the states involved.

Mermaid Legend

It is thought that the posture of the manatee in holding its young to the breast, as human mothers do, was noted by ancient seafaring men, thus giving rise to the legend of the mermaids—half-woman and half-fish.

Hand coloring of black and white photographs probably began about 1840.

Teen-Ager Life Sentence

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 17-year-old youth Tuesday pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree murder and was sentenced to a life term in prison.

Richard K. Goodwin was accused with two others in the April 27 slaying of McCormick J. Holmes, 57, in a service station holdup. Holmes was the father of 11 children. Goodwin was shot in the arm in a scuffle with Holmes and fled after firing one shot.

Judge Richard H. Koenigsdorf asked Goodwin how he felt at having killed someone.

"Well, I am sorry it happened— sorry for what I did," the defendant said.

Two others still are awaiting trial on first degree murder charges in the case.

LIFE TRANSFIGURED

We must learn to see — and not just think nor affirm, but see with our eyes — that the world is the handiwork of God; that it is not a self-sufficient universe, but a thing that speaks to us of God. We have to discover the silent, the delicate, the tender, for such are the things which transfigure life.

Laclede Clerk's Election Upheld

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A ruling by Circuit Judge H. A. Kelso of Nevada upholding the election of the Laclede County clerk last November was upheld by the Springfield Court of Appeals Tuesday.

Bill Nichols, the Republican nominee, claimed his name had been printed improperly on absentee ballots. He had a lead over Preston Schmoutey, his Democratic opponent after the regular count, but obtained only 47 of the 347 absentee votes.

A suit was filed by the Republican party in Nichols' behalf asking the absentee ballots not be counted. Judge Kelso ruled against them.

Court Sustains Bullfight Appeal

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)— A district judge held Tuesday that teasing a bull by waving a cape at him and then gracefully stepping away from his charge is not cruelty.

Judge Joe H. Swinehart followed his ruling with an order sustaining the suit of two men who asked that Wyandotte County officials be required to issue a permit for a bloodless bullfighting exhibition.

Barton Nelson and Charles L. Goodman, who are seeking the permit, said the exhibition will be staged Sept. 2 and 3 at the Wyandotte County fairgrounds.

They said the bulls and the fighters would be imported from Mexico.

John Ziegelmeyer, attorney for the pair, contended in court that teasing a bull was not being any meaner to animals than lassoing them or causing them to buck.

Dangerous Agreements

THE current series of talks between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S., seeking an agreement to curb both offensive and defensive missiles, is in my opinion just another communist attempt to further their objectives by negotiating. By violating the previous nuclear test ban treaty the Kremlin bosses obtained great strategic advantages in their knowledge of the powerful x-rays resulting from nuclear explosions in space. Because our government respected the agreement, our scientists do not have this important knowledge. We are even now at a great disadvantage, as compared with the Soviet Union. It is, therefore, to the advantage of the Soviet Union to reach an agreement limiting the missile and anti-missile race, because in this very important respect they are far ahead. If by negotiating they can freeze the status quo, it will be difficult, if not impossible, for us to catch up.

Dr. Kershner

Furthermore, our government should never lose sight of the fact that the U.S.S.R. will renounce any agreement that might be reached whenever it appears advisable to do so, and that even before it may be denounced, it will most assuredly be violated if this appears advantageous to the Soviet Union.

A fatal weakness in the defense of our country is the apparent inability or unwillingness of Washington to properly appraise the fact that communism knows it cannot exist permanently with capitalism. This is true because communism cannot successfully compete with capitalism as a wealth-producing economic system. It must, therefore, if it wishes to live, destroy capitalism. Over and over the communists have told us that this is their aim, and that they use treaties, agreements, negotiations and other subtle means, just as mere tactics to gain their ends. A good example of this is the three temporary cease-fire agreements in Vietnam, all of which have been violated by the Communists and used for the purpose of building up their supplies to gain all possible military advantage. Not only have they done this in each case, but they have also engaged in a substantial measure of shooting, even during these truces. In the face of the record it seems very foolish and exceedingly dangerous to entrust the future of our country and the lives of our people to any so-called agreement that might be reached with the Soviet government.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

July 28, 1967

Honorable George Murphy
Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510
My dear Senator Murphy:

I sympathize with you on taxes since all your constituents are against tax increases.

There is no need for any new foreign aid appropriations since there are $16,925 billion unliquidated funds from prior years available now! The claim that 90% of foreign aid economic assistance is spent in the U.S. is just plain not true. The 1966 U.S. Dept. of Commerce reports indicate clearly only about 43.6% was spent in the U.S.

Following are facts from NAM Reports, page 7, June 19, 1967:

Since 1960 the population of the United States has grown 10%.
Since 1960 Government employees increased 25%.
Since 1960 Cost of Government payrolls increased 75%.
Since 1960 All Government spending increased 80%.
Since 1960 Defense expenditures increased 68%
BUT
Since 1960 non-defense expenditures increased 97%!
Since 1960 national welfare and health increased 210%!
THEREFORE
NON - DEFENSE ACTIVITIES ARE THE OFFENDERS!

Your constituents just can't afford any more foreign aid or increased taxes for domestic non - defense spending.

Sincerely,
C. C. Moseley

Army Begins Course To Solve NCO Void

FT. BENNING, Ga. AP ---- Stripes on the sleeve, instead of bars on the shoulder, will mark the "90 - day wonder" of the Vietnam war.

A new term, "Instant NCO," will be the nickname for noncommissioned officers trained through 12 - week classes at Ft. Benning under a program designed to produce thousands of new noncoms to lead five teams and rifle squads.

The program is patterned after the "90-day wonder" course which filled a shortage of officers in World War II.

Officially titled the NCO Candidate Course, the new program is expected to turn out about 8,000 noncommissioned officers in 41 classes within a year.

As I walked home from the railroad station after a day in the city, a violent rainstorm forced me to take shelter in the doorway of a drycleaning establishment. Then - a flash of inspiration! Why not ask for a piece of that plastic bagging, used to protect newly cleaned garments, to throw over my head and shoulders?

The proprietor readily agreed. "Stand under the dispensing unit and hold up your arms," he said. Whereupon he pulled a full length of plastic over me, cut holes for my head and arms, gave me a small piece to use as a kerchief and sent me on my way.

Henriettta Kaufman

Reminiscing, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas told a New York City audience about his service on the Yale Law School faculty under "boy-wonder" Dean Robert M. Hutchins in the late 1920's. They dropped in on the Supreme Court one day and, as Douglas related it, the late Justice James Clark McReynolds greeted Hutchins and said, "Well, dean, I suppose up at Yale Law School you're teaching the students that the members of the Court are nothing but a bunch of old fuddy-duddies." Hutchins, quick as a rattlesnake, replied, "No, Mr. Justice, we let them find out for themselves."

Douglas, now 67, added pensively, "I thought that was a funny story at the time, but it sort of haunts me as the years go by." Newsweek

Ann Landers

Stick Around NamePeople Don't Forget

Dear Ann Landers: I laughed over the letter about B (only) N (only) N (only) Jones who wound up in the Army with the name Bonly Nonly. It's bad enough when such things happen by accident, but what do you think about parents who would intentionally give a child a crazy name?

I read recently where someone who researched odd names through Social Security listings came across Tin Cans, Safety First, Never Gamble, July Bonus, Pork Chop, True Story and Born Young. The one that took the cake was the name was the one Mr. and Mrs. Around hung on their newborn son. They christened the boy Stick.

Why would parents do this to a child? Doesn't it mean they have a perverted sense of humor? --- JUST ASKING

Dear Just: Not necessarily. Some parents want to give their child a name no one will forget. If I ever meet Stick Around I'll never forget him. How about you?

Dear Ann Landers: What a relief to read a letter in your column from a woman who has the same problem I have. For years I thought I was the only wife in the world whose husband collected pornography, hid it under the rugs, in the trunk of the car, and even in the rafters of the attic.

When I first discovered my husband's "hobby," I was disgusted and shocked. He confessed that his intense interest in pornography began in adolescence and I realized he was ill. I begged him to get a psychiatric help but he refused. When our son found part of his collection he agreed to see a doctor. Although he is far from cured, he now understands his illness and is trying to get better.

I hope other wives who share this problem will recognize it is a sickness. Please tell them it takes a great deal of strength and courage to live with somebody else's problem, but it CAN be done, and I know it can be done, because I have been doing it. --- DES MOINES

Dear D.M.: Cheers for you. And for the thousands (yes, I said thousands) of other women who wrote to say they, too, are living with husbands who collect pornography. A problem understood is a problem half solved. Thanks to all of you who wrote to say, "Me, too."

Dear Ann Landers: I am 18 and going steady with a fellow 19. Jamie dated a girl for three years before I knew him. He says it was kid stuff and his love for me is much greater than the feeling he had for her. He did admit that she broke off with him, however.

Jamie is very fond of this girl's parents. When we first began to date he used to take me over there at least twice a week.

They are nice people but I was awfully uncomfortable in their presence and told him so. A few times his ex-sweetheart was at home when we arrived and I wanted to die. Finally I refused to go anymore, but he still goes at least once a week.

Jamie wants to marry me next year but I'm afraid he is still in love with his ex-sweetheart. What do you say? --- MONTREAL

Dear Montreal: It sounds as if he is still torching, Honey. Date others and urge Jamie to do the same. If, in a year, he still wants to marry you, and has knocked off his visits, reconsider.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

While stationed in Japan, my brother, an Army lietenant, was impressed with the efficient maid service in his bachelor officers' quarters. But, to remove temptation, he always hid his prized Nikon camera before leaving his room. One day he forgot and left the camera out on his bed. He was worried on his return to find it gone - until he discovered that the maid had put it back in its proper hiding place!

Annual Snake Hunt Slated

CHADWICK, Mo. (AP) - Hunters will vie for prizes at Chadwick's third annual snake hunt scheduled for Aug. 18.

The event, designed to rid the community of an excessive number of snakes, will get underway at 7 p.m.

The following night there will be a barbecue for hunters and the snake kill will be displayed.

Three prizes will be offered. One for the largest poisonous snake, one for the most snakes killed and another for the second largest kill.

Joe Hursh is in charge of the hunt for the Chadwick Cemetery Association.

Several hundred snakes were killed at the first hunt two years ago near the Pine Ridge Church area in Christian County. The hunt was organized during a church revival after residents claimed vibrations from musical instruments attracted the snakes.

There are many copperheads in the area.

Four-year-old Ronald W. Burkhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Burkhart, is reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital in Springfield after being bitten on the left ankle Sunday by a copperhead. The boy was playing in the yard of his home.

Scottish Kilts

The traditional style of the early Scottish kilt was a 15-foot length of tartan that the owner spread on the ground and pleated. Then he lay upon it, belted it around himself and pinned the upper part at the shoulder. The modern kilt extends only from waist to kneecap.

Professional Women

The United States was the first country to admit women into any legal profession; the teaching profession being first. In 1849, at Geneva, N.Y., the first woman in the United States received a license to practice medicine, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The Prayer From The Upper Room

If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered. (John 15:6)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for the life in Christ to which we are called. Teach us to live in fellowship with Thee and to enjoy the blessings of sitting at Thy feet and serving those in need. Grant unto us Thy power to overcome all temptations to drift away. In the name of Thy Son who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . . Amen."

It was a wonderful rain that fell in this section Friday night and Saturday. The cotton and corn, the beans and tomatoes are getting up and hustling. A few more such rains distributed during the month of August, will insure a good crop along the Ridge. It is a question whether any crop will mature in the bottoms the season has been so unfavorable.

Three More U.S. Planes Downed As Total Air Losses Reach 825

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the loss of three more American warplanes in combat and a Communist attack on an American ship.

The ground war lapsed back into a lull with no further fighting reported in the 10,000-man allied Operation Coronado II in the Mekong delta south of Saigon.

Two of the planes were lost over North Vietnam and the other in South Vietnam, bringing the total number of American warplanes reported lost in combat in the war to 825. This includes 629 over North Vietnam and 196 over the South. One of the losses over the North was an Air Force RF101 reconnaissance Voodoo and the pilot was missing. The other was a carrier-based Navy A4 Skyhawk; its pilot was rescued.

Communist fire brought down an Air Force F100 Supersabre fighter-bomber on a combat support mission over South Vietnam and the pilot was killed.

The U.S. Command also announced that six Vietnamese civilians were killed and 23 wounded by U.S. artillery and air strike mistakes. In a third such incident, a U.S. Army helicopter accidentally fired on troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 22 miles northeast of Saigon, killing one U.S. soldier and wounding seven.

A military spokesman said Viet Cong positions along the banks of the Long Tau River opened up on the American merchant ship Seatrain Florida 13 miles southeast of Saigon with small arms, automatic weapons and recoilless rifles, but the only damage was two punctured tires on a vehicle the ship was carrying.

Navy river patrol boats, army gunship helicopters and air force fighter-bombers swarmed over the area and killed four Viet Cong, the spokesman said.

The ship is owned by Seatrain Lines Inc. of New York.

Field commanders in the delta operation made estimates of enemy dead ranging from 150 to 350, but the U.S. Command put the figure at 200. The Saigon headquarters also reported 16 Americans killed and 59 wounded so far in the sweep. Unofficial reports from the field said 28 South Vietnamese soldiers had been killed and 50 wounded.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force jets swarmed over the Hanoi region and blasted a North Vietnamese army barracks, a rail siding and the Bac Giang electric power plant, 28 miles northeast of Hanoi.

U.S. Navy plans from the carriers Oriskany and Intrepid attacked cargo craft along North Vietnam's seacoast and other targets northeast of Haiphong, the main Communist port.

The carrier force on Yankee Station, in the Gulf of Tonkin, was temporarily reduced totwo by the fire on the Forrestal last weekend and the departure of the Bon Homme Richard for normal leave. A replacement carrier, possibly the Constellation, was expected to join the Oriskany and Intrepid soon.

Recovery Inc. Name For Housing Group

"Recovery Inc." was chosen as the name for a group of Sikeston ministers and laymen who are organizing to find ways of improving conditions in Sunset Addition and other areas of Sikeston where there is substandard housing.

The group is in the process of forming a corporation. A seven-man board of directors was appointed at a meeting Tuesday night at the city administration building.

Board members are the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter McGrane, Rev. Joseph Wagner, Kendall Sikes, Don Fulton, Dr. Robert Lively, Herman Paullus and Lee Shell.

Five committees were appointed at a meeting Thursday to handle functions expected to be needed to accomplish improvement of housing.

The chairman and co-chairman of each of the committees plus the Rev. Mr. Wagner and the Msgr. McGrane will make up the steering committee of the organization.

The major area of discussion Tuesday concerned how finances would be raised. Nothing was decided. One minister expressed opposition to setting an allotted sum to be raised by each church in Sikeston.

A tentative goal of $100,000 to $250,000 for operating funds was set at the original meeting of the group at a meeting July 19.

How the corporation will accumulate operating funds is expected to be the chief topic discussed at the next meeting, which will be set next week.

A. J. Day declined his appointment to the finance committee and Jack Hogan was appointed to replace him.

Mayor Sikes outlined a suggested scope for each committee at the meeting Tuesday. Further definitions of the scope of each committee is expected as the program continues.

Sikes ideas for each committee are: Community betterment,

1. To plan to assist Negroes to find jobs.
2. To report to the city any outside toilets and houses unfit for habitation.
3. To encourage home owners to have fire inspections conducted by the fire department.
4. To encourage a new effort for areas to clean up, fix up and paint up.
5. Suggest small loans to loan committee for paint and materials.
6. To sponsor a contest to encourage better living conditions.
7. To encourage law enforement.

Real estate committee:

1. Check offers of property for sale by white landowners.
2. Check ownership of empty lots and attempt to establish if good titles can be had.
3. Decide ownership of some of the worst shacks in Sunset.
4. Find satisfactory location for subdivision and price.
5. Explore plans that may fit in with present plans of some government agencies.

Loan committee:

1. Suggest to steering committee rate of interest to be charged borrowers.
2. Make rates and regulations of making loans.
3. Form collection of loans.

Trade School To Start

The Semo Trade - Technical Institute will begin classes at the high school Sept. 11, despite low enrollment, Jim Cornett, director, said.

Four programs offered for two-year courses are drafting technology, electronics technology, printing technology and secretarial science.

Enrollments will be accepted until the starting date. Students have enrolled in each of the programs to be offered.

The program was in danger of being dropped after poor early response, Cornett said but the state department of education has authorized the instruction.

Response to a new program usually is poor initially, he said.

The program is designed for students, who must work while attending school. The program will operate from 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Both theory and practice will be included. Home work assignments of necessity will be kept light, for the students' benefit, Cornett said.

The school year is divided into two semesters. The first starts Sept. 11 and ends Jan. 12, 1968. The second semester starts Jan. 22 and ends May 17.

Compress Fire Damage Slight

Firemen were called to extinguish a fire at the Sikeston Compress at 9:29 p.m. Tuesday.

Damage was slight to the west end section of the building, which is used for storage by Anchor Toy.

Wooden chairs stored in the building were damaged.

No evidence of arson was apparent, Fire Chief L.D. Ramsey said.

A fire broke out at the compress early Sunday morning and a kerosene can was found near the scene. A group of Negroes pelted firemen and police with rocks and bottles for a brief period at the fire scene Sunday.

Cease-Fire Violations Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The cease-fire between Jordanian and Israeli troops was broken today with gunfire erupting across the Jordan River for the second straight day.

A Jordanian military communique in Amman said the two sides exchanged fire for one hour, broke off for five minutes, then resumed. The shooting was still going on this afternoon, it said.

It claimed the Israelis had suffered losses in men and vehicles, with no casualties on the Jordanian side.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel Aviv said one Israeli was wounded.

The spokesman said the first exchange took place when Jordanian troops fired on Israeli positions with small arms.

The Israelis replied and the shooting lasted for about 55 minutes, he said. The second incident occurred at 3 p.m. when the Jordanians again opened fire, and received returning fire, the spokesman added.

The Jordanian communique said 12 Israeli vehicles rolled down to the river about two miles north of the Damia Bridge at 11:55 a.m. and fired on Jordanian positions in the hills east of the river. Jordanian forces returned the fire, and the exchange lasted an hour.

The Israelis used four armored troop carriers, four cars with heavy machine guns and four other armed cars, the communique said.

The communique said, "It was believed that many losses were sustained on the mechanized forces of the enemy."

It was the fifth violation of the cease-fire on the Jordan River since the six-day war in June.

Gunfire flared across the river in almost the same place Tuesday in two exchanges lasting 30 minutes, but no casualties were reported.

At Khartoum, capital of Sudan, Arab foreign ministers were bogged down in efforts to prepare the way for a summit meeting to deal with what they call "Israeli aggression."

Tight-lipped and grim, delegates filed out of the old republican palace after a heated three hours of discussions.

Premier Sayed Mahgoub of Sudan, who is conference chairman, told reporters: "We began to study the agenda and it was a deep and frank study. The discussion concerns concerted efforts to eliminate the results of Israeli aggression."

Delegates were privately pessimistic that the foreign ministers could create an atmosphere in which a summit conferece could meet without aggravating Arab feuds, let alone achieve worthwhile results.

Tetley Shot to Death

IRONTON -- Edward Howard, 61, St. Louis, was charged with first degree murder this morning following the slaying of Robert Earl Tetley Sr., 63, Oran, Monday night.

Tetley was found dead Tuesday morning at a farmhouse on his cattle farm east of Belleview where he had been staying.

Tetley was found in bed, undressed, with gunshot wounds in the temple and right forearm.

The weapon, which was not found, was a 22-calibre gun, prosecuting attorney Jack Duncan said.

There was no evidence of a struggle.

Burlison To File For Seat

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Bill D. Burlison, prosecuting attorney of Cape Girardeau county, announced plans today to file for U.S. Congressman, for the 10th Congressional District on Aug. 15.

Burlison said he has canvassed the 21 counties in the district during the past few months.

"After talking to hundreds of county officials, central committee members, and other important Democrats, I am convinced that these leaders now feel, and the voting population will feel, upon being exposed to the issues of this campaign, that I am the candidate best qualified to represent all of the people of this district," he said.

Burlison was born and reared in Pemiscot county and has lived his professional and family life in Cape county. He is married and has three children.

Paul C. Jones, D-Kennett, has announced plans to retire as representative of the 10th District at the end of his present term.

Long Attacks FTC Blood Bank Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., told a Senate subcommittee Tuesday that if a Federal Trade Commission ruling is allowed to stand nonprofit blood banks in 81 major metropolitan communities will be put in grave danger of being crippled or put out of business.

Sen. Long spoke at the opening of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee hearing on his bill to exempt blood banks from FTC jurisdiction.

The senator said the community nonprofit blood bank in Kansas City, Mo., has been adversely affected by the FTC ruling last year that the Kansas City bank was conspiring to drive the private for profit blood banks in the city out of business. The commission decision was 3 to 2.

About $34 billion was spent for education of all kinds last year in the United States.

Social Security Hike May Be Softened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is trimming President Johnson's Social Security proposals sharply to avoid piling a big payroll tax increase on top of an anticipated jump in regular income taxes.

Instead of a benefit increase for retirees of at least 15 per cent as Johnson proposed, the committee now all but finally has voted for 12½, The Associated Press learned. Instead of raising the current $44 minimum monthly payment to $70, the committee would hike it to $50.

Another preliminary decision is to set aside entirely the administration proposal to extend hospital and other benefits of medicare, now confined to those 65 or older, to younger persons retired because of disability.

These rollbacks make possible a much more modest increase in the payroll taxes that finance basic Social Security and medicare. These taxes now are levied on a wage base of a maximum $6,600 per employe. Employers and employes each pay 4.4 per cent.

Johnson's proposal would have increased the base next year to $7,800, the first step in a staged rise to $10,800 by 1974.

The committee instead has written in a single increase, effective Jan. 1, to $7,600. Members concede future Congresses may have to make more increases.

The maximum annual Social Security tax an employe now pays is $290.40. Under the administration proposal, the maximum next year would be $343.20. Under the committee version, the maximum would be $334.40— up $44 from this year— and for those earning no more than $6,600 there would be no increase.

All decisions made by the committee still are subject to change before it votes to send the bill to the House.

Clifford Denies Peace Feeler of Mission

SEOUL (AP) — Clark M. Clifford denied today a report that he and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, presidential envoys on an Asian mission, are feeling out the Vietnam war allies about a possible peace proposal.

"The report was in error," Clifford said on his arrival with Taylor from New Zealand for talks with President Chung Hee Park and other South Korean officials.

"We have not discussed any peace plan. We discussed plans for and development of the war."

That was his response to a request for comment on a statement by CBS television Tuesday night that President Johnson "is in the final throes" of deciding on a major peace gesture to the North Vietnamese to coincide roughly with the South Vietnamese presidential election Sept. 3.

Clifford and Taylor said they would discuss here "the next allied summit conference and any other points Park and other Korean leaders may wish to explore." But they said they were not here to reach any agreement of any kind.

They are here on the last leg of a tour which has already taken them to four other Vietnam war allies — South Vietnam, Thailand, Australia and New Zealand.

The report, made from Washington Tuesday night on the Walter Cronkite program, quoted an unidentified "high source" in the nation's capital as saying: "The chances are better than 50-50 the President will attempt some kind of bombing pause just after the elections."

The peace gesture is backed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, the CBS report said. But it added the military Joint Chiefs of Staff "are vigorously opposing" any such peace proposal.

The report added: "The theory is that the elections are a show of good faith on our willingness to let the Vietnamese run their own affairs. And that this, coupled with at least a reduction in bombing, might— just might— get a meaningful reaction from the North Vietnamese."

Sanitary Servers Discussed

MATTHEWS - The City Council heard a discussion last night by Joe Williamson and Associates, St. Louis, on a proposed sanitary sewage lagoon.

The Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City, a bonding company, will assist in the project, and a survey will be made in the next 90 days. Plans were made to seek federal aid on the project.

A census will be taken and the number of users by the St. Louis firm to arrive at a preliminary cost.

The meeting was in charge of Mayor Harold Burch, with councilmen, Harlan Gilmer, Gene Curtis, Ellis Reid and Ralph Faries, in attendance.

Gas On Rise

A gas war, which motorists in Sikeston have been enjoying for the past four weeks, is expected to come to a close tomorrow.

Independent service station owners met Tuesday night and decided to effect a price rise on regular and ethyl gasolines today.

Regular gas, which had been selling for 22.9 cents per gallon was upped to 30.9 cents per gallon.

Ethyl, which had been selling for 25.9 cents per gallon, has been raised to 32.9 or 33.9 cents per gallon today by the independents.

Major gasoline dealers were selling regular gasoline for 24.9 cents per gallon, and ethyl for 28.9 cents per gallon today.

The price of the major brands is expected to rise, if the independents don't lower their prices again.

Orbiter Makes Fix on Star

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The last of America's orbiting shutterbugs— Lunar Orbiter 5— rolled over gently in space today, cocked an eye toward its guiding star and found a blur.

"We've got a star, but we don't know which one," a spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said after two attempts were made to find the bright star Canopus.

The craft, he said, has to search with its light sensor for some bright heavenly body, and lock onto the light, to maintain its proper attitude in space. Canopus is normally the light source used.

The stubby craft was boosted aloft from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Tuesday in a launch that was called "textbook perfect."

Orbiter's goal, after its 250,187-mile journey through space, was to slip into orbit around the moon, from which it was to take pictures of the lunar surface.

Previous orbiters looked specifically for safe landing spots for astronauts, a task lunar Orbiter 5 will also perform, but the main interest with the current mission lies in a classic scientific riddle.

Astronomers have long argued over what formed the moon's lumpy, pock-marked features— meteor impacts or volcanic eruptions. The weight of most opinion favors the impact theory, although photos from other orbiters indicate some of the features may be of volcanic origin.

Soldier Missing

EAST PRAIRIE, Mo. (AP) — Authorities were searching for a soldier who disappeared while hitchhiking back to Fort Knox, Ky., after spending leave with his parents in East Prairie, Mo.

Barber's Fishing Woes Change to Good Luck

It takes H. W. Clem, a barber on West Malone, to describe a fishing venture, when bad luck was changed to good luck.

"You must have patience when fishing," said Clem, who had woes while fishing at Duck Creek. "We went for a few hours of fishing, and before starting for the deep waters my wife asked me to dump the contents of a litterbag from the car. I unconsciously threw the bag and its contents in the junk barrel. As we went to start the motor on the boat, the battery was dead, and I had to use the oars."

After a few hours of fishing without any luck, the barber added, "I pulled the boat to the bank. A windstorm came up a few minutes later and swept the boat into deep water. I retrieved the boat after a time with poles and coathangers attached to the poles, and found that my wife had lost her rod and reel during the rescue. On returning to the car I found that a tree limb had fallen and dented a fender.

The congenial barber continued to roll out his story. After all of the misfortune, he gathered his wits together and retrieved his litterbag, and decided to stay on and fish and change his luck.

It took he and his wife to change it. They came back to shore with a catch of 20 blue gill and bass, all of good size.

Carrier Casualty List Includes 4 Missourians

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department issued Tuesday night an interim list of casualties in the fire aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal, counting 80 dead, 42 missing and 23 injured.

The list carried a notation indicating it is not the final count in the disaster.

The casualties were caused by fire and explosions on the flight deck of the Forrestal as the ship maneuvered in the Gulf of Tonkin off Vietnam on July 29.

The list includes four Missourians, three dead and one critically injured.

The dead:

Rail Rate Hike Expected to Send Prices up

NEW YORK (AP) — Your pocketbook eventually may feel the impact of the $300-million annual freight rate increase won by the nation's railroads Tuesday.

Groceries, cars and paper products may inch upward in price when the new Interstate Commerce Commission rates become effective.

"The ultimate consumer will feel the squeeze of these increased costs," said one Wall Street analyst.

The increase was the railroads' first general rate hike in seven years and came despite administration pleas that such raises be considered "in the light of the national interest in promoting price stability."

The American Paper Institute, representing the paper and wood pulp industry, estimated the new rates would cost its members about $22 million annually.

Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. said the rates would add about $1 million annually to its $50-million railroad freight bill.

"Rarely are costs of this type absorbed," said an Olin spokesman.

C. F. Fisher, transportation director for the Great Northern Paper Co., said "ultimately they (the increases) have to show up somewhere.

The housewife in the supermarket may feel the pinch also. The new rates "cannot help but have an effect on food prices in the long run," said George W. Koch, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, representing 300 food processors.

"Eventually, they will have to be passed on," said the American Institute of Food Distribution.

One Wall Streeter close to the industry guessed that when the prices of 1968 model cars are announced, some of the rate increase will be reflected.

In Detroit, the Big 3 automakers declined comment. But more than 50 per cent of General Motor products move by rail.

Three More U.S. Planes Downed As Total Air Losses Reach 825

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the loss of three more American warplanes in combat and a Communist attack on an American ship.

The ground war lapsed back into a lull with no further fighting reported in the 10,000-man allied Operation Coronado II in the Mekong delta south of Saigon.

Two of the planes were lost over North Vietnam and the other in South Vietnam, bringing the total number of American warplanes reported lost in combat in the war to 825. This includes 629 over North Vietnam and 196 over the South. One of the losses over the North was an Air Force RF101 reconnaissance Voodoo and the pilot was missing. The other was a carrier-based Navy A4 Skyhawk; its pilot was rescued.

Communist fire brought down an Air Force F100 Supersabre fighter-bomber on a combat support mission over South Vietnam and the pilot was killed.

The U.S. Command also announced that six Vietnamese civilians were killed and 23 wounded by U.S. artillery and air strike mistakes. In a third such incident, a U.S. Army helicopter accidentally fired on troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 22 miles northeast of Saigon, killing one U.S. soldier and wounding seven.

A military spokesman said Viet Cong positions along the banks of the Long Tau River opened up on the American merchant ship Seatrain Florida 13 miles southeast of Saigon with small arms, automatic weapons and recoilless rifles, but the only damage was two punctured tires on a vehicle the ship was carrying.

Navy river patrol boats, army gunship helicopters and air force fighter-bombers swarmed over the area and killed four Viet Cong, the spokesman said.

The ship is owned by Seatrain Lines Inc. of New York.

Field commanders in the delta operation made estimates of enemy dead ranging from 150 to 350, but the U.S. Command put the figure at 200. The Saigon headquarters also reported 16 Americans killed and 59 wounded so far in the sweep. Unofficial reports from the field said 28 South Vietnamese soldiers had been killed and 50 wounded.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force jets swarmed over the Hanoi region and blasted a North Vietnamese army barracks, a rail siding and the Bac Giang electric power plant, 28 miles northeast of Hanoi.

U.S. Navy plans from the carriers Oriskany and Intrepid attacked cargo craft along North Vietnam's seacoast and other targets northeast of Haiphong, the main Communist port.

The carrier force on Yankee Station, in the Gulf of Tonkin, was temporarily reduced totwo by the fire on the Forrestal last weekend and the departure of the Bon Homme Richard for normal leave. A replacement carrier, possibly the Constellation, was expected to join the Oriskany and Intrepid soon

Recovery Inc. Name For Housing Group

"Recovery Inc." was chosen as the name for a group of Sikeston ministers and laymen who are organizing to find ways of improving conditions in Sunset Addition and other areas of Sikeston where there is substandard housing.

The group is in the process of forming a corporation. A seven-man board of directors was appointed at a meeting Tuesday night at the city administration building.

Board members are the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter McGrane, Rev. Joseph Wagner, Kendall Sikes, Don Fulton, Dr. Robert Lively, Herman Paullus and Lee Shell.

Five committees were appointed at a meeting Thursday to handle functions expected to be needed to accomplish improvement of housing.

The chairman and co-chairman of each of the committees plus the Rev. Mr. Wagner and the Msgr. McGrane will make up the steering committee of the organization.

The major area of discussion Tuesday concerned how finances would be raised. Nothing was decided. One minister expressed opposition to setting an allotted sum to be raised by each church in Sikeston.

A tentative goal of $100,000 to $250,000 for operating funds was set at the original meeting of the group at a meeting July 19.

How the corporation will accumulate operating funds is expected to be the chief topic discussed at the next meeting, which will be set next week.

A. J. Day declined his appointment to the finance committee and Jack Hogan was appointed to replace him.

Mayor Sikes outlined a suggested scope for each committee at the meeting Tuesday. Further definitions of the scope of each committee is expected as the program continues.

Sikes ideas for each committee are: Community betterment,

1. To plan to assist Negroes to find jobs.
2. To report to the city any outside toilets and houses unfit for habitation.
3. To encourage home owners to have fire inspections conducted by the fire department.
4. To encourage a new effort for areas to clean up, fix up and paint up.
5. Suggest small loans to loan committee for paint and materials.
6. To sponsor a contest to encourage better living conditions.
7. To encourage law enforement.

Real estate committee:

1. Check offers of property for sale by white landowners.
2. Check ownership of empty lots and attempt to establish if good titles can be had.
3. Decide ownership of some of the worst shacks in Sunset.
4. Find satisfactory location for subdivision and price.
5. Explore plans that may fit in with present plans of some government agencies.

Loan committee:

1. Suggest to steering committee rate of interest to be charged borrowers.
2. Make rates and regulations of making loans.
3. Form collection of loans.
4. After all plans are formulated and passed by the steering committee, then loans should be made by this committee.

Finance committee:

1. Shall be responsible for raising money from the churches of Sikeston.
2. Work closely with the loan committee in collection of loans.
3. Be responsible for a set of books, which will be displayed to the steering committee at least four times a year.

Public relations:

1. Provide speakers to civic clubs to explain functions of the corporation.
2. Inform the public of the activities of the corporation.

Trade School To Start

The Semo Trade - Technical Institute will begin classes at the high school Sept. 11, despite low enrollment, Jim Cornett, director, said.

Four programs offered for two-year courses are drafting technology, electronics technology, printing technology and secretarial science.

Enrollments will be accepted until the starting date. Students have enrolled in each of the programs to be offered.

The program was in danger of being dropped after poor early response, Cornett said but the state department of education has authorized the instruction.

Response to a new program usually is poor initially, he said.

The program is designed for students, who must work while attending school. The program will operate from 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Both theory and practice will be included. Home work assignments of necessity will be kept light, for the students' benefit, Cornett said.

The school year is divided into two semesters. The first starts Sept. 11 and ends Jan. 12, 1968. The second semester starts Jan. 22 and ends May 17.

The cease-fire between Jordanian and Israeli troops was broken today with gunfire erupting across the Jordan River for the second straight day.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel Aviv said one Israeli was wounded.

The Israelis used four armored troop carriers, four cars with heavy machine guns and four other armed cars, the communique said.

The communique said, "It was believed that many losses were sustained on the mechanized forces of the enemy."

It was the fifth violation of the cease-fire on the Jordan River since the six-day war in June.

Gunfire flared across the river in almost the same place Tuesday in two exchanges lasting 30 minutes, but no casualties were reported.

The weapon, which was not found, was a 22-calibre gun, prosecuting attorney Jack Duncan said.

There was no evidence of a struggle.

Duncan said witnesses had seen Howard at the farmhouse Monday night.

A coroner's inquest is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Burlison To File For Seat

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Bill D. Burlison, prosecuting attorney of Cape Girardeau county, announced plans today to file for U.S. Congressman, for the 10th Congressional District on Aug. 15.

Burlison said he has canvassed the 21 counties in the district during the past few months.

"After talking to hundreds of county officials, central committee members, and other important Democrats, I am convinced that these leaders now feel, and the voting population will feel, upon being exposed to the issues of this campaign, that I am the candidate best qualified to represent all of the people of this district," he said.

Burlison was born and reared in Pemiscot county and has lived his professional and family life in Cape county. He is married and has three children.

Paul C. Jones, D-Kennett, has announced plans to retire as representative of the 10th District at the end of his present term.

Long Attacks FTC Blood Bank Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., told a Senate subcommittee Tuesday that if a Federal Trade Commission ruling is allowed to stand nonprofit blood banks in 81 major metropolitan communities will be put in grave danger of being crippled or put out of business.

Sen. Long spoke at the opening of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee hearing on his bill to exempt blood banks from FTC jurisdiction.

The senator said the community nonprofit blood bank in Kansas City, Mo., has been adversely affected by the FTC ruling last year that the Kansas City bank was conspiring to drive the private for profit blood banks in the city out of business. The commission decision was 3 to 2.

About $34 billion was spent for education of all kinds last year in the United States.

Social Security Hike May Be Softened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is trimming President Johnson's Social Security proposals sharply to avoid piling a big payroll tax increase on top of an anticipated jump in regular income taxes.

Instead of a benefit increase for retirees of at least 15 per cent as Johnson proposed, the committee now all but finally has voted for 12½, The Associated Press learned. Instead of raising the current $44 minimum monthly payment to $70, the committee would hike it to $50.

Another preliminary decision is to set aside entirely the administration proposal to extend hospital and other benefits of medicare, now confined to those 65 or older, to younger persons retired because of disability.

These rollbacks make possible a much more modest increase in the payroll taxes that finance basic Social Security and medicare. These taxes now are levied on a wage base of a maximum $6,600 per employe. Employers and employes each pay 4.4 per cent.

Johnson's proposal would have increased the base next year to $7,800, the first step in a staged rise to $10,800 by 1974.

The committee instead has written in a single increase, effective Jan. 1, to $7,600. Members concede future Congresses may have to make more increases.

The maximum annual Social Security tax an employe now pays is $290.40. Under the administration proposal, the maximum next year would be $343.20. Under the committee version, the maximum would be $334.40— up $44 from this year— and for those earning no more than $6,600 there would be no increase.

All decisions made by the committee still are subject to change before it votes to send the bill to the House.

Clifford Denies Peace Feeler of Mission

SEOUL (AP) — Clark M. Clifford denied today a report that he and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, presidential envoys on an Asian mission, are feeling out the Vietnam war allies about a possible peace proposal.

"The report was in error," Clifford said on his arrival with Taylor from New Zealand for talks with President Chung Hee Park and other South Korean officials.

"We have not discussed any peace plan. We discussed plans for and development of the war."

That was his response to a request for comment on a statement by CBS television Tuesday night that President Johnson "is in the final throes" of deciding on a major peace gesture to the North Vietnamese to coincide roughly with the South Vietnamese presidential election Sept. 3.

Clifford and Taylor said they would discuss here "the next allied summit conference and any other points Park and other Korean leaders may wish to explore." But they said they were not here to reach any agreement of any kind.

They are here on the last leg of a tour which has already taken them to four other Vietnam war allies — South Vietnam, Thailand, Australia and New Zealand.

The report, made from Washington Tuesday night on the Walter Cronkite program, quoted an unidentified "high source" in the nation's capital as saying: "The chances are better than 50-50 the President will attempt some kind of bombing pause just after the elections."

The peace gesture is backed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, the CBS report said. But it added the military Joint Chiefs of Staff "are vigorously opposing" any such peace proposal.

The report added: "The theory is that the elections are a show of good faith on our willingness to let the Vietnamese run their own affairs. And that this, coupled with at least a reduction in bombing, might— just might— get a meaningful reaction from the North Vietnamese."

Sanitary Servers Discussed

MATTHEWS - The City Council heard a discussion last night by Joe Williamson and Associates, St. Louis, on a proposed sanitary sewage lagoon.

The Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City, a bonding company, will assist in the project, and a survey will be made in the next 90 days. Plans were made to seek federal aid on the project.

A census will be taken and the number of users by the St. Louis firm to arrive at a preliminary cost.

The meeting was in charge of Mayor Harold Burch, with councilmen, Harlan Gilmer, Gene Curtis, Ellis Reid and Ralph Faries, in attendance.

Gas On Rise

A gas war, which motorists in Sikeston have been enjoying for the past four weeks, is expected to come to a close tomorrow.

Independent service station owners met Tuesday night and decided to effect a price rise on regular and ethyl gasolines today.

Regular gas, which had been selling for 22.9 cents per gallon was upped to 30.9 cents per gallon.

Ethyl, which had been selling for 25.9 cents per gallon, has been raised to 32.9 or 33.9 cents per gallon today by the independents.

Major gasoline dealers were selling regular gasoline for 24.9 cents per gallon, and ethyl for 28.9 cents per gallon today.

The price of the major brands is expected to rise, if the independents don't lower their prices again.

Orbiter Makes Fix on Star

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The last of America's orbiting shutterbugs— Lunar Orbiter 5— rolled over gently in space today, cocked an eye toward its guiding star and found a blur.

"We've got a star, but we don't know which one," a spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said after two attempts were made to find the bright star Canopus.

The craft, he said, has to search with its light sensor for some bright heavenly body, and lock onto the light, to maintain its proper attitude in space. Canopus is normally the light source used.

The stubby craft was boosted aloft from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Tuesday in a launch that was called "textbook perfect."

Orbiter's goal, after its 250,187-mile journey through space, was to slip into orbit around the moon, from which it was to take pictures of the lunar surface.

Previous orbiters looked specifically for safe landing spots for astronauts, a task lunar Orbiter 5 will also perform, but the main interest with the current mission lies in a classic scientific riddle.

Astronomers have long argued over what formed the moon's lumpy, pock-marked features— meteor impacts or volcanic eruptions. The weight of most opinion favors the impact theory, although photos from other orbiters indicate some of the features may be of volcanic origin.

Soldier Missing

EAST PRAIRIE, Mo. (AP) — Authorities were searching for a soldier who disappeared while hitchhiking back to Fort Knox, Ky., after spending leave with his parents in East Prairie, Mo.

Compress Fire Damage Slight

Firemen were called to extinguish a fire at the Sikeston Compress at 9:29 p.m. Tuesday.

Damage was slight to the west end section of the building, which is used for storage by Anchor Toy.

Wooden chairs stored in the building were damaged.

No evidence of arson was apparent, Fire Chief L. D. Ramsey said.

A fire broke out at the compress early Sunday morning and a kerosene can was found near the scene. A group of Negroes pelted firemen and police with rocks and bottles for a brief period at the fire scene Sunday.

He suffered a concussion and cuts Sunday morning when the motorcycle he was driving struck a tree off Route D in Wayne County, Dennis James, 16, Sikeston, a passenger on the motorcycle, was killed in the accident.

Barber's Fishing Woes Change to Good Luck

It takes H. W. Clem, a barber on West Malone, to describe a fishing venture, when bad luck was changed to good luck.

"You must have patience when fishing," said Clem, who had woes while fishing at Duck Creek. "We went for a few hours of fishing, and before starting for the deep waters my wife asked me to dump the contents of a litterbag from the car. I unconsciously threw the bag and its contents in the junk barrel. As we went to start the motor on the boat, the battery was dead, and I had to use the oars."

After a few hours of fishing without any luck, the barber added, "I pulled the boat to the bank. A windstorm came up a few minutes later and swept the boat into deep water. I retrieved the boat after a time with poles and coathangers attached to the poles, and found that my wife had lost her rod and reel during the rescue. On returning to the car I found that a tree limb had fallen and dented a fender.

The congenial barber continued to roll out his story. After all of the misfortune, he gathered his wits together and retrieved his litterbag, and decided to stay on and fish and change his luck.

It took he and his wife to change it. They came back to shore with a catch of 20 blue gill and bass, all of good size.

Carrier Casualty List Includes 4 Missourians

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department issued Tuesday night an interim list of casualties in the fire aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal, counting 80 dead, 42 missing and 23 injured.

The list carried a notation indicating it is not the final count in the disaster.

The casualties were caused by fire and explosions on the flight deck of the Forrestal as the ship maneuvered in the Gulf of Tonkin off Vietnam on July 29.

The list includes four Missourians, three dead and one critically injured.

The dead:

Gerald Albert Wehde, aviation mechanic, son of Mrs. Helen Bernice Wehde, Old Monroe, Mo.

Charles Ray Rich, aviation ordnanceman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Clinton Rich, Mountain Grove, Mo.

Dale Ray Ross, aviation mechanic, husband of Mrs. Betty Ann Rose, Dautaville Trailer Court No. 69, Wentzville, Mo.

Rail Rate Hike Expected to Send Prices up

NEW YORK (AP) — Your pocketbook eventually may feel the impact of the $300-million annual freight rate increase won by the nation's railroads Tuesday.

Groceries, cars and paper products may inch upward in price when the new Interstate Commerce Commission rates become effective.

"The ultimate consumer will feel the squeeze of these increased costs," said one Wall Street analyst.

The increase was the railroads' first general rate hike in seven years and came despite administration pleas that such raises be considered "in the light of the national interest in promoting price stability."

The American Paper Institute, representing the paper and wood pulp industry, estimated the new rates would cost its members about $22 million annually.

Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. said the rates would add about $1 million annually to its $50-million railroad freight bill.

"Rarely are costs of this type absorbed," said an Olin spokesman.

C. F. Fisher, transportation director for the Great Northern Paper Co., said "ultimately they (the increases) have to show up somewhere.

The housewife in the supermarket may feel the pinch also. The new rates "cannot help but have an effect on food prices in the long run," said George W. Koch, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, representing 300 food processors.

"Eventually, they will have to be passed on," said the American Institute of Food Distribution.

One Wall Streeter close to the industry guessed that when the prices of 1968 model cars are announced, some of the rate increase will be reflected.

In Detroit, the Big 3 automakers declined comment. But more than 50 per cent of General Motor products move by rail.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS:
CAPITAL PUNISHMENT CLIMAX

A U.S. District judge in San Francisco will hold a full-scale hearing on Thursday (Aug. 3) in an attempt to declare the death penalty in California unconstitutional.

THE LONG CAMPAIGN against capital punishment is approaching a climax. Paradoxically, the fight is being pushed to a finish by the fact that two new Republican governors, Ronald Reagan of California and Claude R. Kirk, Jr., of Florida, have favored the death penalty. Capital punishment is not a live politcal issue in most jurisdictions, but it has long been debated in California. Florida's Kirk is conducting a statewide war against crime.

Punishment by death of late has fallen into disuse. Although only 13 states have abolished capital punishment or restricted it to special cases, the past few years have seen few executions. Last year there was only one; in 1965 only seven. This year there already have been two, one in California and one in Colorado.

Now the fate of 58 men in San Quentin's death row depends in large part on a hearing for Thursday. Federal district court Judge Robert F. Peckham will hear testimony on his own stay of executions in California. The ban was a response to a petition filed by the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund. A similar blanket stay in Florida covers - temporarily again - 51 persons under death sentence. The American League to Abolish Capital Punishment reported recently that more than 400 prisoners were held under death sentence.

MOST OF THE LEGAL DEFENSE of persons sentenced to death is being conducted by the NAACP and the Civil Liberties Union. Of 403 state prisoners under death sentence at the end of 1966, 212 were in the South. (There were two federal prisoners.) The NAACP Defense Fund is seeking to show that the death penalty for rape is virtually restricted to Negroes in the South.

Since 1930, when the U.S. Bureau of Prisons began compiling statistics, there have been 33 federal executions - only one in the past decade. State executions total 3,858, of which 53.6 per cent were Negroes.

THE DEATH PENALTY is forbidden or highly restricted in Alaska, Hawaii, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. In signing the New York law in 1965, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller decided to spare those who would not be subject to capital punishment under the new legislation. So 14 condemned slayers in Sing Sing today are not in danger of execution.

The California stay and subsequent refusal of an appeals court to repeal it was welcomed by leaders of the opposition to capital punishment. "Ultimately," Melvin Wulf, general Counsel of the Civil Liberties Union, said on July 10, "the U.S. Supreme Court will be faced with these cases and will have to confront the persuasive arguments that capital punishment is cruel and unusual punishment and violates due process of law."

The opponents contend that "scrupled" jurors - those who do not believe in capital punishment - are not permitted on juries, and that thus defendants are deprieved of being judged by a fair cross section of the community. In any event, the issue can not long be avoided through unwillingness to use the penalty. The climax is being forced.

AN ORGANIZED CONSPIRACY to overthrow the U.S. government is believed by some responsible leaders to be under way, showing up in its most violent form in the continuing challenge in Detroit by snipers and outlaws fighting police, Guardsmen and Vietnam-trained U.S. soldiers.

The conspiracy, led by Communism International, was predicted months ago by J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, and spelled out, in fact, by Gus Hall, Communist leader in the U.S. Communists very frankly indicated they would infiltrate college campuses, labor unions, instigate demonstrations and riots, inciting the so-called oppressed minorities to arson and killing - all this making an effective deterrent to our efforts in Vietnam.

Top-level leaders, notable Dwight D. Eisenhower, military hero of World War II and ex-president of the United States, are seeing an "organized pattern" in the widespread violence and terming it "callous lawlessness" and demanding that the FBI intervene and put a stop to disobedience to the law.

It doesn't take a government investigation to determine what is going on. Everyone but government executives, from President Johnson down, can see it simple by reading the news. Today's news, for example: Black Power advocate H. Rap Brown, arrested by the FBI, shouted, "we built this country, and we'll burn it down." A large group of black nationalist leaders, disbanding a meeting in the east, called for a separate nation for black people, Stokely Carmichael, self-styled "black power" chief has arrived in Cuba via Czechoslovakia for "conferences" with Communist Castro and Soviet Russian "advisors." Adam Clayton Powell, speaking from his hide-out in the Bahamas, said "black rebellions are a necessary phase of the black revolution," and threatened that if 12 Negro congressmen are not elected "all America will go up in flames." In the face of threats like these - threats which the conspirators are making good - spineless editors, congressmen and television speakers - black and white - are still calling for more civil rights, more poverty aid, more appeasement of the insurrectionists and criminal outlaws. Instead of clamping the riot-mongers into jail (they got just one of them today) they are put before television cameras, repeating their demands and threats for additional reparations!

But who, pray tell us, who is asking, demanding, enforcing obedience to the law? President Johnson today meekly asked a group of law-abiding boys at Boys Nation to respect the law. One congressman asked that "shoot-to-kill" orders be given police, Guardsmen and U.S. soldiers on looters, snipers and arsonists. But others insist that the Negro and other "impoverished, depressed, unemployed" groups must be lifted up nearer utopia before lawlessness is to be stopped.

The answer to these problems, as this small voice said months ago in the "Sorry State of the Union" editorials, must be found and faced by Congress, with new laws or enforcement of old to halt Communist infiltration and agitation in this nation.

What can WE do here on the quiet home-front? The question is asked in a strong, frank, thoughtful "Letter to the Editor" which we received this morning from Harold W. Cleveland, Rolla schools music teacher. Mr. Cleveland says:

"Your editorial regarding Race Riots and Anarchy represents a sobering commentary on the current state of the Union. The facts you presented are irrefutable, but what are WE supposed to do about the situation - write our Congressman?

"If our elected representatives need to be told that the current state of affairs is detrimental to our national welfare, then we are really in trouble!

"Yet surely something must be done to rectify the inconsistency of fighting a war in Vietnam - to guarantee a people's right to self-government - while at home the same precious right of majority rule is being mocked.

"Yes, Mr. Editor, something should be done, but who will bell the cat!?

'The fact remains that we who love our country must remain idle observers to the outrages you have described until some 'properly constituted government authority' awakens to the absurdity of our present conflicting policies.

"With all the furor concerning the rights of 'colored' people, I wonder why I seldom hear much about the rights of the American Indians - they're certainly not 'white.' Obviously, there's not much voting going on down at the ol' reservation!

"Meanwhile, Mr. Editor, you write editorials and I write letters, for to do otherwise would constitute sedition!" Mr. Cleveland concluded.

After some people have had a friend for some time, they begin to treat him as if he were an enemy.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — "Watching a baseball game to me is like going to church," said Carl Reiner. "There is time to think and ruminate.

"I'd rather have been a baseball pitcher than anything."

Young Carl, alas, had a big failing as a player. He could throw a fast ball, a slow ball, a curve or a fadeaway. The one thing he couldn't throw across the plate was a strike.

So, after finishing high school at 16 and working briefly as a shipping clerk and machinist's helper, he turned to acting.

Reiner, one of the best-liked men in show business, quickly became a master at pitching funny lines. Now he has matured into a quadruple-threat man in the entertainment field as actor, writer, director and producer.

Carl, who made his mark as a "top banana," or supporting comedian for Sid Caesar for eight years, widened his fame by originating and producing the "Dick Van Dyke Show," a popular television series.

His latest film opus, "Enter Laughing," introducing Reni Santoni to stardom, is based on a semiautobiographical novel that Reiner wrote in 1958. Carl directed the film and also served as cowriter and coproducer with his long-time friend, Joseph Stein, author of the Broadway hit, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Reiner, who still says his vocation is acting, regards writing, directing and producing as his hobbies. But he enjoys them all.

"The thing I get the most satisfaction from is anything that I start as a blank page in a typewriter, and then follow all the way through, whether it's a book, a play or a film," he said.

"There's something wonderful about catching a fish, cleaning it, cooking it and serving it, and then having someone say, 'Very good.'"

The tall, hazel-eyed actor picked up the rudiments of comedy writing by working with the gag men on the old Sid Caesar shows.

"But I had been such a poor student in school that I hesitated at trying anything at all serious. I felt I didn't know enough words to become a real writer.

"My wife got me over that hurdle. She convinced me that it wasn't important whether I knew a lot of long words, only whether I knew the right words."

Carl is convinced now that empathy, the feeling for people, is more valuable to a writer than a big vocabulary.

Reiner feels he is normally neurotic: "If you're not neurotic to some extent, you can't function in this society." But he believes his most valuable personality trait is an inborn, unquenchable optimism.

"Life is supposed to be fun," he said. "The human being isn't supposed to be genuinely happy very often, but if your problems don't let you have fun and moments of joy, then you haven't had much of a life."

FREEDOM IS OPPORTUNITY, NOT GUARANTEE

Freedom is opportunity. It is not a guarantee of income, advancement or success; nor is it protection against failure. Some think this harsh, believing that we have an obligation to provide such guarantees and protection. However, they should remember that when socialistic human engineers make it impossible for a man to fail, they also make it impossible for him to succeed.

In his book about collectivistic government, "Nineteen Eighty-Four," George Orwell said future collectivists would deliberately teach that "Freedom is slavery" and that slavery -- even if not called by that ugly name -- is Freedom. There are signs that Orwell's grim predictions may be coming to pass in the constant manipulation of the word "Freedom" to mean dependence on government rather than protection from government control. Want and hunger are enemies of all men, just as they are allies of socialism. The free way of life has produced in this country the highest standard of living the world has ever known. This Freedom did more to eliminate hunger and want than any state and any ruler in history, no matter how great their "benevolence." If we insist on turning off this road of liberty to the ancient swamps of collectivism and all-powerful government, at least let us have the grace met to pretend that in doing so we are merely providing a new definition of Freedom.

Freedom does involve protection, but not protection against the natural hazards of life. It offers protection of the individual by his government against foreign invaders and domestic criminals, and the use of courts for settling disputes. These are purposes of limited government -- the balance and separation of powers which the Constitution provides.

There must be protection by government against violence; but there must also be protection from government which seeks to use its authority to increase its own power.

By its nature, government has the authority to impose force upon anyone. It has the physical ability to compel any citizen to do what he is told. This is why government is always a threat. It is also why excessive power in the hands of government menaces everyone, not just the popular target of the moment. The guns which today are turned on the group, section, person, or economic class which we dislike may be pointed at us tomorrow. Unlimited power, by definition, knows no restraint or law above the whim of those who run its infernal machine.

The tragic error which too many make today, and which has been made repeatedly throughout the course of history, is for Group A to assume that it can afford to give government unlimited power for one or more specific ends regarded as all-important, and still prevent that power from being used against Group A itself. When one begins to think in this way, soon all do so. And so the powers grow until none can escape them.

At the time of the Bolshevik take-over and afterward, many Russians fooled themselves into thinking they were using the Bolsheviks, when actually the Bolsheviks were doing the using. The German government of Kaiser Wilhelm thought, by sending Lenin to Russia in a sealed railway carriage to stir up revolution, it was using him to further the German war cause. Instead, they lost; and the Russia it helped to establish now rules one-third of Germany.

The Soviet labor unions, the revolutionary group among the Russian intellectuals, and the "Social Revolutionaries" who brought down governments by assassination in the name of the Russian peasants, made this same mistake. When Lenin finally grasped the Social Revolutionaries, machine-gunned labor union strikers in Kronstadt, and scornfully dismissed the intellectuals in his famous pamphlet, "Left-Wing Communism, an Infantile Disorder."

When the conflicting groups had been wiped out, Russia had a new master far more terrible than any Czar -- a worthy successor to the Mongol conquerors who followed Genghis Khan. All had sought to attain their goals through building up the power of the government without limit; all failed except the Bolsheviks.

That is how all men lose when Freedom is lost, and the handful on top are as tightly bound as those they enslave. No despot is ever free; he is a prisoner of his own monstrous system -- a parasite on the productivity of others who is forever hounded by men of scheming ambition.

One of the saddest spectacles on the American scene today is that of the racial and religion minority groups in the U.S. who turn to government as their ally. They have every right to seek justice in the courts and through appeal to the conscience of America; but when their efforts aim toward giving government new powers without thoughts of the long-range effect, they damage their own cause as well as the liberties of all Americans.

Members of every minority group should know that they are likely to be the first to suffer under a total state, simply because they are different and not easy to control. History is full of examples. Everyone has heard of the mass extermination of Jewish people by totalitarian Nazi Germany. Persecution of Jews in Soviet Russia is at last coming to public attention. It is know that rigid segregation is practiced in Moscow on a racial basis (African students must attend a university from which the white Russian students are barred).

When these things happen in a free country, minority groups protest. When they happen in a country which has fallen to unlimited government, minority groups can only suffer in silence.

American minority groups, confident in their ability to deliver large blocs of votes in elections, forget that this will avail them nothing if government becomes so strong it will dominate the "choices" offered on every ballot, as in Communist nations today. If the goal of most pressure groups continues to be to give more and more power to government, the day will come when they discover that the old tactics don't work any more, that their rulers turn a cold shoulder to them with the reminder that alternatives to the regime in power have all been destroyed.

In the same way, working people and their labor unions have a vital stake in Freedom, which alone permits them to bargain for better wages and working conditions, and to strike without fear of legal punishment. It is a fatal error for working people to build up the power of government on the assumption that government will act only against employers. Once it is strong enough, government will act against anyone it chooses, including labor unions and the working man.

No society of imperfect men is or can be perfect. Even Freedom is not a sure cure for every evil. Evils will remain in the freest society until eliminated by a steady rise in moral standards; but so long as a society is free, it can move forward and improve itself by the initiative of its citizens without waiting for any dispensation from above. Under a government with total powers, evils of every form inevitably multiply because nothing can be done about them except by the men at the very top.

Our Freedom can still be saved, but it will not be saved unless more of us realize the personal stake that each has in Freedom. Let us limit government to keeping the peace among us, instead of using it to gain selfish ends.

IS YOUR CHILD REALLY GIFTED?

The difference between the average and the bright child is easy to detect, if you know what to look for, the Catholic Digest points out.

If a child makes long speeches and uses language fluently much before he is two and a half, he is certainly above average.

If a bright child is adept with his hands, he would soon learn to handle a hammer. If he is mechanically inclined, he is more likely to work with mechanical gadgets. If he is artistic, his scribblings will have some shape or form.

Another guide to the bright child is the number and variety of his interests. The gifted youngster usually has many sides; he turns easily to new tasks or pursuits. An early sense of numbers is another indication of a child's brightness. Once again, "early" means considerably before other children of the same age.

All youngsters ask questions, but the more they ask and the harder their questions are to answer, the brighter the children are likely to be.

RULE THE SEAS: RUSSIA'S GOAL

Not all Russian spectaculars take place in the ocean of space. In the past decade and a half the U.S.S.R. has made impressive strides toward becoming a leading power on the world's oceans.

A few of the statistics:

In 1950, the Russian merchant fleet comprised only 432 ships of 1,000 tons or over, totaling 1.8 million deadweight tons. By 1960, the U.S.S.R. was in 11th place among world fleets; by 1965 it was sixth and pressing Japan for fifth. As of June, 1966, it had 1,360 seagoing merchant vessels aggregating 9.8 million tons. Its current five-year plan calls for 15 million tons by 1970.

This is still a long way from the U.S. total of 28.3 million deadweight tons. But during the past 20 years, the U.S. active fleet has declined from 2,332 vessels to about 900, according to Paul Hall, president of the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department. Since 1953, U.S. tonnage has fallen by 8.8 million tons -- greater than the Soviet gain in the same period.

Since 1962, Russia has built 502 merchant ships to our 87. Last year, Russia spent approximately $1 billion on shipbuilding; this country spent some $106 million. And where 80 per cent of the Soviet fleet is less than 10 years old, 70 per cent of all U.S. flag ships are more than 20 years old.

By the end of 1966, the Soviets were carrying some 75 per cent of their trade in Redflag bottoms. The U.S. merchant fleet carries only 7.7 per cent of our trade. We have been forced to charter foreign vessels for the Vietnam war, 98 per cent of the supplies for which are transported by sea.

The Soviets employ 9,000 people in oceanography; we employ 3,700. Their seagoing science fleet numbers 200 shps to our 142.

All of which leads Hall to warn that the Russians are closer to sinking us than burying us. His alarm is shared by others.

It is the "aggressive, precisely planned" policy of the Kremlin to transform the U.S.S.R. into the world's dominant maritime power, says Edwin Hood, president of the Shipbuilders Council of America.

As the Russian fleet expands and is able to diminate the sea lanes, the fleets of other nations could be squeezed out. The potential danger, he says, is that the Communists could then withhold ocean freight services from any nation out of favor with them.

Reasons given for the decline of the U.S. merchant fleet are numerous. They include bureaucratic indifference and confusion in Washington, unfavorable policies of the State and Defense Departments, preferential subsidies to a handful of lines and union practices which have encouraged American companies to employ foreign crews on ships licensed to nations like Liberia and Honduras under "flags of convenience."

H. L. Hunt Says

DIRECT VOTE PLAN NOT NEW

Most thoughtful students of the U.S. governmnetal structure agree that the Electoral College system of naming the President should be reformed. There are those who want to abolish the Electoral College altogether and substitute for it direct popular voting for the President and Vice President. Others suggest adoption of a constitutional amendment to provide for one presidential elector from every congressional district and two electors at large from each state.

The direct vote plan was thoughtfully considered -- and finally rejected -- by the Founders of Freedom at the 1787 constitutional convention. James Madison of Virginia stated forthrightly that the district system of choosing electors was "mostly, if not exclusively, in view when the Constitution was framed and adopted." Another Virginian, George Mason, told the convention that at least seven proposed methods for selecting a President had been considered and that the proposal for the direct vote had always failed. At one point in the convention a motion that the President be elected by direct vote was rejected by a vote of seven states to three. Alexander Hamilton spoke for the majority when he declared, "Let the election of the President be confined to electors."

At the end of many weeks of study and debate at the constitutional convention, Benjamin Franklin was asked by interested persons outside the convention, "What do we have?" His reply: "A Republic if you can keep it."

The Republic can best be preserved through reform of the Electoral College system by adoption of the congressional district plan. A resoltuion proposing the necessary constitutional amendment is before Congress. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The racial setback of America's big cities has obscured some American victories in diplomacy.

The most important backstage development in the recent United Nations debate was the fact that Soviet Russia was pressured by its satellites to abandon its support for the Arab states.

Such countries as Romania, Czechoslovakia, and to some extent Poland, told Foreign Minister Gromyko that they would not go along with the demand for an Israeli troop withdrawal unless the Arabs ended their war against Israel. This meant the recognition of Israel. They argued that it was unrealistic to claim Israel did not exist.

This was a victory first for the argument which President Johnson gave Premier Kosygin at Glassboro -- namely, that Israel exists, and that her troops could not be withdrawn without the end of the Arab belligerency and some recognition of Israel. Otherwise, another war was inevitable.

Second, this was a victory for some quiet diplomacy conducted by LBJ, Chief Justice Earl Warren, and various Americans dating back through the days of Truman and Eisenhower. Their diplomacy was aimed at making friends with East European Communist countries -- a policy which has been castigated by the Bill Buckleys and the professional right-wingers, but it has worked.

LBJ AND ROMANIAN

One illustration of its working has just come from behind the one-time iron curtain regarding the recent talk between President Johnson and Premier Ion Gheroghe Maurer of Romania. During the United Nations assembly when Maurer was in New York, President Johnson invited him to Washington for a talk.

Reports have now come back from other Communist diplomats that Maurer found the president "intelligent, well balanced, and receptive"; that the meeting gave Maurer an opportunity to learn the U.S. position on the near East and the United Nations.

The Romanians also reported that they found the Soviet position on the near East "unreasonable," and the American position of requiring some recognition of Israel by the Arabs "responsible."

Maurer expressed the opinion to other diplomats that he was disappointed that relations between Romania and the United States had moved so slowly, and hoped that trade would pick up. He found Johnson sympathetic to better Romanian - American cooperation, and eager to learn more of Romani's problems.

Maurer reported to other diplomats that the United States was the strongest world power, stronger than Russia, and that he had no illusions about the American desire to dominate the world. However, the United States, in contrast to Soviet Russia, would not seek to intrude on Romani's domestic policies.

Later, party chairman Cleausea asa publicly announced Rover the near East, though reaffirming Soviet-Romanian friendship. He also announced a drastic shakeup in the Romanian secret police, criticising it for having abused the legitimate rights of citizens.

"AMBASSADOR" WARREN

News dispatches from Eastern Europe state that Chief Justice Earl Warren has been visiting the capitals of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Poland this summer. This will probably bring a loud accusation from the far-out right wing that the Supreme Court is selling out to Communism.

Real fact is that this is the second visit Warren has taken to Eastern Europe, the first having been to Romania, Bulgaria and Russia in the summer of 1963, at which time he called briefly upon Krushchev and spent much more time in Romania.

He drove from Northwest Romania through the heart of the country, visiting farms, universities, city councils, and ending with a call on the late chairman Gheorghiu Dej and Premier Maurer.

Later, when Kennedy was assassinated, Maurer came to the funeral as official representative, and Warren dined with him at my home. These friendly talks unquestionably led up to the current improvement in U.S. - Romanian relations and the current independence of the one-time Soviet satellite.

The Chief Justice does not try to do any politicking on these trips. He is a listener. But the fact that the No. 1 jurist of the Western World and the No. 2 man of the United States takes the trouble to travel a long distance and try to get a better understanding of a nation makes a profound impression.

This is what the Chief Justice and Mrs. Warren did when they traveled through the west coast of South America last winter, going as far as the interior of Bolivia. He merely discussed the American system of jurisprudence and the U.S. system of an independent judiciary.

This also made a profound impression, especially in countries where new revolutionary presidents sometimes appoint their own friends to the Supreme Court immediately after they take over. Some congressmen were critical because the State Department paid the Warrens a per diem traveling allowance, but their visits paid real dividends.

Note -- The State Department is now urging Justice William Brennan to visit law schools and legal groups in Chile, Argentina, and Brazil which the Chief Justice did not visit; and has asked Justice Potter Stewart to go to other Latin-American countries this summer.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS:
CAPITAL PUNISHMENT CLIMAX

A U.S. District judge in San Francisco will hold a full-scale hearing on Thursday (Aug. 3) in an attempt to declare the death penalty in California unconstitutional.

THE LONG CAMPAIGN against capital punishment is approaching a climax. Paradoxically, the fight is being pushed to a finish by the fact that two new Republican governors, Ronald Reagan of California and Claude R. Kirk, Jr., of Florida, have favored the death penalty.

Capital punishment is not a live politcal issue in most jurisdictions, but it has long been debated in California. Florida's Kirk is conducting a statewide war against crime.

Punishment by death of late has fallen into disuse. Although only 13 states have abolished capital punishment or restricted it to special cases, the past few years have seen few executions. Last year there was only one; in 1965 only seven. This year there already have been two, one in California and one in Colorado.

Now the fate of 58 men in San Quentin's death row depends in large part on a hearing for Thursday. Federal district court Judge Robert F. Peckham will hear testimony on his own stay of executions in California. The ban was a response to a petition filed by the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund. A similar blanket stay in Florida covers - temporarily again - 51 persons under death sentence. The American League to Abolish Capital Punishment reported recently that more than 400 prisoners were held under death sentence.

MOST OF THE LEGAL DEFENSE of persons sentenced to death is being conducted by the NAACP and the Civil Liberties Union. Of 403 state prisoners under death sentence at the end of 1966, 212 were in the South. (There were two federal prisoners.) The NAACP Defense Fund is seeking to show that the death penalty for rape is virtually restricted to Negroes in the South.

Since 1930, when the U.S. Bureau of Prisons began compiling statistics, there have been 33 federal executions - only one in the past decade. State executions total 3,858, of which 53.6 per cent were Negroes.

THE DEATH PENALTY is forbidden or highly restricted in Alaska, Hawaii, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. In signing the New York law in 1965, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller decided to spare those who would not be subject to capital punishment under the new legislation. So 14 condemned slayers in Sing Sing today are not in danger of execution.

The California stay and subsequent refusal of an appeals court to repeal it was welcomed by leaders of the opposition to capital punishment. "Ultimately," Melvin Wulf, general Counsel of the Civil Liberties Union, said on July 10, "the U.S. Supreme Court will be faced with these cases and will have to confront the persuasive arguments that capital punishment is cruel and unusual punishment and violates due process of law."

The opponents contend that "scrupled" jurors - those who do not believe in capital punishment - are not permitted on juries, and that thus defendants are deprieved of being judged by a fair cross section of the community. In any event, the issue can not long be avoided through unwillingness to use the penalty. The climax is being forced.

AN ORGANIZED CONSPIRACY to overthrow the U.S. government is believed by some responsible leaders to be under way, showing up in its most violent form in the continuing challenge in Detroit by snipers and outlaws fighting police, Guardsmen and Vietnam-trained U.S. soldiers.

The conspiracy, led by Communism International, was predicted months ago by J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, and spelled out, in fact, by Gus Hall, Communist leader in the U.S. Communists very frankly indicated they would infiltrate college campuses, labor unions, instigate demonstrations and riots, inciting the so-called oppressed minorities to arson and killing - all this making an effective deterrent to our efforts in Vietnam.

Top-level leaders, notable Dwight D. Eisenhower, military hero of World War II and ex-president of the United States, are seeing an "organized pattern" in the widespread violence and terming it "callous lawlessness" and demanding that the FBI intervene and put a stop to disobedience to the law.

It doesn't take a government investigation to determine what is going on. Everyone but government executives, from President Johnson down, can see it simple by reading the news. Today's news, for example: Black Power advocate H. Rap Brown, arrested by the FBI, shouted, "we built this country, and we'll burn it down." A large group of black nationalist leaders, disbanding a meeting in the east, called for a separate nation for black people. Stokely Carmichael, self-styled "black power" chief has arrived in Cuba via Czechoslovakia for "conferences" with Communist Castro and Soviet Russian "advisors." Adam Clayton Powell, speaking from his hide-out in the Bahamas, said "black rebellions are a necessary phase of the black revolution," and threatened that if 12 Negro congressmen are not elected "all America will go up in flames." In the face of threats like these - threats which the conspirators are making good - spineless editors, congressmen and television speakers - black and white - are still calling for more civil rights, more poverty aid, more appeasement of the insurrectionists and criminal outlaws. Instead of clamping the riot-mongers into jail (they got just one of them today) they are put before television cameras, repeating their demands and threats for additional reparations!

But who, pray tell us, who is asking, demanding, enforcing obedience to the law? President Johnson today meekly asked a group of law-abiding boys at Boys Nation to respect the law. One congressman asked that "shoot-to-kill" orders be given police, Guardsmen and U.S. soldiers on looters, snipers and arsonists. But others insist that the Negro and other "impoverished, depressed, unemployed" groups must be lifted up nearer utopia before lawlessness is to be stopped.

The answer to these problems, as this small voice said months ago in the "Sorry State of the Union" editorials, must be found and faced by Congress, with new laws or enforcement of old to halt Communist infiltration and agitation in this nation.

What can WE do here on the quiet home-front? The question is asked in a strong, frank, thoughtful "Letter to the Editor" which we received this morning from Harold W. Cleveland, Rolla schools music teacher. Mr. Cleveland says:

"Your editorial regarding Race Riots and Anarchy represents a sobering commentary on the current state of the Union. The facts you presented are irrefutable, but what are WE supposed to do about the situation - write our Congressman?

"If our elected representatives need to be told that the current state of affairs is detrimental to our national welfare, then we are really in trouble!

"Yet surely something must be done to rectify the inconsistency of fighting a war in Vietnam - to guarantee a people's right to self-government - while at home the same precious right of majority rule is being mocked.

"Yes, Mr. Editor, something should be done, but who will bell the cat!?

'The fact remains that we who love our country must remain idle observers to the outrages you have described until some 'properly constituted government authority' awakens to the absurdity of our present conflicting policies.

"With all the furor concerning the rights of 'colored' people, I wonder why I seldom hear much about the rights of the American Indians - they're certainly not 'white.' Obviously, there's not much voting going on down at the ol' reservation!

"Meanwhile, Mr. Editor, you write editorials and I write letters, for to do otherwise would constitute sedition!" Mr. Cleveland concluded.

After some people have had a friend for some time, they begin to treat him as if he were an enemy.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — "Watching a baseball game to me is like going to church," said Carl Reiner. "There is time to think and ruminate.

"I'd rather have been a baseball pitcher than anything."

Young Carl, alas, had a big failing as a player. He could throw a fast ball, a slow ball, a curve or a fadeaway. The one thing he couldn't throw across the plate was a strike.

So, after finishing high school at 16 and working briefly as a shipping clerk and machinist's helper, he turned to acting.

Reiner, one of the best-liked men in show business, quickly became a master at pitching funny lines. Now he has matured into a quadruple-threat man in the entertainment field as actor, writer, director and producer.

Carl, who made his mark as a "top banana," or supporting comedian for Sid Caesar for eight years, widened his fame by originating and producing the "Dick Van Dyke Show," a popular television series.

His latest film opus, "Enter Laughing," introducing Reni Santoni to stardom, is based on a semiautobiographical novel that Reiner wrote in 1958. Carl directed the film and also served as cowriter and coproducer with his long-time friend, Joseph Stein, author of the Broadway hit, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Reiner, who still says his vocation is acting, regards writing, directing and producing as his hobbies. But he enjoys them all.

"The thing I get the most satisfaction from is anything that I start as a blank page in a typewriter, and then follow all the way through, whether it's a book, a play or a film," he said.

"There's something wonderful about catching a fish, cleaning it, cooking it and serving it, and then having someone say, 'Very good.'"

The tall, hazel-eyed actor picked up the rudiments of comedy writing by working with the gag men on the old Sid Caesar shows.

"But I had been such a poor student in school that I hesitated at trying anything at all serious. I felt I didn't know enough words to become a real writer.

"My wife got me over that hurdle. She convinced me that it wasn't important whether I knew a lot of long words, only whether I knew the right words."

Carl is convinced now that empathy, the feeling for people, is more valuable to a writer than a big vocabulary.

Reiner feels he is normally neurotic: "If you're not neurotic to some extent, you can't function in this society." But he believes his most valuable personality trait is an inborn, unquenchable optimism.

"Life is supposed to be fun," he said. "The human being isn't supposed to be genuinely happy very often, but if your problems don't let you have fun and moments of joy, then you haven't had much of a life."

FREEDOM IS OPPORTUNITY, NOT GUARANTEE

Freedom is opportunity. It is not a guarantee of income, advancement or success; nor is it protection against failure. Some think this harsh, believing that we have an obligation to provide such guarantees and protection. However, they should remember that when socialistic human engineers make it impossible for a man to fail, they also make it impossible for him to succeed.

In his book about collectivistic government, "Nineteen Eighty-Four," George Orwell said future collectivists would deliberately teach that "Freedom is slavery" and that slavery -- even if not called by that ugly name -- is Freedom. There are signs that Orwell's grim predictions may be coming to pass in the constant manipulation of the word "Freedom" to mean dependence on government rather than protection from government control. Want and hunger are enemies of all men, just as they are allies socialism. The free way of life has produced in this country the highest standard of living the world has ever known. This Freedom did more to eliminate hunger and want than any state and any ruler in history, no matter how great their "benevolence." If we insist on turning off this road of liberty to the ancient swamps of collectivism and all-powerful government, at least let us have the grace met to pretend that in doing so we are merely providing a new definition of Freedom.

Freedom does involve protection, but not protection against the natural hazards of life. It offers protection of the individual by his government against foreign invaders and domestic criminals, and the use of courts for settling disputes. These are purposes of limited government -- the balance and separation of powers which the Constitution provides.

There must be protection by government against violence; but there must also be protection from government which seeks to use its authority to increase its own power.

By its nature, government has the authority to impose force upon anyone. It has the physical ability to compel any citizen to do what he is told. This is why government is always a threat. It is also why excessive power in the hands of government menaces everyone, not just the popular target of the moment. The guns which today are turned on the group, section, person, or economic class which we dislike may be pointed at us tomorrow. Unlimited power, by definition, knows no restraint or law above the whim of those who run its infernal machine.

The tragic error which too many make today, and which has been made repeatedly throughout the course of history, is for Group A to assume that it can afford to give government unlimited power for one or more specific ends regarded as all-important, and still prevent that power from being used against Group A itself. When one begins to think in this way, soon all do so. And so the powers grow until none can escape them.

At the time of the Bolshevik take-over and afterward, many Russians fooled themselves into thinking they were using the Bolsheviks, when actually the Bolsheviks were doing the using. The German government of Kaiser Wilhelm thought, by sending Lenin to Russia in a sealed railway carriage to stir up revolution, it was using him to further the German war cause. Instead, they lost; and the Russia it helped to establish now rules one-third of Germany.

The Soviet labor unions, the revolutionary group among the Russian intellectuals, and the "Social Revolutionaries" who brought down governments by assassination in the name of the Russian peasants, made this same mistake. When Lenin finally grasped the Social Revolutionaries, machine-gunned labor union strikers in Kronstadt, and scornfully dismissed the intellectuals in his famous pamphlet, "Left-Wing Communism, an Infantile Disorder."

When the conflicting groups had been wiped out, Russia had a new master far more terrible than any Czar -- a worthy successor to the Mongol conquerors who followed Genghis Khan. All had sought to attain their goals through building up the power of the government without limit; all failed except the Bolsheviks.

That is how all men lose when Freedom is lost, and the handful on top are as tightly bound as those they enslave. No despot is ever free; he is a prisoner of his own monstrous system -- a parasite on the productivity of others who is forever hounded by men of scheming ambition.

One of the saddest spectacles on the American scene today is that of the racial and religion minority groups in the U.S. who turn to government as their ally. They have every right to seek justice in the courts and through appeal to the conscience of America; but when their efforts aim toward giving government new powers without thoughts of the long-range effect, they damage their own cause as well as the liberties of all Americans.

Members of every minority group should know that they are likely to be the first to suffer under a total state, simply because they are different and not easy to control. History is full of examples. Everyone has heard of the mass extermination of Jewish people by totalitarian Nazi Germany. Persecution of Jews in Soviet Russia is at last coming to public attention. It is know that rigid segregation is practiced in Moscow on a racial basis (African students must attend a university from which the white Russian students are barred).

When these things happen in a free country, minority groups protest. When they happen in a country which has fallen to unlimited government, minority groups can only suffer in silence.

American minority groups, confident in their ability to deliver large blocs of votes in elections, forget that this will avail them nothing if government becomes so strong it will dominate the "choices" offered on every ballot, as in Communist nations today. If the goal of most pressure groups continues to be to give more and more power to government, the day will come when they discover that the old tactics don't work any more, that their rulers turn a cold shoulder to them with the reminder that alternatives to the regime in power have all been destroyed.

In the same way, working people and their labor unions have a vital stake in Freedom, which alone permits them to bargain for better wages and working conditions, and to strike without fear of legal punishment. It is a fatal error for working people to build up the power of government on the assumption that government will act only against employers. Once it is strong enough, government will act against anyone it chooses, including labor unions and the working man.

No society of imperfect men is or can be perfect. Even Freedom is not a sure cure for every evil. Evils will remain in the freest society until eliminated by a steady rise in moral standards; but so long as a society is free, it can move forward and improve itself by the initiative of its citizens without waiting for any dispensation from above. Under a government with total powers, evils of every form inevitably multiply because nothing can be done about them except by the men at the very top.

Our Freedom can still be saved, but it will not be saved unless more of us realize the personal stake that each has in Freedom. Let us limit government to keeping the peace among us, instead of using it to gain selfish ends.

The difference between the average and the bright child is easy to detect, if you know what to look for, the Catholic Digest points out.

If a child makes long speeches and uses language fluently much before he is two and a half, he is certainly above average.

If a bright child is adept with his hands, he would soon learn to handle a hammer. If he is mechanically inclined, he is more likely to work with mechanical gadgets. If he is artistic, his scribblings will have some shape or form.

Another guide to the bright child is the number and variety of his interests. The gifted youngster usually has many sides; he turns easily to new tasks or pursuits. An early sense of numbers is another indication of a child's brightness. Once again, "early" means considerably before other children of the same age.

All youngsters ask questions, but the more they ask and the harder their questions are to answer, the brighter the children are likely to be.

RULE THE SEAS: RUSSIA'S GOAL

Not all Russian spectaculars take place in the ocean of space. In the past decade and a half the U.S.S.R. has made impressive strides toward becoming a leading power on the world's oceans.

A few of the statistics:

In 1950, the Russian merchant fleet comprised only 432 ships of 1,000 tons or over, totaling 1.8 million deadweight tons. By 1960, the U.S.S.R. was in 11th place among world fleets; by 1965 it was sixth and pressing Japan for fifth. As of June, 1966, it had 1,360 seagoing merchant vessels aggregating 9.8 million tons. Its current five-year plan calls for 15 million tons by 1970.

This is still a long way from the U.S. total of 28.3 million deadweight tons. But during the past 20 years, the U.S. active fleet has declined from 2,332 vessels to about 900, according to Paul Hall, president of the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department. Since 1953, U.S. tonnage has fallen by 8.8 million tons -- greater than the Soviet gain in the same period.

Since 1962, Russia has built 502 merchant ships to our 87. Last year, Russia spent approximately $1 billion on shipbuilding; this country spent some $106 million. And where 80 per cent of the Soviet fleet is less than 10 years old, 70 per cent of all U.S. flag ships are more than 20 years old.

By the end of 1966, the Soviets were carrying some 75 per cent of their trade in Redflag bottoms. The U.S. merchant fleet carries only 7.7 per cent of our trade. We have been forced to charter foreign vessels for the Vietnam war, 98 per cent of the supplies for which are transported by sea.

The Soviets employ 9,000 people in oceanography; we employ 3,700. Their seagoing science fleet numbers 200 shps to our 142.

All of which leads Hall to warn that the Russians are closer to sinking us than burying us. His alarm is shared by others.

It is the "aggressive, precisely planned" policy of the Kremlin to transform the U.S.S.R. into the world's dominant maritime power, says Edwin Hood, president of the Shipbuilders Council of America.

As the Russian fleet expands and is able to diminate the sea lanes, the fleets of other nations could be squeezed out. The potential danger, he says, is that the Communists could then withhold ocean freight services from any nation out of favor with them.

Reasons given for the decline of the U.S. merchant fleet are numerous. They include bureaucratic indifference and confusion in Washington, unfavorable policies of the State and Defense Departments, preferential subsidies to a handful of lines and union practices which have encouraged American companies to employ foreign crews on ships licensed to nations like Liberia and Honduras under "flags of convenience."

A young woman had just finished her first aid course and upon leaving the instructional center spied a man looking down over a flooded gutter. She ran to him, flipped him on his back and began to apply mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

H. L. Hunt Says

DIRECT VOTE PLAN NOT NEW

Most thoughtful students of the U.S. governmnetal structure agree that the Electoral College system of naming the President should be reformed. There are those who want to abolish the Electoral College altogether and substitute for it direct popular voting for the President and Vice President. Others suggest adoption of a constitutional amendment to provide for one presidential elector from every congressional district and two electors at large from each state.

The direct vote plan was thoughtfully considered -- and finally rejected -- by the Founders of Freedom at the 1787 constitutional convention. James Madison of Virginia stated forthrightly that the district system of choosing electors was "mostly, if not exclusively, in view when the Constitution was framed and adopted." Another Virginian, George Mason, told the convention that at least seven proposed methods for selecting a President had been considered and that the proposal for the direct vote had always failed. At one point in the convention a motion that the President be elected by direct vote was rejected by a vote of seven states to three. Alexander Hamilton spoke for the majority when he declared, "Let the election of the President be confined to electors."

At the end of many weeks of study and debate at the constitutional convention, Benjamin Franklin was asked by interested persons outside the convention, "What do we have?" His reply: "A Republic if you can keep it."

The Republic can best be preserved through reform of the Electoral College system by adoption of the congressional district plan. A resolution proposing the necessary constitutional amendment is before Congress. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The racial setback of America's big cities has obscured some American victories in diplomacy.

The most important backstage development in the recent United Nations debate was the fact that Soviet Russia was pressured by its satellites to abandon its support for the Arab states.

Such countries as Romania, Czechoslovakia, and to some extent Poland, told Foreign Minister Gromyko that they would not go along with the demand for an Israeli troop withdrawal unless the Arabs ended their war against Israel. This meant the recognition of Israel. They argued that it was unrealistic to claim Israel did not exist.

This was a victory first for the argument which President Johnson gave Premier Kosygin at Glassboro -- namely, that Israel exists, and that her troops could not be withdrawn without the end of the Arab belligerency and some recognition of Israel. Otherwise, another war was inevitable.

Second, this was a victory for some quiet diplomacy conducted by LBJ, Chief Justice Earl Warren, and various Americans dating back through the days of Truman and Eisenhower. Their diplomacy was aimed at making friends with East European Communist countries -- a policy which has been castigated by the Bill Buckleys and the professional right-wingers, but it has worked.

LBJ AND ROMANIAN

One illustration of its working has just come from behind the one-time iron curtain regarding the recent talk between President Johnson and Premier Ion Gheroghe Maurer of Romania. During the United Nations assembly when Maurer was in New York, President Johnson invited him to Washington for a talk.

Reports have now come back from other Communist diplomats that Maurer found the president "intelligent, well balanced, and receptive"; that the meeting gave Maurer an opportunity to learn the U.S. position on the near East and the United Nations.

The Romanians also reported that they found the Soviet position on the near East "unreasonable," and the American position of requiring some recognition of Israel by the Arabs "responsible."

Maurer expressed the opnion to other diplomats that he was disappointed that relations between Romania and the United States had moved so slowly, and hoped that trade would pick up. He found Johnson sympathetic to better Romanian - American cooperation, and eager to learn more of Romani's problems.

Maurer reported to other diplomats that the United States was the strongest world power, stronger than Russia, and that he had no illusions about the American desire to dominate the world. However, the United States, in contrast to Soviet Russia, would not seek to intrude on Romani's domestic policies.

Later, party chairman Cleausea over the near East, though reaffirming Soviet-Romanian friendship. He also announced a drastic shakeup in the Romanian secret police, criticising it for having abused the legitimate rights of citizens.

"AMBASSADOR" WARREN

News dispatches from Eastern Europe state that Chief Justice Earl Warren has been visiting the capitals of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Poland this summer. This will probably bring a loud accusation from the far-out right wing that the Supreme Court is selling out to Communism.

Real fact is that this is the second visit Warren has taken to Eastern Europe, the first having been to Romania, Bulgaria and Russia in the summer of 1963, at which time he called briefly upon Krushchev and spent much more time in Romania.

He drove from Northwest Romania through the heart of the country, visiting farms, universities, city councils, and ending with a call on the late chairman Gheorghiu Dej and Premier Maurer.

Later, when Kennedy was assassinated, Maurer came to the funeral as official representative, and Warren dined with him at my home. These friendly talks unquestionably led up to the current improvement in U.S. - Romanian relations and the current independence of the one-time Soviet satellite.

The Chief Justice does not try to do any politicking on these trips. He is a listener. But the fact that the No. 1 jurist of the Western World and the No. 2 man of the United States takes the trouble to travel a long distance and try to get a better understanding of a nation makes a profound impression.

This is what the Chief Justice and Mrs. Warren did when they traveled through the west coast of South America last winter, going as far as the interior of Bolivia. He merely discussed the American system of jurisprudence and the U.S. system of an independent judiciary.

This also made a profound impression, especially in countries where new revolutionary presidents sometimes appoint their own friends to the Supreme Court immediately after they take over. Some congressmen were critical because the State Department paid the Warrens a per diem traveling allowance, but their visits paid real dividends.

Note -- The State Department is now urging Justice William Brennan to visit law schools and legal groups in Chile, Argentina, and Brazil which the Chief Justice did not visit; and has asked Justice Potter Stewart to go to other Latin-American countries this summer.

Pat Nugents Begin Second Honeymoon

NEW YORK (AP) — Patrick and Luci Johnson Nugent were mobbed by more than 300 midtown theatergoers Tuesday night as they started their second honeymoon with a stop on Broadway.

The Nugents had left their 3-week-old son Patrick Lyndon in the White House with his grandparents, President and Mrs. Johnson— but they hadn't forgotten him.

"He's fine— I haven't talked to him recently," quipped Pat, during intermission at the Imperial Theater, where he and Luci had joined a group of friends to see the musical "Cabaret."

The Nugents waited until most of the theater had emptied before leaving— but the crowd hadn't gone far.

As they rapidly made their way through the lobby, they were surrounded by well wishers. Secret Servicemen pushed the crowd back, cleared a path to a waiting limousine and hustled them off.

Paper Dress Fashions Hit Sikeston

BY CAROL MILLER

Advertised for travel, leisure, work and fun, paper dresses hit the fashion scene about the same time as spring.

More often found in drug stores and supermarkets than conventional outlets, the paper dresses have met with limited success in the Sikeston area. Although it is hard to judge the repeat business, most merchants say they sell well the first time around. One described a "great demand."

A survey of the women disclosed that they usually buy the dresses for a special occasion or out of curiosity.

Fashioned in colorful prints and stripes, they come in standard sizes and are usually A-line styles with either a square, scoop or tie neckline. Many are a blend of 80 per cent cellulose and 20 per cent cotton.

One problem women do not have with paper fashions is trouble-some hemming - to shorten scissors easily clip to the desired length.

The dresses are fire retardant unless washed or dry cleaned. They can be ironed with a cool iron.

Seldom seen on the city's streets, the dresses first hit the east coast and the college campuses. They reach their height of attractiveness in mother-daughter sets.

Paper fabric is even on the market for home styling, but Mrs. Hal Robertson did better than that. For a paper party this month in honor of the birthday of Charles L. Blanton III, she designed a dress from the Daily Standard by taping, sewing and pasting together articles, headlines and advertisements from newspapers. The A-line style, backed with muslin lining, was trimmed at the armholes, neckline and hem with red seam binding.

Mrs. Robertson's only difficulty in creating the dress was turning it from the wrong to the right side after the seams had been sewed.

She drew her pattern from the paper dress of a friend to get the right flair to the skirt and then fashioned the top similar to a favorite nightgown.

"I like the paper dresses, but one or two would be plenty for any wardrobe, she said. "They seem to be the coming thing."

Mrs. Manuel Drumm is less enthusiastic. The first time Mrs. Drumm wore her new paper dress, it was ruined when she sat on a brick hearth. She said they are all right to cook breakfast in or for a special occasion but not for a complete wardrobe.

What makes a woman decide to purchase a paper dress? With a coupon for savings and a friend's affirmative opinion, Mrs. Merline Hagy purchased a pink and black tent dress that tied on the shoulder.

Her only objection is that it is a little hot, but she would buy another if she liked the design. On one occasion when she wore it to work at Sikeston high school some of her friends did not realize it was paper.

Some women make gifts of paper dresses.

Mrs. Bernard Rice and Miss Judy Matthews hold what seems to be a prevailing opinion that the new paper styles are fun to wear and save ironing but they are only a passing fad.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lane and Hal and Beth of Memphis arrived Thursday to spend the weekend with Mrs. Lane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kirk. The family attended the wedding of Mrs. Lane's niece, Miss Joan Kirk and Lloyd Stoner, Saturday.

Rick Holyfield and Jim Brewer returned Thursday from two weeks vacation in California. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stewart. They visited Las Vegas and other points of interest on their trip.

After my first month as a new cadet at West Point, I was completely indoctrinated in the principle of unquestioning obedience. One afternoon, on an errand from one barracks to another, I was halted by a sharp command out of nowhere. Too intimidated to look around, I stood fearfully waiting to hear what rule I had violated. Instead, I received one command after another: "Right face! Left face! Forward, march! Halt! About face!"

It was a full 20 minutes of these silly maneuvers before I finally spotted my tormentor - a happy-go-lucky painter on his lunch break, sitting in a third-floor window, munching his apple and having a grand time.

Roger Stevens, chairman of the National Council on the Arts, said during a ground breaking ceremony that Chicago's acquisition of the sculpture fulfills the council's programs — to obtain suitable works of art for the open places of large and small American cities.

ROUND THE TOWN

Mrs. David Kelley and sons, David and Mark, of Steele, are visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robley Lennox.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lane and Hal and Beth of Memphis arrived Thursday to spend the weekend with Mrs. Lane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kirk. The family attended the wedding of Mrs. Lane's niece, Miss Joan Kirk and Lloyd Stoner, Saturday.

Rick Holyfield and Jim Brewer returned Thursday from two weeks vacation in California. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stewart. They visited Las Vegas and other points of interest on their trip.

After my first month as a new cadet at West Point, I was completely indoctrinated in the principle of unquestioning obedience. One afternoon, on an errand from one barracks to another, I was halted by a sharp command out of nowhere. Too intimidated to look around, I stood fearfully waiting to hear what rule I had violated. Instead, I received one command after another: "Right face! Left face! Forward, march! Halt! About face!"

It was a full 20 minutes of these silly maneuvers before I finally spotted my tormentor - a happy-go-lucky painter on his lunch break, sitting in a third-floor window, munching his apple and having a grand time.

CARING FOR A FAVORITE ROSE BUSH, Mrs. Merlin Hagy, chooses a black and pink paisley print paper dress fashion.

Paper Dress Fashions Hit Sikeston

BY CAROL MILLER

Advertised for travel, leisure, work and fun, paper dresses hit the fashion scene about the same time as spring.

More often found in drug stores and supermarkets than conventional outlets, the paper dresses have met with limited success in the Sikeston area. Although it is hard to judge the repeat business, most merchants say they sell well the first time around. One described a "great demand."

A survey of the women disclosed that they usually buy the dresses for a special occasion or out of curiosity.

Fashioned in colorful prints and stripes, they come in standard sizes and are usually A-line styles with either a square, scoop or tie neckline. Many are a blend of 80 per cent cellulose and 20 per cent cotton.

One problem women do not have with paper fashions is trouble-some hemming - to shorten scissors easily clip to the desired length.

The dresses are fire retardant unless washed or dry cleaned. They can be ironed with a cool iron.

Seldom seen on the city's streets, the dresses first hit the east coast and the college campuses. They reach their height of attractiveness in mother-daughter sets.

Paper fabric is even on the market for home styling, but Mrs. Hal Robertson did better than that. For a paper party this month in honor of the birthday of Charles L. Blanton III, she designed a dress from the Daily Standard by taping, sewing and pasting together articles, headlines and advertisements from newspapers. The A-line style, backed with muslin lining, was trimmed at the armholes, neckline and hem with red seam binding.

Mrs. Robertson's only difficulty in creating the dress was turning it from the wrong to the right side after the seams had been sewed.

She drew her pattern from the paper dress of a friend to get the right flair to the skirt and then fashioned the top similar to a favorite nightgown.

"I like the paper dresses, but one or two would be plenty for any wardrobe, she said. "They seem to be the coming thing."

Mrs. Manuel Drumm is less enthusiastic. The first time Mrs. Drumm wore her new paper dress, it was ruined when she sat on a brick hearth. She said they are all right to cook breakfast in or for a special occasion but not for a complete wardrobe.

What makes a woman decide to purchase a paper dress? With a coupon for savings and a friend's affirmative opinion, Mrs. Merline Hagy purchased a pink and black tent dress that tied on the shoulder.

Her only objection is that it is a little hot, but she would buy another if she liked the design. On one occasion when she wore it to work at Sikeston high school some of her friends did not realize it was paper.

Some women make gifts of paper dresses.

Mrs. Bernard Rice and Miss Judy Matthews hold what seems to be a prevailing opinion that the new paper styles are fun to wear and save ironing but they are only a passing fad.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION:

90% of today's prescriptions contain drugs unknown just a few short years ago

Many of today's "wonder drugs" are only adolescents in the developing world of scientific miracles. The hypertension drugs made their debut with Rauwiloid in 1953. And in 1954, tranquilizers were first released for public consumption...the same year Jonas Salk led the way for the dramatic breakthrough in polio control. In 1962, enzymes were introduced to accelerate tissue repair and reduce inflammation. Going back a little further we find that penicillin...which has proved so necessary to life...has been in use just 19 years. It was only 14 years ago that the antihistamines first appeared on your Pharmacist's shelves. Bearing these developments in mind, the future of prescription drugs promises discoveries inconceivable to the imagination.

For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to

Reserve Clause Questioned

CHICAGO (AP) — The reserve clause — a baseball team's legal hold on a player's exclusive services — is expected to trigger a flurry of debate once again at the major league summer meetings.

Representatives of the Players Association will meet today with league officials and club owners to discuss the demands of the athletes which were relayed last week to the owners in a seven-page letter.

In their statement, the players said the reserve clause deprives an athlete of "bona-fide bargaining power in his salary negotiations with a club."

The players doubted the legality of the reserve clause and said they disagreed with the owners' longtime contention that removal of the reserve clause would be injurious to baseball.

Reserve Clause Questioned

CHICAGO (AP) — The reserve clause — a baseball team's legal hold on a player's exclusive services — is expected to trigger a flurry of debate once again at the major league summer meetings.

Representatives of the Players Association will meet today with league officials and club owners to discuss the demands of the athletes which were relayed last week to the owners in a seven-page letter.

In their statement, the players said the reserve clause deprives an athlete of "bona-fide bargaining power in his salary negotiations with a club."

The players doubted the legality of the reserve clause and said they disagreed with the owners' longtime contention that removal of the reserve clause would be injurious to baseball.

Cubs End Cards String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those Cubs of Chicago again demonstrated they are bound to have something to say about the National League pennant chase. And Tuesday, they forced the league leading Cardinals to listen closely.

The Cubs backed Ferguson Jenkins six-hit pitching with timely base running and hitting for a 3-2 victory over St. Louis and moved to within 3½ games of first place.

Chicago scored twice in the first inning on singles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams, a wild pitch by Nelson Briles, and Ron Santo's double. They added what proved to be the clincher in the sixth on singles by Santo and Ernie Banks and Clarence Jones' double.

Ferguson shut out the Cards until the eighth. Then, a walk, an error and two singles gave St. Louis two runs and with the bases loaded on another walk, it appeared the Cards were still in the game.

However, Ferguson got Orlando Cepeda on a fly ball to end the rally and kept the door closed in the ninth to record his 14th victory against eight losses.

St. Louis winds up its current series with the Cubs in a double-header today. Steve Carlton and Dick Hughes are the mound selections for the Cards. Bob Shaw and Ray Culp will pitch for the Cubs.

Leave it to Willie Mays.

It was a pitcher's paradise in the National League Tuesday night until Mays caught up with Woody Fryman in the seventh inning of San Francisco's 3-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

Willie walloped his 14th home run of the season and No. 556 of his career helping Juan Marichal win his 14th game.

Mays' blast was the first and only homer of the night as the pitchers shut off the power in the National League. The shot soared over the right center field fence at Candlestick Park and was Mays' first circuit since June 28. He struggled through a homerless July with a heavy cold and influenza.

In other National League action Tuesday, Chicago cut St. Louis' lead to 3½ games by clipping the Cardinals 3-2, Cincinnati shut out Atlanta 2-0 on Jim Maloney's three-hitter, New York topped Houston 5-1 and Philadelphia nipped Los Angeles 2-1.

Marichal hurled a six-hitter and drove in the game's tie-breaking run with a sixth inning single following hits by Hal Lanier and Tito Fuentes.

Roberto Clemente had tripled home a run for the Pirates in the third but Jim Hart's two-out single in the fifth following an error by Gene Alley, tied it for the Giants.

Ferguson Jenkins hurled a six-hitter and won his 14th game for the Cubs, as the Cardinals' six-game winning streak came to an end.

Ron Santo and Clarence Jones smacked run-scoring doubles, helping Chicago to an early 3-0 edge. Jenkins was coasting on a two-hitter until the eighth when the Cards rocked him for both their runs. But the young righthander pitched out of the jam and hung on for the victory.

Maloney, 9-7, hurled his second complete game of the season and was in control all the way against the Braves. He scattered three singles and struck out eight.

Maloney protected a 1-0 lead provided when Tony Perez rapped into a bases-loaded double play in the fourth. Then doubles by Don Pavletich and Chico Ruiz gave him an insurance run in the eighth.

Self Defense Verdict in Gun Death at Steele

STEELE - Self defense was the ruling in an inquest held in the slaying of a 43-year-old Negro man by a city policeman, also a Negro, Sunday.

Tommy German, mayor and Pemiscot County deputy sheriff, reported that Tommy Lee Hill was shot "three or four times" by Otis White during an attempted arrest at 2 a.m. Sunday at Twigg's Cafe.

According to German, "White told a Negro woman she was under arrest and Hill pulled a gun on him. White shot him and every time Hill recovered from a bullet hitting him, he'd raise the gun again, so White kept on shooting."

When the mayor arrived at the cafe Hill was dead and still had a .38 caliber pistol in his hand. The woman White was trying to arrest fled.

Don't use kerosene or gasoline to start fires, warns the National Safety Council.

Westvaco to Begin Building

WICKLIFFE, KY. - Westvaco is scheduled to start construction on its $80 million pulp and paper plant at Wickliffe in August.

The announcement concludes the final stage of financing to assure the plant's construction in the Ballard County seat of Wickliffe.

Earth work will be the first phase of the construction with actual building scheduled to begin in the spring of 1968 and to be completed in 1970.

The dramatic conclusion of the "fairy tale" story occurred in Wickliffe and in the company's New York headquarters.

Wickliffe city officials delivered to New York the $80 million worth of construction bonds to the underwriter, Drexel Harriman Ripley, Inc., for distribution to buyers.

The bonds were sold within a few hours after the City of Wickliffe, adopted the ordinance offering them for sale.

The official party on the New York trip included Mayor James A. Wilson, City Clerk Flo Draper, and City Attorney Noah Geveden.

Mrs. Draper, signed 17,000 bonds, 24 at a time, at the Chase Manhattan National Bank of New York. The bonds were then delivered to the underwriter.

The $80 million check to the City of Wickliffe went to the construction fund trustee, James A. Payne, executive vice president of Chase Manhattan National Bank.

While the New York delegation concluded its phase of the operation, another important part was taking place in Wickliffe.

Two Paducah attorneys, Henry Whitlow and Tom Waller, who have represented Westvaco ever since it was a vague prospect under the name of the Ohio River Valley Timber Co., and C. W. Gafton, Louisville attorney and bond counselor, delivered the deed to the City of Wickliffe for the 1,200 acres of land Westvaco bought for the plant site in Ballard and Carlisle Counties.

At the same time the City of Wickliffe presented the lease on the land to the representatives of Westvaco which will run for 25 years.

Westvaco will employ several hundred people, mostly men during the construction period as many as 1,000 will work on the plant during peak periods.

The plant is expected to contribute $20 million annually to the economy of the state and area.

Approximately 250 people will be employed by independent wood producers in the area as a result of the plant's operation.

Sikeston 3-0 Winner

Charleston Bombs Morehouse, 23-0

CHARLESTON -- First round action of the First Annual Charleston Little League baseball tournament was completed last night with Sikeston opening the night with a 3-0 win over Dexter followed by Charleston's All-Stars rousing victory over Morehouse, 23-0.

Action resumes Thursday night with semi-final round games. Benton meets Cairo, Ill., in the 7 p.m. game followed at 8:30 by the arch-rival contest between Charleston and Sikeston.

Ricky LaPlant hurled the Sikeston All-Star little leaguers past a tough Dexter opponent last night, 3-0. He had a no hitter going and had only one batter to face for the ace in the sixth inning but he (Mayer) bounced a hard grounder off the third basemen's glove for an infield single. He had 12 strikeouts for the game.

Dexter's Lowes limited the Sikeston offense to three hits, but fine baserunning gave the Stars the victory.

Sikeston struck with three runs in the first and held that margin throughout the game.

Ricky Guttenfielder had two hits for Sikeston while teammate LaPlant had the other safety, a double.

Charleston used 15 players, banging out 13 hits, including three homers, two triples and five doubles as they trounced Morehouse's little league tournament entry.

Morehouse gave up 12 walks to add to the Charleston scoring and committed four errors.

Carlisle hit a grand slam homer for Charleston and teammates Clark and Pierce added round tripers for additional scores. Clark's came with two on and Pierce's with none on.

Charleston tallied 13 runs in the first and pushed across nine in the second as the team batted around twice in each inning.

Chaney was the winning hurler while Dewitt absorbed the loss for Morehouse.

Hoskins and Taylor collected hits for Morehouse.

Foresters Try Again

The second game of the best of three playoff series between Sikeston and Cape Girardeau for the state district title will be attempted today.

Cape is trailing in the series 1-0 and the tournament was set up for all three games at Cape. An attempt to play the game will be made today at 6 p.m. at VFW stadium here.

The two state playoffs begin Friday with Pine Bluff playing the winner of the series. A Sikeston win would move the tournament to VFW stadium starting Friday and with games scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

Oran Bumps Scott Central

ORAN -- Scott County Central's Braves fell into a tie for the SEMO high school league title last night after suffering a 4-2 defeat at the hands of Oran.

Wayne Graham struck out eight Central batters in five and one half innings and reliefer, Tim Halter, collected five strikeouts in one and two thirds of an inning as both Oran hurlers held Central to five hits and two runs. Graham was the winner.

Oran collected four runs on 11 hits as Steve Ruffin and Larry Whorton led the hitting attack with two hits each.

Whorton connected on a sixth inning homer while teammates Rodney LaGrand tripled and Doug Hanley doubled.

Oran tallied in the second with one run and added two in the fourth and one in the sixth for its total. Both Central runs came in the fourth.

Paul Hale and Randy Boley led the Central offense with two hits each. Hale had a double and Boley a triple. Oran will meet Delta Thursday and goes to Morley to face Central in perhaps the title game. Saturday's game is slated for 4 p.m.

Karnes was the losing hurler.

Considered one of the poorest countries in Africa, Somali's gross national product in 1964 was only $100-million.

Widows and Widowers

The U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census reports the number of U.S. widows was more than four times the number of widowers in 1966. There were 8.9 million widowed women in the nation, compared to 2.0 million widowed men at that time.

About 240 tornadoes occur each year in the U.S.

BIG ONES THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY

Despite the typical fisherman's line, not all "the big ones" got away during the past season . . and the evidence should be readily available in local food stores.

A reportedly "extremely heavy supply" of frozen fish fillets and steaks have placed these denizens of the deep on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's current Plentiful Foods list.

Some 175 million pounds of fish, in fact, are accounted for in cold storage, ready for market. This is at least 15 percent more than a year ago and nearly 30 percent more than summertime supplies in 1965.

Both salt-water and fresh-water fish will be found among this abundance, according to the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries' market news. Steaks and fillets of cod, sole and ocean perch are considered perhaps the most numerous.

Lake trout and yellow (or walleyed) pike are readily available, too.

Another part of this "catch" are the offerings of red snapper, dressed halibut and fish sticks and portions.

Seafood lovers will be glad to know that the new season for shrimp has begun. This should lead to increasing supplies of smaller sized shrimp, although the larger ones are relatively scarce.

Still other fush and seafood items may be attractive buys to homemakers from time to time - for example, Canadian whitefish - as fresh catches come to market.

Cruise passengers eat and drink half their weight on a typical two-week Caribbean cruise. For such a voyage from New York, one ship takes aboard 500 pounds of venison, 10,000 pounds of steak, 8,000 pounds of filet mignon, 9,000 pounds of beef ribs, 8,000 pounds of turkeys, 7,000 pounds of chickens, 1,500 pounds of ducks, 2,000 pounds of bacon, 4,000 pounds each of legs of lamb and lamb chops, 6,000 pounds of veal, and 15,000 pounds of other cuts of meat. Also, 200 pounds of fresh caviar, 5,000 pounds of fish, 2,000 pounds of shrimp, 900 pounds of live lobsters, plus great quantities of beverages and fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables.

If You Were the Judge

His Death No Accident

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Dinty's conscience was a very poor guide. Deciding to make a clean breast of things, he confessed to his best friend that he had been romancing the latter's wife, and got shot right in the middle of his confession.

When he died, Dinty's widow immediately applied for payment under a policy of insurance that covered Dinty in the event of his accidental death.

"Your husband's death was no accident," she was told by a company agent. "He was shot intentionally and on purpose. In fact, under the circumstances, it would have been more of an accident if he hadn't been shot."

"That's absurd," was the widow's answer. "An accident occurs when something unforseeable happens. And, believe me, if Dinty thought he was going to get shot, he would have kept his mouth shut. While he may have been a little stupid, he wasn't crazy."

Intent upon collecting under the policy, Dinty's widow took her claim to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider Dinty's death an accident'

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held, in effect, that when a man admits to a husband that he's been carrying on with his wife, it's tantamount to committing suicide; that he can expect to be shot and his death, in such a case, is not accidental.

Dexter Hospital at Half Way Mark

DEXTER - The Dexter Memorial hospital, Stoddard County's first hospital, is nearing the "half-way mark," it has been announced, and a second fund-raising campaign is under way, to complete the construction.

The hospital, planned as a 50-bed, non-profit institution, is being financed by public subscriptions plus a federal grant from the Hill-Harris funds. The public subscription plan was adopted after three failures in trying to vote a bond issue in Stoddard County.

The Dexter hospital is 25 miles and half-way between Poplar and Sikeston, nearest sites of other hospitals.

The hospital, expected to be ready for use in the summer of 1968, will serve an area with a population of 25,000 to 30,000 persons.

Sikeston 3-0 Winner

Charleston Bombs Morehouse, 23-0

CHARLESTON -- First round action of the First Annual Charleston Little League baseball tournament was completed last night with Sikeston opening the night with a 3-0 win over Dexter followed by Charleston's All-Stars rousing victory over Morehouse, 23-0.

Action resumes Thursday night with semi-final round games. Benton meets Cairo, Ill., in the 7 p.m. game followed at 8:30 by the arch-rival contest between Charleston and Sikeston.

Ricky LaPlant hurled the Sikeston All-Star little leaguers past a tough Dexter opponent last night, 3-0. He had a no hitter going and had only one batter to face for the ace in the sixth inning but he (Mayer) bounced a hard grounder off the third basemen's glove for an infield single. He had 12 strikeouts for the game.

Dexter's Lowes limited the Sikeston offense to three hits, but fine baserunning gave the Stars the victory.

Sikeston struck with three runs in the first and held that margin throughout the game.

Ricky Guttenfielder had two hits for Sikeston while teammate LaPlant had the other safety, a double.

Charleston used 15 players, banging out 13 hits, including three homers, two triples and five doubles as they trounced Morehouse's little league tournament entry.

Morehouse gave up 12 walks to add to the Charleston scoring and committed four errors.

Carlisle hit a grand slam homer for Charleston and teammates Clark and Pierce added round tripers for additional scores. Clark's came with two on and Pierce's with none on.

Charleston tallied 13 runs in the first and pushed across nine in the second as the team batted around twice in each inning.

Chaney was the winning hurler while Dewitt absorbed the loss for Morehouse.

Hoskins and Taylor collected hits for Morehouse.

Cruise passengers eat and drink half their weight on a typical two-week Caribbean cruise. For such a voyage from New York, one ship takes aboard 500 pounds of venison, 10,000 pounds of steak, 8,000 pounds of filet mignon, 9,000 pounds of beef ribs, 8,000 pounds of turkeys, 7,000 pounds of chickens, 1,500 pounds of ducks, 2,000 pounds of bacon, 4,000 pounds each of legs of lamb and lamb chops, 6,000 pounds of veal, and 15,000 pounds of other cuts of meat. Also, 200 pounds of fresh caviar, 5,000 pounds of fish, 2,000 pounds of shrimp, 900 pounds of live lobsters, plus great quantities of beverages and fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables.

Widows and Widowers

The U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census reports the number of U.S. widows was more than four times the number of widowers in 1966. There were 8.9 million widowed women in the nation, compared to 2.0 million widowed men at that time.

About 240 tornadoes occur each year in the U.S.

BIG ONES THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY

Despite the typical fisherman's line, not all "the big ones" got away during the past season . . and the evidence should be readily available in local food stores.

A reportedly "extremely heavy supply" of frozen fish fillets and steaks have placed these denizens of the deep on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's current Plentiful Foods list.

Some 175 million pounds of fish, in fact, are accounted for in cold storage, ready for market. This is at least 15 percent more than a year ago and nearly 30 percent more than summertime supplies in 1965.

Both salt-water and fresh-water fish will be found among this abundance, according to the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries' market news. Steaks and fillets of cod, sole and ocean perch are considered perhaps the most numerous.

Lake trout and yellow (or walleyed) pike are readily available, too.

Another part of this "catch" are the offerings of red snapper, dressed halibut and fish sticks and portions.

Seafood lovers will be glad to know that the new season for shrimp has begun. This should lead to increasing supplies of smaller sized shrimp, although the larger ones are relatively scarce.

Still other fush and seafood items may be attractive buys to homemakers from time to time - for example, Canadian whitefish as fresh catches come to market.

If You Were the Judge

His Death No Accident

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Dinty's conscience was a very poor guide. Deciding to make a clean breast of things, he confessed to his best friend that he had been romancing the latter's wife, and got shot right in the middle of his confession.

When he died, Dinty's widow immediately applied for payment under a policy of insurance that covered Dinty in the event of his accidental death.

"Your husband's death was no accident," she was told by a company agent. "He was shot intentionally and on purpose. In fact, under the circumstances, it would have been more of an accident if he hadn't been shot."

"That's absurd," was the widow's answer. "An accident occurs when something unforseeable happens. And, believe me, if Dinty thought he was going to get shot, he would have kept his mouth shut. While he may have been a little stupid, he wasn't crazy."

Intent upon collecting under the policy, Dinty's widow took her claim to court.

Cubs End Cards String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those Cubs of Chicago again demonstrated they are bound to have something to say about the National League pennant chase. And Tuesday, they forced the league leading Cardinals to listen closely.

The Cubs backed Ferguson Jenkins six-hit pitching with timely base running and hitting for a 3-2 victory over St. Louis and moved to within 3½ games of first place.

Chicago scored twice in the first inning on singles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams, a wild pitch by Nelson Briles, and Ron Santo's double. They added what proved to be the clincher in the sixth on singles by Santo and Ernie Banks and Clarence Jones' double.

Ferguson shut out the Cards until the eighth. Then, a walk an error and two singles gave St. Louis two runs and with the bases loaded on another walk, it appeared the Cards were still in the game.

However, Ferguson got Orlando Cepeda on a fly ball to end the rally and kept the door closed in the ninth to record his 14th victory against eight losses.

St. Louis winds up its current series with the Cubs in a double-header today. Steve Carlton and Dick Hughes are the mound selections for the Cards. Bob Shaw and Ray Culp will pitch for the Cubs.

Leave it to Willie Mays.

It was a pitcher's paradise in the National League Tuesday night until Mays caught up with Woody Fryman in the seventh inning of San Francisco's 3-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

Willie walloped his 14th home run of the season and No. 556 of his career helping Juan Marichal win his 14th game.

Mays' blast was the first and only homer of the night as the pitchers shut off the power in the National League. The shot soared over the right center field fence at Candlestick Park and was Mays' first circuit since June 28. He struggled through a homerless July with a heavy cold and influenza.

In other National League action Tuesday, Chicago cut St. Louis' lead to 3½ games by clipping the Cardinals 3-2, Cincinnati shut out Atlanta 2-0 on Jim Maloney's three-hitter, New York topped Houston 5-1 and Philadelphia nipped Los Angeles 2-1.

Marichal hurled a six-hitter and drove in the game's tie-breaking run with a sixth inning single following hits by Hal Lanier and Tito Fuentes.

Roberto Clemente had tripled home a run for the Pirates in the third but Jim Hart's two-out single in the fifth following an error by Gene Alley, tied it for the Giants.

Ferguson Jenkins hurled a six-hitter and won his 14th game for the Cubs, as the Cardinals' six-game winning streak came to an end.

Ron Santo and Clarence Jones smacked run-scoring doubles, helping Chicago to an early 3-0 edge. Jenkins was coasting on a two-hitter until the eighth when the Cards rocked him for both their runs. But the young righthander pitched out of the jam and hung on for the victory.

Maloney, 9-7, hurled his second complete game of the season and was in control all the way against the Braves. He scattered three singles and struck out eight.

Maloney protected a 1-0 lead provided when Tony Perez rapped into a bases-loaded double play in the fourth. Then doubles by Don Pavletich and Chico Ruiz gave him an insurance run in the eighth.

Self Defense Verdict in Gun Death at Steele

STEELE - Self defense was the ruling in an inquest held in the slaying of a 43-year-old Negro man by a city policeman, also a Negro, Sunday.

Tommy German, mayor and Pemiscot County deputy sheriff, reported that Tommy Lee Hill was shot "three or four times" by Otis White during an attempted arrest at 2 a.m. Sunday at Twigg's Cafe.

According to German, "White told a Negro woman she was under arrest and Hill pulled a gun on him. White shot him and every time Hill recovered from a bullet hitting him, he'd raise the gun again, so White kept on shooting."

When the mayor arrived at the cafe Hill was dead and still had a .38 caliber pistol in his hand. The woman White was trying to arrest fled.

Don't use kerosene or gasoline to start fires, warns the National Safety Council.

Westvaco to Begin Building

WICKLIFFE, KY. - Westvaco is scheduled to start construction on its $80 million pulp and paper plant at Wickliffe in August.

The announcement concludes the final stage of financing to assure the plant's construction in the Ballard County seat of Wickliffe.

Earth work will be the first phase of the construction with actual building scheduled to begin in the spring of 1968 and to be completed in 1970.

The dramatic conclusion of the "fairy tale" story occurred in Wickliffe and in the company's New York headquarters.

Wickliffe city officials delivered to New York the $80 million worth of construction bonds to the underwriter, Drexel Harriman Ripley, Inc., for distribution to buyers.

The bonds were sold within a few hours after the City of Wickliffe, adopted the ordinance offering them for sale.

The official party on the New York trip included Mayor James A. Wilson, City Clerk Flo Draper, and City Attorney Noah Geveden.

Mrs. Draper, signed 17,000 bonds, 24 at a time, at the Chase Manhattan National Bank of New York. The bonds were then delivered to the underwriter.

The $80 million check to City of Wickliffe went to the construction fund trustee, James A. Payne, executive vice president of Chase Manhattan National Bank.

While the New York delegation concluded its phase of the operation, another important part was taking place in Wickliffe.

Two Paducah attorneys, Henry Whitlow and Tom Waller, who have represented Westvaco ever since it was a vague prospect under the name of the Ohio River Valley Timber Co., and C. W. Gafton, Louisville attorney and bond counselor, delivered the deed to the City of Wickliffe for the 1,200 acres of land Westvaco bought for the plant site in Ballard and Carlisle Counties.

At the same time the City of Wickliffe presented the lease on the land to the representatives of Westvaco which will run for 25 years.

Westvaco will employ several hundred people, mostly men during the construction period as many as 1,000 will work on the plant during peak periods.

The plant is expected to contribute $20 million annually to the economy of the state and area.

Approximately 250 people will be employed by independent wood producers in the area as a result of the plant's operation.

Illmo's Doctor Faces Navy Duty

ILLMO - Dr. J. Marstall Jung, of Illmo-Scott City, has been ordered to report for duty with the Navy, and persons living in that twin-city town are shocked and a little frightened at the news. Dr. Jung is the only physician there.

A civic leader in Illmo, said contact is being made with the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, agency who works with American Medical Society in procuring doctors for small communities. He said that prior to Dr. Jung's arrival, Illmo-Scott City was without a doctor for 12 years.

The situation in Vietnam, with "it's ever increasing need for doctors" is the reason given by local draft board members, for drafting Dr. Jung and other small the town doctors.

New Insurance Bill Signed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A broad bill revising the state insurance laws was signed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Tuesday.

It is designed to strengthen the Insurance Division's authority over brokers, agents and weak companies. Sponsors said it would increase the protection of policyholders.

Also signed were bills raising the salary of Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter from $15,000 to $19,000 and the salary of Merit System Director Norris Steenburger from $10,500 to $15,000.

Under another bill signed, obscene, threatening or harassing telephone calls would become a crime, punishable by up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Other bills signed will:

Deny hardship driving privileges to anyone convicted of drunken driving or refusing to take a chemical test.

Allow junior colleges to call special bond issue elections.

Provide $50 a month for people caring for children in foster homes.

THE WHEEL OF EDUCATION

The child is the hub, or the focal point, the teachers are the spokes that holds the wheel firmly, the rim, the paint and other trimmings represent all others in the Wheel of Education, that are vital in the proper direction in which this wheel must roll.

The teachers are recognized as the most important in all phases of learning. They are nearest to the child at time of molding personalities, maturity from baby to boy and in guiding the child in his tempermental tantrums to joyous laughter. They teach the child the beginning skills that he will need all through his life. One weak spoke in the wheel can do much damage to many pupils. Without proper guidance and presentation in teaching the realm of the great Educational Wheel can not roll into the successful achievement.

Educators must face significant literary facts, stay out of ruts, keep salaries, building and environments conducive to attract the very best to teach in todays modern classrooms. People not dedicated to their professions should not be permitted to work and further disturb the disturbed.

Academic frustrations and failure heads the list for dropouts in our schools. The untrained individual is at the bottom of the heap, economically. He is the first to feel the effects of the diminishing demand for unskilled labor. Training the very young is one of the finest solutions, before damage has been done to the pupils minds and hearts.

The humanities approach complements and accompanies the techniques to inspire creative thinking, curosity and the desire to learn. This comes naturally with the capabilities of a good teacher. This does not mean that he must be an A student himself, with an IQ of 140. It simply means a combination of qualities that compose a good teacher as, personality, enthusiasm, love for people, pleasant voice tonality, compassion for color and creed, one who reads extensively, and is trained to do the job.

The Wheel of Education rolls into a new trend of teaching every few years. Specialization for all levels is coming in the near future, as no teacher is capable of teaching all academic subjects, fine arts, physical education and give his best care to the emotional, intellectual and physical growth of each individual child.

To the Editor:

According to the July 31 issue of U.S. News & World Report, the House on July 20 refused to take up a rat control bill which would have earmarked $40,000,000 in federal money to help states and localities get rid of rats.

Representative H.R. Gross of Iowa suggested the possibility that a "High Commissioner of the Rat Corps" would be named.

In administering these various federal programs a multitude of federal workers are put to work, and by the time their salaries are paid there is little money left to take care of the program. Our state governments should resent the federal government trying to take over all of their responsibilities. Local government knows where rat infested areas are. Let's permit them to do the job.

Defeat of the bill brought a critical statement from President Johnson that it was a "cruel blow to poor children." These are compassionate words, but the deeds of this "Great Society" have put ropes around the necks of our children for their lives and their children's lives in taxing us to death.

It doesn't take $40,000,000 to cover garbage pails, and responsible adults should not be throwing garbage in the yard. No amount of federal money can eradicate this problem.

One last suggestion on rat control that costs nothing: Has Mr. Johnson explored the idea of using our cat population?

Flood Damage Tops $3 Million

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — June and July flood damage in the millions caused Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Tuesday to ask President Johnson to declare 57 Missouri counties disaster areas.

He said damages totaled $3,211,000 to roads, streets, bridges, dikes, levees, drainage ditches and public utilities. The cost included fighting the floods and health and sanitation measures.

The figures were compiled by the State Civil Defense Agency on the basis of reports from local officials.

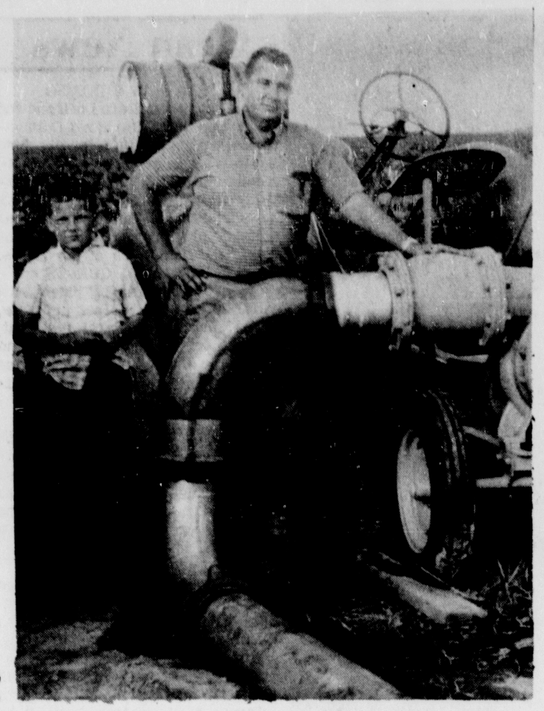
If the counties are declared disaster areas, federal funds would be available only for temporary repair of public works.

YOUTH MINISTRY GROWS

NEW YORK (AP) — "Teen Challenge," a ministry established in the Brooklyn slums by the Rev. David Wilkerson to provide spiritual help to juvenile narcotics addicts and other young delinquents, dedicated its new $500,000 headquarters building July 1. It now has chapters in several cities across the country, operates a rehabilitation farm for addicts and a boys ranch in Pennsylvania, a rehabilitation center in Dutchess County and a coffee house chapel in Greenwich village, among other facilities.

CHURCH RUSSIAN TOUR

NASHVILLE (AP) — Thirty-one Methodists, most of them college students, left June 29 for two months in the Soviet Union as participants in a study-travel seminary sponsored by the church's Division of Higher Education and American University in Washington.



HOSTS TO A TOUR by members of the Missouri soil and water districts were Joe Silverthorn, route one, renter, on the Edward C. Matthews farm, and his son Mark, eight, at their soybean irrigation site. Silverthorn is experimenting with 30 - inch rows of beans and corn with prospects for a good crop.

Andrew Jackson had a plantation home near Natchez, Miss., and was married there.

FOOD INDUSTRY

Robert D. Stuart, Jr.
President
The Quaker Oats Company

Last December, our forecast of lower food prices during the first half of 1967 was quiet risky in view of the many variables related to the Vietnam war. Yet, the forecast proved correct, and grocery store food prices in April were 1.6 per cent lower than in December despite a 0.5 per cent increase in the Consumer Price Index.

These lower retail food prices have been an important factor in moderating the rise in over-all consumer prices. The percentage of disposable income that Americans spent on food dropped again from an average of 18 per cent for 1966 to 17.5 per cent in April, 1967. This is the lowest percentage in our history and is far lower than for any other country in the world.

Now, the recent Middle Eastern developments and the continued volatility in Vietnam make forecasting even more difficult. Nonetheless, it seems inevitable that food prices will rise during the second half of the year. We cannot expect prices for food to keep going down when costs for just about everything else are rising.

While prices for foods eaten at home declined in the first four months of 1967, restaurant and institutional food prices inched upward. We believe that both the "at home" and "away from home" categories will reflect higher prices in the last half of the year.

The variables in Vietnam and the Middle East make it hazardous to predict the amount of increases, but with wholesale prices already turning up, retail increases of at least 2 per cent over current levels are a probability by the year's end. Despite this, food prices for the year are not expected to increase as much as the over-all Consumer Price Index.

Supplies of beef, pork, lamb, eggs, and poultry during the first quarter averaged well above 1966 levels, causing a 7 per cent reduction in prices received by the farmer. For the full year, livestock marketings will be only 2 per cent above 1966, and higher red meat prices at the farm and retail levels will result although poultry prices may remain under 1966 levels.

Food dollar sales and physical volume are up currently as the industry meets the demand caused by higher per capita income and a growing population. Disposable personal income rose by 7 per cent in the first quarter over a year earlier.

Despite the general slowdown in some business sectors during the early months of this year, grocery store sales in dollars in the first quarter topped those of the first 1966 quarter by about 3 per cent. We expect the growth rate to be at least this much for 1967 as a whole, and probably slightly better.

Although either increased economic assistance in the Middle East or stepped-up military efforts could lead again to talk about price controls, we believe that action in this area is unlikely, barring a dramatic escalation of defense needs. The food industry's track record on prices during a period of rising inflationary pressure is one of the strongest arguments against any hasty authorization of price controls. Revival of the tax increase proposal of last January is a strong posibility, however.

The food industry, which has traditionally operated on lower profit margins than most other businesses and with a high degree of competition, will have to be especially inventive in overcoming the cost-profit squeeze in the months ahead. Items such as the recently negotiated wage increases of 9 per cent fore chain store warehouse employees and truckers in San Francisco and of 8 1/2 per cent for chain store retail clerks in Detroit are significant in their effects on both prices and profits.

On the other hand, the evident necessity for reflecting these increases costs in higher prices, when combined with less emphasis on discount merchandising, may lead to better profits in the second half of 1967. At the same time, there should be an improvement in the rate of return on new product investment as consumers are able to afford more convenience products and retailers become increasingly aware of the profit potential in these new items.

With both higher costs and higher prices ahead, we believe that food company profits will be quite uneven during the second half of 1967. While industry averages should approximate current levels, the profit performance of any particular business will depend not only on the marketing skills of its management but also on the competitive climate of that business's area of activity.

Mail Delivery Tall Order in Manhattan

NEW YORK (AP) - There was an era in this country when the mail was a case of writing your letters and taking your chances.

Couriers couldn't always overcome the weather and highwaymen; stagecoaches couldn't always avoid Indians, and once in a while, a Pony Express rider and his saddlebags would disappear along the trail.

But all that was many, many years BZC - Before Zip Code.

Today's postal system has long since overcome the problems of the 17th and 18th centuries.

But in New York City, the problems of the 20th century are murder.

Manhattan's main post office - called the New York Post Office, although its territory does not cover the city's four other boroughs - says it handles more mail each day than all the post offices in France - some 31 million pieces.

That totals eight billion pieces a year, one-tenth the national volume on one 13.5-by-2.5 mile island that is the heart of the nation's business world.

The Post Office thinks it performs the monumental task with unheralded efficiency, but not because the people it serves make the job particularly easy. In truth, New Yorkers seem inadvertently to everything they can to make the difficult job impossible.

They have a tendency, because this island is relatively small, to stack their homes and businesses one on top of another until the resulting skyscrappers soar so high one gets a whiplash craning to see the tops of them.

In the 102-story Empire State Building, for example, it takes 25 mail carriers working eight hours a day to get everything in its ordered place. They make three pickups and three deliveries daily.

"Whenever I see a new skyscraper going up, whether it's a business office or a new apartment complex, I don't see brick or aluminum or glass, I see one gigantic mailbag," said Acting Postmaster John R. Strachan.

Strachan - who gets fewer than 100 complaints a day from Manhattanites - doesn't worry much about the service. He says he is confident that no matter what New York builds, the Post Office can handle its mail.

That is, if his men can get to it. Everyone knows the "snow nor rain, or heat nor gloom of night" bit, but these are modern times.

From about 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., the streets of Manhattan become a creeping glut of motorized commerce that defies any mail truck to accomplish the swift completion of its appointed rounds.

But by far, Strachan says, the biggest problem is that New Yorkers are creatures of habit and one of their worst habits is dumping the vast majority of their mail into chutes and boxes in the evening.

"If I could have one wish for the Post Office, it would be that people get out of the habit of mailing everying when they leave their offices at night and start mailing during the day," Strachan said.

"Most of the mail in Manhattan is business mail. I know people write business letters and prepare advertising all day, not just in the late afternoon. So why don't they mail it when it's ready?"

There are more than 40,000 postal employes in Manhattan, and Strachan says he can get more if he needs them.

"But what good would twice that number be if they're just going to be immobilized in traffic or stand around with their hands in their pockets for lack of anything to do?"

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

PRESIDENT JOHN C. WEAVER, Columbia, left, of the University of Missouri, sits with leaders at the 94th Wilton Park conference in Sussex, England. DISCOVERING AMERICA BY CAR

This summer most families will be exploring the country by car, largely because of the comfort and convenience auto travel offers. Discovering America can be even more fun and convenient with thorough advance planning, the kind that starts with a trip plan. You can order good plans --complete with marked maps; hotel, motel, and highway information, and expense-record forms -- from major oil companies or through membership in organizations like the American Oil Motor Club.

Request that your maps show the scenic route if you really want to explore. Take a direct route back if you must, or an alternate scenic route if you have time. Out - of - the - way places can add unprecedented pleasure and advanture to a trip. Your wandering needn't be haphazard, however. The second part of good planning is knowing where you can get accurate local information -- at As You Travel service stations, for example, or the special tourist-information booths set up in many cities during the travel season. (The emergency information local sources have -- where to find a good doctor, lawyer, or veterinarian, for instance -- can be might helpful, too, if you suddenly need it.)

So you don't miss the unplanned fun, determine the main things you want to see and do and exactly how long it takes to get from one to another. Then add a few days of uncommitted time to your vacation to enjoy some memorable side-pleasures.

"Get in Dutch"

The expression, "get in Dutch," meaning a great deal of trouble, started when Britain and Holland were battling for control of trade on the seas. The English tried to discredit everything Dutch by propaganda methods — thus everything Dutch was considered bad.

The family plans to move to DeKalb this month.

LIGHTS FOR SAFETY

Driving with your headlights on day as well as night is a good safety precaution in the heavy traffic of a holiday weekend - or anytime you're on the highway. It makes other motorists especially aware of you and reminds them to drive carefully. Their oncoming lights help break the monotony of driving for you, particularly if you're traveling a seemingly endless stretch of expressway.

Woman Has Key Role in Rebel Band

CAMIRI, Bolivia (AP) — A woman guerrilla named Tania has brought psychological warfare to Bolivia's Marxist rebel front in the mountains.

A jungle version of World War II's Tokyo Rose, she uses a bullhorn during combat to exhort Bolivian troops to lay down their arms.

"Surrender, little soldier, you're surrounded," she will cry unseen in the dark green foliage of the mountainside.

"It is startling and really shakes you the first time you hear her," said a medic who has been involved in two clashes between the army and the guerrillas.

Tania also acts as a decoy. Her small, booted footprints are seen along the mountain trails.

"We've learned to start taking cover when we see her footprints," said the medic. "They usually mean ambush."

Tania is well known to many people in this oil town of 22,000 in southeast Bolivia, about 360 miles from La Paz, the capital. Her full name is believed to be Tania Gutierres Baurer. She was a frequent visitor in February, a month before the fighting began, and because of a weakness for pasta became a regular at the Maietta restaurant, run by Italian Federico Forfori. He says she is about 29 with a deep voice and authoritative mien.

It was not known then, but at the time the guerrillas already had established a clandestine base 40 miles north of Camiri.

She is believed to have come on shopping or intelligence missions.

The fact the guerrillas brought Tania along for psychological warfare purposes is another indication to Bolivian military authorities here that the rebel band is largely an import from Cuba.

"It has organizational refinements beyond the capacity or means of Bolivian Communists," said one officer.

The guerrillas, estimated at 80 to 100 men, appear to have opened up two fronts in the southeast part of the country. One group is known to be operating some 75 miles north of Camiri. The other has hit towns southwest of Santa Cruz, a prosperous oil and sugar center of 100,000 people 170 miles to the north.

On July 7, in the most daring stab since fighting began in late March, the guerrillas took over the small town of Samaipata, 60 miles west of Santa Cruz, for a few hours. They killed one soldier and captured an officer and nine men but released them all unharmed later.

This raid put the guerrillas within 100 miles of a military base where 16 Green Berets of the U.S. Special Forces are putting specially selected Bolivian troops through a tough four-month course in counterguerrilla tactics. The objective is to create three special Ranger battalions.

This training program was established by a U.S. military assistance agreement under which Bolivia also receives some military equipment. The Bolivian air force recently acquired four U.S. T28 training planes and two P51 Mustangs, World War II fighters. That is as far as the assistance goes.

Washington bars U.S. military and official personnel, even Peace Corpsmen, from the guerrilla operation zone.

The zone now is confined to an area of 3,600 square miles in the southeast, although there have been guerrilla sightings elsewhere in the country.

Coldest Temperature

The coldest temperature in the history of our planet was logged in the year 1958 at Sovietskaya, a Russian base about 700 miles from the South Pole. A temperature of 127 degrees below zero was recorded.

Mail Delivery Tall Order in Manhattan

NEW YORK (AP) - There was an era in this country when the mail was a case of writing your letters and taking your chances.

Couriers couldn't always overcome the weather and highwaymen; stagecoaches couldn't always avoid Indians, and once in a while, a Pony Express rider and his saddlebags would disappear along the trail.

But all that was many, many years BZC - Before Zip Code.

Today's postal system has long since overcome the problems of the 17th and 18th centuries.

But in New York City, the problems of the 20th century are murder.

Manhattan's main post office - called the New York Post Office, although its territory does not cover the city's four other boroughs - says it handles more mail each day than all the post offices in France - some 31 million pieces.

That totals eight billion pieces a year, one-tenth the national volume on one 13.5-by-2.5 mile island that is the heart of the nation's business world.

The Post Office thinks it performs the monumental task with unheralded efficiency, but not because the people it serves make the job particularly easy. In truth, New Yorkers seem inadvertently to everything they can to make the difficult job impossible.

They have a tendency, because this island is relatively small, to stack their homes and businesses one on top of another until the resulting skyscrappers soar so high one gets a whiplash craning to see the tops of them.

In the 102-story Empire State Building, for example, it takes 25 mail carriers working eight hours a day to get everything in its ordered place. They make three pickups and three deliveries daily.

"Whenever I see a new skyscraper going up, whether it's a business office or a new apartment complex, I don't see brick or aluminum or glass, I see one gigantic mailbag," said Acting Postmaster John R. Strachan.

Strachan - who gets fewer than 100 complaints a day from Manhattanites - doesn't worry much about the service. He says he is confident that no matter what New York builds, the Post Office can handle its mail.

That is, if his men can get to it. Everyone knows the "snow nor rain, or heat nor gloom of night" bit, but these are modern times.

FOR THE FIRST TIME since cancer deaths have been recorded in Missouri, the number of cancer deaths went over the 8,000 mark in 1966. Statistics compiled by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Missouri Department of Health and analyzed by the Missouri division of the American Cancer Society show that 8,059 Missourians died of the disease last year, a jump of 154 over 1965.

Cancer Death Toll in Missouri Tops 8,000

JEFFERSON CITY -- The annual death toll of cancer went over the 8,000 mark for the first time in Missouri in 1966 when 8,049 deaths were recorded by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Missouri Department of Health. The figures compiled by that agency and analyzed by the Missouri Division of the American Cancer Society show consistency with the figures of previous years in that more males were killed by the disease than females and that cancer of the lung is the leading cause of cancer deaths, taking both males and females together.

However, although the number of cancer deaths increased by 154 over the previous year of 1966, the number of lung cancer deaths actually decreased by nine. There were 1,436 fatalities from lung cancer - 1,224 male and 212 female. These figures represent an increase of 27 for men and a decrease of 36 for women.

Cancer of the large intestine and rectum, taken together, accounted for 1,293 deaths, counting both sexes, and thus is the number two killer. But cancer of the breast is still the highest killer among women; 610 died of that disease last year. Cancer of the reproductive organs was the second highest killer of women with 636 deaths.

Although usually thought of as an adult disease, cancer caused the death of 89 children under the age of 15 last year.

Cancer authorities state that one out of three cancer patients is now being cured of cancer, whereas one out of two could be cured if people would use the knowledge that is available to protect themselves against the disease - annual checkups and observance of the seven warning signals. On this basis, it can be assumed that about 2,000 Missourians lost their lives needlessly to the disease in 1966 because they did not use this information. Nationwide, it is estimated that approximately 100,000 persons lost their lives needlessly for the same reason. The American Cancer Society states that over 1,400,000 cured cancer patients living in the United States attest that cancer can be cured. The Society is pushing a public information and education program to try to decrease the number of needless deaths, especially in six sites that cause most of the cancer deaths, yet have a good rate of cure when detected early.

Sensing The News

By THURMAN SENSING
Executive Vice President
Southern States Industrial Council

Though the United States rightly wants to be a good neighbor to the Latin republics in this hemisphere, it should never indulge in appeasement of countries in this hemisphere by sacrificing sovereign rights and imperilling the security of the Americas.

Unhappily, it seems that the Johnson administration may indulge in the ultimate appeasement of Panama with regard to the canal and canal zone. On the President's desk, at last report, were draft treaties covering the strategic waterway and the zone which the United States was held since 1903. According to reliable reports, the draft treaties involve a surrender of U. S. sovereignty over the Panama Canal and the canal zone.

In the light of what has happened in the Caribbean and elsewhere in the world -- principally at Suez, a U.S. backdown on the Panama Canal issue could be fatal to the best interests of the United States and other countries in this hemisphere.

Since the communists came to power in Russia, their propaganda has hammered at U.S. control of the Panama Canal. The communists understand that the U.S. would suffer a terrible blow if the inter-oceanic canal were lost. They recognize how much the communist world has gained by the ousting of the British from the Suez Canal, and they hope for a similar success in the Panamanian isthusm.

U.S. sovereign rights over the canal and canal zone were confirmed in a solemn treaty signed by Panama and ratified by the United States. No Panamanian government can take away from the United States the authority it rightfully possesses under this treaty. Only the U.S. Senate can abandon the rights enjoyed by the United States, and this it should never do, no matter how much the President may plead.

The U.S. is on the wrong course with respect to Panama. Since the 1950s, there have been many riots and threats of riot against U.S. citizens living in the isthmus. These riots have been organized to bring pressure against the United States to relinquish its rightful authority in the zone. They constitute political blackmail of the United States. Several administrations have erred in handling the problem. They have bowed to pressure from the blackmailers. As always is the case in blackmail, concessions have resulted in fresh demands. One can be sure that new Panama Canal treaties would result in another wave of demands on the U. S. The truth is that appeasement doesn't pay.

The idea of sharing control of the Panama Canal with the Panamanians is an absurdity. Panama is one of the most unstable countries in Latin America. It simply isn't a fit partner for the U. S. in an operation of immense importance to all the maritime and trading nations of the world. Responsible Latins should understand this as well as U.S. citizens. Chile and Peru, for example, are utterly dependant on efficient operation of the Panama Canal. Yet no one could offer any evidence supporting the view that Panama has the technical competence and political stability essential to the management of the Panama Canal. It would be a mistake, of course, to regard the furor over the Panama Canal simply as a case of Panamanian nationalism. Behind the commotion are the ambitions of the Soviet Union and its Caribbean satellite, Red Cuba. Since Fidel Castro first grabbed power in Havana, he has been interested in sparking revolution in Panama -- revolution aimed at seizure of the strategic waterway. It is reasonable to suppose that the recent discussions between Castro and Premier Alexei Kosygin of Russia involved the Panama Canal question.

PAUL FLOWERS'

GREENHOUSE

Ever since my favorite housemaid - of - all - work upgraded herself to a domestic auxiliary, I have been entranced by the wonderful world of occupational euphemism, even unto the precincts of my own trade, craft and profession, now popularly known as journalism.

One need not be an ancient to recall when the word "journalism" wore a halo of mild opprobrium and fetched forth scorn from oldtimers who wanted nothing better than to be known as reporters, beat, or re-write men.

A few decades ago, had you referred to one of the oldtime reporters - say the fictional Hildy Johnson in the Hecht - MacArthur play "The Front Page" or real ones like "Fuzzy" Woodruff, "Pee Wee" Hull, Gene Travis, or "Spider" Rowland -- as a journalist - you would have had a fight on your hands, but our craft has become more effete, and journalist it is today.

This is in line with widespread upgrading of old names for practitioners of assorted arts and crafts, and the end is not in sight.

Although loosely applied, in public usage, to any male person who teaches, the term "professor" now has been narrowed to one holding the highest rank in the pedantic hierarchy; the professor outranks the associate professor, who in turn outranks the assistant professor, who similarly is a cut above the instructor if you don't believe those distinctions mean something, ignore them and brace yourself for your comeuppance.

There are those of us old enough to remember when "professor" was a term of endearment applied to one who played the piano in a temple of public accommodation, but the term now implies maximum respectability.

"Doctor" is another honorific which has gone through a spectrum of associations. When Omar spoke of "doctor and saint," he alluded to one much learned in philosophy, logic and esoteric matters. It is only in comparatively recent times that healers, fitters of artificial dentures, veterinarians, practitioners and spine adjusters assumed the title; and there are those of the healing arts who object to use of the honorific by specialists in other disciplines.

Likewise, the scholar (in almost any field) who passed his class, seminar and research projects, scraped through the oral compressives, and published a dissertation, reverses his "earned" doctorate, and looks down from that lofty base upstart who sports an honorary degree.

It would be unkind to mention that the "earned" doctorate requires five, six or seven years of post - baccalaureate work, while an expert in highway construction, manipulation of financial institutions, or administration of great mercantile establishments might have invested 35 to 50 years acquiring the wisdom qualifying him to don the toga and hood (and the assets to endow a chair, build a library, or finance a new student center for the institution conferring the degree).

Folks do like high - sounding titles. As the housemaid becomes a domestic auxiliary, the janitor becomes a sanitary (or maintenance) engineer; press agents become public relations counselors; cobblers are known as footwear engineers; and the onetime interior decorator graduates into an "engineer of good taste." The undertaker progresses to funeral director and then to mortician; the real estate agent becomes a member of the national board and assumes the title of Realtor; a craftsman who wires your house is an electragrist; and a limb pruner emerges as a tree surgeon.

The hairdresser becomes a beautician; the barber; when abandoned entirely for the striped pole became a familiar symbol, is a tonsorial artist or hair stylist; the floor - walker graduates into an aisle manager; and the dog - catcher becomes a warden of the canine shelter.

The pool hall hatches into a billiard studio; the corner saloon (where not outlawed) is a cocktail lounge; garbage becomes table waste.

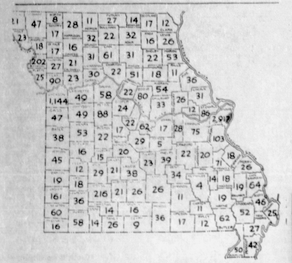
Instead of the good old honest second - hand things, now we buy used vehicles, or repossessed goods; the drummer is a detail man.

Commercial Appeal

NEW PUSH - OLD IDEA

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) -- The idea of churches paying taxes, as advocated by some churchmen recently, is not a new one. The Christian Churches (Disciples) headquarters here notes that President James A. Garfield, a lay preacher in the denomination, told Congress in 1874

"The division between the church and state ought to be so absolute that no church property anywhere in the state or nation should be exempt from taxation, for if you exempt the property of any church organization, to that extent you impose a church tax upon the whole community."



FOR THE FIRST TIME since cancer deaths have been recorded in Missouri, the number of cancer deaths went over the 8,000 mark in 1966. Statistics compiled by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Missouri Department of Health and analyzed by the Missouri division of the American Cancer Society show that 8,059 Missourians died of the disease last year, a jump of 154 over 1965.

Cancer Death Toll in Missouri Tops 8,000

JEFFERSON CITY -- The annual death toll of cancer went over the 8,000 mark for the first time in Missouri in 1966 when 8,049 deaths were recorded by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Missouri Department of Health. The figures compiled by that agency and analyzed by the Missouri Division of the American Cancer Society show consistency with the figures of previous years in that more males were killed by the disease than females and that cancer of the lung is the leading cause of cancer deaths, taking both males and females together.

However, although the number of cancer deaths increased by 154 over the previous year of 1966, the number of lung cancer deaths actually decreased by nine. There were 1,436 fatalities from lung cancer - 1,224 male and 212 female. These figures represent an increase of 27 for men and a decrease of 36 for women.

Cancer of the large intestine and rectum, taken together, accounted for 1,123 deaths, counting both sexes, and thus is the number two killer. But cancer of the breast is still the highest killer among women; 610 died of that disease last year. Cancer of the reproductive organs was the second highest killer of women with 636 deaths.

Although usually thought of as an adult disease, cancer caused the death of 89 children under the age of 15 last year.

Cancer authorities state that one out of three cancer patients is now being cured of cancer, whereas one out of two could be cured if people would use the knowledge that is available to protect themselves against the disease - annual checkups and observance of the seven warning signals. On this basis, it can be assumed that about 2,000 Missourians lost their lives needlessly to the disease in 1966 because they did not use this information. Nationwide, it is estimated that approximately 100,000 persons lost their lives needlessly for the same reason. The American Cancer Society states that over 1,400,000 cured cancer patients living in the United States attest that cancer can be cured. The Society is pushing a public information and education program to try to decrease the number of needless deaths, especially in six sites that cause most of the cancer deaths, yet have a good rate of cure when detected early.

PAUL FLOWERS' GREENHOUSE

Ever since my favorite housemaid -of-all-work upgraded herself to a domestic auxiliary, I have been entranced by the wonderful world of occupational euphemism, even unto the precincts of my own trade, craft and profession, now popularly known as journalism.

One need not be an ancient to recall when the word "journalism" wore a halo of mild opprobrium and fetched forth scorn from oldtimers who wanted nothing better than to be known as reporters, beat, or re-write men.

A few decades ago, had you referred to one of the oldtime reporters - say the fictional Hildy Johnson in the Hecht - MacArthur play "The Front Page" or real ones like 'Fuzzy' Woodruff, 'Pee Wee' Hull, Gene Travis, or 'Spider' Rowland -- as a journalist - you would have had a fight on your hands, but our craft has become more effete, and journalist it is today.

This is in line with widespread upgrading of names for practitioners of assorted arts and crafts, and the end is not in sight.

Although loosely applied, in public usage, to any male person who teaches, the term "professor" now has been narrowed to one holding the highest rank in the pedantic hierarchy; the professor outranks the associate professor, who in turn outranks the assistant professor, who similarly is a cut above the instructor. If you don't believe those distinctions mean something, ignore them and brace yourself for your comeuppance.

There are those of us old enough to remember when "professor" was a term of endearment applied to one who played the piano in a temple of public accomodation, but the term now implies maximum respectability.

"Doctor" is another honorific which has gone through a spectrum of associations. When Omar spoke of "doctor and saint," he alluded to one much learned in philosophy, logic and esoteric matters. It is only in comparatively recent times that healers, fitters of artificial dentures, veterinary practitioners and spine adjusters assumed the title; and there are those of the healing arts who object to use of the honorific by specialists in other disciplines.

Likewise, the scholar (in almost any field) who passed his class, seminar and research projects, scraped through the oral comprehensives, and published a dissertation, reveres his "earned" doctorate, and looks down his nose at any base upstart who sports an honorary degree.

It would be unkind to mention that the "earned" doctorate requires five, six or seven years of post - baccalaureate work, while an expert in highway construction, manipulation of financial institutions, or administration of great mercantile establishments might have invested 35 to 50 years acquiring the wisdom qualifying him to don the toga and hood (and the bare sets to endow a chair, build a library, or finance a new student center for the institution conferring the degree).

Folks do like high - sounding titles. As the housemaid becomes a domestic auxiliary, the janitor becomes a sanitary (or maintenance) engineer; press agents become public relations counselors; cobblers are known as footwear engineers; and the onetime interior decorator graduates into an "engineer of good taste." The undertaker progresses to funeral director and then to mortician; the real estate agent becomes a member of the national board and assumes the title of Realtor; a craftsman who wires your house is an electrician, and a limb pruner emerges as a tree surgeon.

The hairdresser becomes a beautician; the barber; who abandoned surgery after the striped pole became a familiar symbol, is a tonsorial artist or hair stylist; the door - waiter graduates into an aisle manager; and the dog - catcher becomes a warden of the canine shelter.

The pool hall hatches into a billiard studio; the corner saloon (where not outlawed) is a cocktail lounge; garbage becomes table - waste.

NEW PUSH - OLD IDEA

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) -- The idea of churches paying taxes, as advocated by some churchmen recently, is not a new one. The Christian Churches (Disciples) headquarters here notes that President James A. Garfield, a preacher in the denomination, told Congress in 1874:

"The division between the church and state ought to be so absolute that no church property anywhere in the state or nation should be exempt from taxation, for if you exempt the property of any church organization, to that extent you impose a church tax upon the whole community."

BE SURE OF YOUR SIGHT

Good vision is essential to good driving, says the American Oil Women's Representative. Before taking the wheel, she advises, be sure your sight isn't impaired by

1. Lack of glasses or proper lenses. Have your eyes checked frequently, with special reference to driving. If you normally wear glasses, be sure you have prescription sunglasses, too.
2. Sunglasses with elaborate sidepieces or with lenses in tints that distort shapes and distances. (Sage green and grey are the best lens -colors.)
3. Objects on the rear-view mirrow, stickers on the back window, items on the back deck that block the window.
4. Faulty headlight beams. Beams need periodic adjustment so they throw maximum light at the proper angle to the road.

On long-distance trips, stop and rest -- or change drivers -- whenever your eyes begin to feel tired.

The lieutenant, back home after a tour of duty as a military adviser in Vietnam, was explaining that a big problem there was how to distinguish between the peasant farmers and Viet Cong guerrillas. "Isn't there some sure way you can tell a communist?" inquired one of his listeners.

"There's one sure way," said the lieutenant. "If he shoots you, he's a communist." Joe Ryan

BLOOMFIELD -- Mrs. Louisa Quick is a special education teacher in the public school system.

Mrs. Quick and her husband, Seldon, have two daughters, Jean Ann, 20, a senior at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau, and Judy, 17, a freshman at Semo State.

Quick is a shipping clerk for Elder's Manufacturing Company in Dexter. The Quick family has lived in Bloomfield seven years.

Mrs. Quick says that she enjoys sewing for herself and her daughters and helping her husband with a garden.

The family attends the First Baptist church, where Mrs. Quick sings in the choir, is church clerk and is superintendent of the primary department. Quick is a deacon and Sunday School superintendent.

Mrs. Quick is a past vice president of the Junior Federated Woman's club, vice president of the Stoddard County Association for Retarded Children and president of the Dexter - Bloomfield branch of the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. Quick has made centerpieces of spools from a shirt factory. She sprayed the spools gold, arranged them in a circle and decorated them with artificial fruit and flowers.

Quick is a basket - ball fan and raises a large garden.

A treasure in the home is the family's china closet. Mrs. Quick has a bowl that belonged to her grandmother.

Recipes that Mrs. Quick suggests are:

BANANA SPLIT CAKE

Mrs. Quick says that this cake is very good and extra moist.

Melt a 4-ounce bar sweet cooking chocolate or 4 ounces of semi-sweet chocolate in 1/4 cup water over hot water. Sift together 2 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon salt. Cream 1 cup shortening (half margarine and half cooking oil) with 1 1/2 cups sugar.

Blend in 2 unbeaten eggs and 2 egg whites one at a time beating well after each. Stir in 1 cup overripe bananas, 1 teaspoon vanilla and the melted chocolate.

Add the dry ingredients alternately with 1 cup buttermilk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Blend after each addition. Stir in 3/4 cup chopped pecans.

Bake in three 9-inch pans at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

For the banana filling:

Combine 3/4 cup canned milk, 3/4 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks (saved from whites used in cake), 3 tablespoons butter. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until very thick -- about 10-12 minutes.

Add 1/2 cup mashed bananas and boil 1/2 minute longer. Remove from heat and add 3/4 cup chopped nuts and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Cool and stir occasionally.

This is only a filling and topping. If sides are to be covered, double recipe.

NEVER - FAIL DOUGHNUTS

Dissolve 1 package yeast in 1/4 cup warm water. Heat 1/2 cup milk to boiling point then pour over 3 tablespoons shortening.

The hot milk will melt the shortening. When slightly cool, add 1/2 cup sugar, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix well. Add 3 1/4 cups flour, small amounts at a time.

Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Turn out on a floured board and roll out to about 1/2 inch thickness. Cut with a doughnut cutter and fry in hot fat.

When both sides have been browned, dip in a glaze of powdered sugar, cream and a little vanilla. Mix up desired amount. It should be thin so excess will drip off.

CRUMB TOP APPLE PIE

Slice applies 3/4 full or more in 9 - inch pie pan. Sprinkle 2/3 cup sugar over apples. Dot with butter, about 2 tablespoons, 3 or 4 tablespoons water and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1 cup flour
1 stick oleo

Mix brown sugar, flour and oleo by hand until about the size of peas. Pour over apple mixture. Bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes.

RECEPTION SALAD

1 package lemon Jello
1 large can crushed pineapple
1 8-ounce package Philadelphia cream cheese
1 small can pimientos.
1 cup celery, chopped fine
1 cup pecans, chopped fine
1/2 pint whipping cream, whipped
Pinch of salt

Boil juice from large can of crushed pineapple. Remove from heat and add Jello and stir until dissolved. Cream the cheese and pimientos. To this add celery, nuts, salt and pineapple. When pineapple juice and Jello are cold, add to creamed mixture.

Last, fold in whipped cream. Freeze or chill several hours.

LEMON-SOUR CREAM PIE

Combine 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch and dash salt. Slowly stir in 1 cup milk. Cook and stir till mixture is boiling and thickened.

Blend small amount of hot mixture into 3 slightly beaten egg yolks; return to hot mixture. Cook and stir 2 minutes.

Add 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon shredded lemon peel and 1/4 cup lemon juice. Cover and cool. Fold in 1 cup dairy sour cream. Spoon into baked 9 - inch pastry shell.

Beat 3 egg whites with 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla to soft peaks. Gradually add 6 tablespoons sugar, beating to stiff peaks. Spread meringue over pie, sealing to edge.

Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden. Cool.

At the height of World War II, some British MP's protested indignantly in the House of Commons because Field Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery had entertained a defeated Italian general at dinner. After listening for a time, Winston Churchill, who is known for his love of a good table while Montgomery is something of an ascetic, rose and addressed the House: "I do not know if the honorable member who is complaining has ever had dinner with Montgomery, I have and my sympathies are entirely with the Italian general!"

A tax levied by the government to slow-down inflation and prevent our government from going into a deep deficit is far preferable. No administration can afford to permit run-away inflation."

Food Aid Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave speedy and unanimous approval today for an immediate start on an emergency program to provide food and medical care for starving and needy persons anywhere in the nation or territories.

Cutting through usual red tape, it passed a bill authorizing $25 million this fiscal year and $50 million the following year "to prevent human suffering or loss of life."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., proposed the emergency program after a Senate Labor and Welfare subcommittee held that families were starving and lacked the basic medical care in the Mississippi Delta and some other areas.

The funds would be administered by the secretaries of health, education and welfare and agriculture along with the governors of the states involved.

Mermaid Legend

It is thought that the posture of the manatee in holding its young to the breast, as human mothers do, was noted by ancient seafaring men, thus giving rise to the legend of the mermaids—half-woman and half-fish.

Hand coloring of black and white photographs probably began about 1840.

Teen-Ager Life Sentence

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 17-year-old youth Tuesday pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree murder and was sentenced to a life term in prison.

Richard K. Goodwin was accused with two others in the April 27 slaying of McCormick J. Holmes, 57, in a service station holdup. Holmes was the father of 11 children. Goodwin was shot in the arm in a scuffle with Holmes and fled after firing one shot.

Judge Richard H. Koenigsdorf asked Goodwin how he felt at having killed someone.

"Well, I am sorry it happened— sorry for what I did," the defendant said.

Two others still are awaiting trial on first degree murder charges in the case.

Ozark Development Hearing Scheduled

The subcommittee of the Public Works Committee made the announcement Tuesday. Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.Mex., will preside.

The Ozark region is composed of portions of Oklahoma, Arkansas and Missouri.

LIFE TRANSFIGURED

We must learn to see -- and not just think nor affirm, but see with our eyes -- that the world is the handiwork of God; that it is not a self-sufficient universe, but a thing that speaks to us of God. We have to discover the silent, the delicate, the tender, for such are the things which transfigure life.

Court Sustains Bullfight Appeal

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)— A district judge held Tuesday that teasing a bull by waving a cape at him and then gracefully stepping away from his charge is not cruelty.

Judge Joe H. Swinehart followed his ruling with an order sustaining the suit of two men who asked that Wyandotte County officials be required to issue a permit for a bloodless bullfighting exhibition.

Barton Nelson and Charles L. Goodman, who are seeking the permit, said the exhibition will be staged Sept. 2 and 3 at the Wyandotte County fairgrounds.

They said the bulls and the fighters would be imported from Mexico.

John Ziegelmeyer, attorney for the pair, contended in court that teasing a bull was not being any meaner to animals than lassoing them or causing them to buck.

Food Aid Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave speedy and unanimous approval today for an immediate start on an emergency program to provide food and medical care for starving and needy persons anywhere in the nation or territories.

Cutting through usual red tape, it passed a bill authorizing $25 million this fiscal year and $50 million the following year "to prevent human suffering or loss of life."

Sen. John Stennis, D.Miss., proposed the emergency program after a Senate Labor and Welfare subcommittee held that families were starving and lacked the basic medical care in the Mississippi Delta and some other areas.

The funds would be administered by the secretaries of health, education and welfare and agriculture along with the governors of the states involved.

Mermaid Legend

It is thought that the posture of the manatee in holding its young to the breast, as human mothers do, was noted by ancient seafaring men, thus giving rise to the legend of the mermaids—half-woman and half-fish.

Hand coloring of black and white photographs probably began about 1840.

Teen-Ager Life Sentence

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 17-year-old youth Tuesday pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree murder and was sentenced to a life term in prison.

Richard K. Goodwin was accused with two others in the April 27 slaying of McCormick J. Holmes, 57, in a service station holdup. Holmes was the father of 11 children. Goodwin was shot in the arm in a scuffle with Holmes and fled after firing one shot.

Judge Richard H. Koenigsdorf asked Goodwin how he felt at having killed someone.

"Well, I am sorry it happened—sorry for what I did," the defendant said.

Two others still are awaiting trial on first degree murder charges in the case.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

July 28, 1967

Honorable George Murphy
Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

My dear Senator Murphy:

I sympathize with you on taxes since all your constituents are against tax increases.

There is no need for any new foreign aid appropriations since there are $16,925 billion unliquidated funds from prior years available now! The claim that 90% of foreign aid economic assistance is spent in the U.S. is just plain not true. The 1966 U.S. Dept. of Commerce reports indicate clearly only about 43.6% was spent in the U.S.

Following are facts from NAM Reports, page 7, June 19, 1967:

Since 1960 the population of the United States has grown 10%.

Since 1960 Government employees increased 25%.

Since 1960 Cost of Government payrolls increased 75%.

Since 1960 All Government spending increased 80%.

Since 1960 Defense expenditures increased 68%

BUT

Since 1960 non-defense expenditures increased 97%!

Since 1960 national welfare and health increased 210%!

THEREFORE

NON - DEFENSE ACTIVITIES ARE THE OFFENDERS!

Your constituents just can't afford any more foreign aid or increased taxes for domestic non - defense spending.

Sincerely,
C. C. Moseley

Army Begins Course To Solve NCO Void

FT. BENNING, Ga. AP ---- Stripes on the sleeve, instead of bars on the shoulder, will mark the "90 - day wonder" of the Vietnam war.

A new term, "Instant NCO," will be the nickname for non-commissioned officers trained through 12 - week classes at Ft. Benning under a program designed to produce thousands of new noncoms to lead five teams and rifle squads.

The program is patterned after the "90-day wonder" course which filled a shortage of officers in World War II.

Officially titled the NCO Candidate Course, the new program is expected to turn out about 8,000 noncommissioned officers in 41 classes within a year.

As I walked home from the railroad station after a day in the city, a violent rainstorm forced me to take shelter in the doorway of a drycleaning establishment. Then - a flash of inspiration! Why not ask for a piece of that plastic bagging, used to protect newly cleaned garments, to throw over my head and shoulders?

The proprietor readily agreed. "Stand under the dispensing unit and hold up your arms," he said. Whereupon he pulled a full length of plastic over me, cut holes for my head and arms, gave me a small piece to use as a kerchief and sent me on my way.

Henriettta Kaufman

Reminiscing, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas told a New York City audience about his service on the Yale Law School faculty under "boy-wonder" Dean Robert M. Hutchins in the late 1920's. They dropped in on the Supreme Court one day and, as Douglas related it, the late Justice James Clark McReynolds greeted Hutchins and said, "Well, dean, I suppose up at Yale Law School you're teaching the students that the members of the Court are nothing but a bunch of old fuddy-duddies." Hutchins, quick as a rattlesnake, replied, "No, Mr. Justice, we let them find out for themselves."

Douglas, now 67, added pensively, "I thought that was a funny story at the time, but it sort of haunts me as the years go by." Newsweek

Dangerous Agreements

CHEERS FOR BONDS—"Want to cheer for America? Buy U.S. Savings Bonds!" That's the advice of Lorlyn Ann Seelbinder, National President of the American Cheerleading Foundation, educational pepsters' society headquartered in Kansas City, Mo. Miss Seelbinder was captain of the South's cheerleaders for the traditional Blue and Gray football game last fall.

Dr. Kershner

THE current series of talks between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S., seeking an agreement to curb both offensive and defensive missiles, is in my opinion just another communist attempt to further their objectives by negotiating. By violating the previous nuclear test ban treaty the Kremlin bosses obtained great strategic advantages in their knowledge of the powerful x-rays resulting from nuclear explosions in space. Because our government respected the agreement, our scientists do not have this important knowledge. We are even now at a great disadvantage, as compared with the Soviet Union. It is, therefore, to the advantage of the Soviet Union to reach an agreement limiting the missile and anti-missile race, because in this very important respect they are far ahead. If by negotiating they can freeze the status quo, it will be difficult, if not impossible, for us to catch up.

Furthermore, our government should never lose sight of the fact that the U.S.S.R. will renounce any agreement that might be reached whenever it appears advisable to do so, and that even before it may be denounced, it will most assuredly be violated if this appears advantageous to the Soviet Union.

A fatal weakness in the defense of our country is the apparent inability or unwillingness of Washington to properly appraise the fact that communism knows it cannot exist permanently with capitalism. This is true because communism cannot successfully compete with capitalism as a wealth-producing economic system. It must, therefore, if it wishes to live, destroy capitalism. Over and over the communists have told us that this is their aim, and that they use treaties, agreements, negotiations and other subtle means, just as mere tactics to gain their ends. A good example of this is the three temporary cease-fire agreements in Vietnam, all of which have been violated by the Communists and used for the purpose of building up their supplies to gain all possible military advantage. Not only have they done this in each case, but they have also engaged in a substantial measure of shooting, even during these truces. In the face of the record it seems very foolish and exceedingly dangerous to entrust the future of our country and the lives of our people to any so-called agreement that might be reached with the Soviet government.

CHEERS FOR BONDS—"Want to cheer for America? Buy U.S. Savings Bonds!" That's the advice of Lorlyn Ann Seelbinder, National President of the American Cheerleading Foundation, educational pepsters' society headquartered in Kansas City, Mo. Dangerous Agreements

THE current series of talks between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S., seeking an agreement to curb both offensive and defensive missiles, is in my opinion just another communist attempt to further their objectives by negotiating. By violating the previous nuclear test ban treaty, the Kremlin bosses obtained great strategic advantages in their knowledge of the powerful x-rays resulting from nuclear explosions in space. Because our government respected the agreement, our scientists do not have this important knowledge. We are even now at a great disadvantage, as compared with the Soviet Union. It is, therefore, to the advantage of the Soviet Union to reach an agreement limiting the missile and anti-missile race, because in this very important respect they are far ahead. If by negotiating they can freeze the status quo, it will be difficult, if not impossible, for us to catch up.

Furthermore, our government should never lose sight of the fact that the U.S.S.R. will renounce any agreement that might be reached whenever it appears advisable to do so, and that even before it may be denounced, it will most assuredly be violated if this appears advantageous to the Soviet Union.

A fatal weakness in the defense of our country is the apparent inability or unwillingness of Washington to properly appraise the fact that communism knows it cannot exist permanently with capitalism. This is true because communism cannot successfully compete with capitalism as a wealth-producing economic system. It must, therefore, if it wishes to live, destroy capitalism. Over and over the communists have told us that this is their aim, and that they use treaties, agreements, negotiations and other subtle means, just as mere tactics to gain their ends. A good example of this is the three temporary cease-fire agreements in Vietnam, all of which have been violated by the Communists and used for the purpose of building up their supplies to gain all possible military advantage. Not only have they done this in each case, but they have also engaged in a substantial measure of shooting, even during these truces. In the face of the record it seems very foolish and exceedingly dangerous to entrust the future of our country and the lives of our people to any so-called agreement that might be reached with the Soviet government.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

July 28, 1967

Honorable George Murphy
Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

My dear Senator Murphy:

I sympathize with you on taxes since all your constituents are against tax increases.

There is no need for any new foreign aid appropriations since there are $16,925 billion unliquidated funds from prior years available now! The claim that 90% of foreign aid economic assistance is spent in the U.S. is just plain not true. The 1966 U.S. Dept. of Commerce reports indicate clearly only about 43.6% was spent in the U.S.

Following are facts from NAM Reports, page 7, June 19, 1967:

Since 1960 the population of the United States has grown 10%.
Since 1960 Government employees increased 25%.
Since 1960 Cost of Government payrolls increased 75%.
Since 1960 All Government spending increased 80%.
Since 1960 Defense expenditures increased 68%

BUT

Since 1960 non-defense expenditures increased 97%!
Since 1960 national welfare and health increased 210%!

THEREFORE

NON - DEFENSE ACTIVITIES ARE THE OFFENDERS!

Your constituents just can't afford any more foreign aid or increased taxes for domestic non - defense spending.

Sincerely,
C. C. Moseley

Army Begins Course To Solve NCO Void

FT. BENNING, Ga. AP ---- Stripes on the sleeve, instead of bars on the shoulder, will mark the "90 - day wonder" of the Vietnam war.

A new term, "Instant NCO," will be the nickname for non-commissioned officers trained through 12 - week classes at Ft. Benning under a program designed to produce thousands of new noncoms to lead five teams and rifle squads.

The program is patterned after the "90-day wonder" course which filled a shortage of officers in World War II.

Officially titled the NCO Candidate Course, the new program is expected to turn out about 8,000 noncommissioned officers in 41 classes within a year.

As I walked home from the railroad station after a day in the city, a violent rainstorm forced me to take shelter in the doorway of a drycleaning establishment. Then - a flash of inspiration! Why not ask for a piece of that plastic bagging, used to protect newly cleaned garments, to throw over my head and shoulders?

The proprietor readily agreed. "Stand under the dispensing unit and hold up your arms," he said. Whereupon he pulled a full length of plastic over me, cut holes for my head and arms, gave me a small piece to use as a kerchief and sent me on my way.

Henriettta Kaufman

Reminiscing, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas told a New York City audience about his service on the Yale Law School faculty under "boy-wonder" Dean Robert M. Hutchins in the late 1920's. They dropped in on the Supreme Court one day and, as Douglas related it, the late Justice James Clark McReynolds greeted Hutchins and said, "Well, dean, I suppose up at Yale Law School you're teaching the students that the members of the Court are nothing but a bunch of old fuddy-duddies." Hutchins, quick as a rattlesnake, replied, "No, Mr. Justice, we let them find out for themselves."

Douglas, now 67, added pensively, "I thought that was a funny story at the time, but it sort of haunts me as the years go by." Newsweek

Walpoles Move into Bungalow on Trotter

50 years ago
August 2, 1917

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Walpole took possession of Mrs. Jennie Green's new bungalow on Trotter street, the first of last week. The bungalow is a replica of Mrs. Green's property on Gladys street, and was built to replace the two story house that burned some time last year.

An eighteen foot slide will be constructed at the Natatorium this week by the Sikeston Concrete company. The slide which will be copper lined, will be built on the north side of the pool and at the three and a half foot water line.

James Kevil entertained Wednesday evening with a swimming party at the Natatorium, in compliment to his nieces, Misses Margaret and Frances Woods of St. Louis, who with their mother, Mrs. D. E. Woods, are guests at the Kevil home on Gladys street.

It was a wonderful rain that fell in this section Friday night and Saturday. The cotton and corn, the beans and tomatoes are getting up and hustling. A few more such rains distributed during the month of August, will insure a good crop along the Ridge. It is a question whether any crop will mature in the bottoms the season has been so unfavorable.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. P. Spivey Saturday morning. Mother and babe are doing nicely.

Word was received from Dr. Bondurant of Cairo, that George Faris, the youth who was injured recently while at work with a survey party on Highway 61, south of Sikeston, is getting along fine. The break is mending nicely and he will be able to be moved in four or five weeks.

Miss Etta Viola Norrid, 29, assistant postmaster at Puxico, was fatally injured Tuesday morning when the car in which she was riding crashed into the rear of a moving truck on Highway 61, one and one-half miles south of Sikeston.

S. B. Hardwick of Bertrand this week opened a land agency in the office of justice Joseph W. Myers in the Applegate Bldg.

The City Council Monday night in an ordinance agreed to hire Hal Lynch, architect of Clayton, Mo., to draw plans and supervise the construction of the Sikeston Library.

Falling in front of a moving box car here early Tuesday morning, M. F. Stanfield, 65, brakeman for the Frisco Railroad, suffered a crushed right leg which later had to be amputated.

Two Sikeston young boys were injured in bicycle accidents on the streets today. Fred Jackman, jr., son of Fred Jackman, sr., was seriously injured when the bicycle he was riding collided with an automobile at the intersection of Stoddard and Malone avenue. Carl Smith, 211 West Kathleen, was injured in a bicycle accident near the First Baptist Church on South Kingshighway.

Billy Joe Moore, 12 years old, drowned August 3, in a field north of Felker Park near Benton. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Moore, who live on the Bell City Road near the Hooe School.

Mrs. Evelyn Burns entertained guests at her home, 325 Daniel street, in honor of her daughter, Judy Faye, who celebrated her eighth birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Coleman arrived home Friday from a vacation at Land O Lakes, Wis.

Ann Landers

Stick Around NamePeople Don't Forget

Dear Ann Landers: I laughed over the letter about B (only) N (only) N (only) Jones who wound up in the Army with the name Bonly Nonly. It's bad enough when such things happen by accident, but what do you think about parents who would intentionally give a child a crazy name?

I read recently where someone who researched odd names through Social Security listings came across Tin Cans, Safety First, Never Gamble, July Bonus, Pork Chop, True Story and Born Young. The one that took the cake was the name was the one Mr. and Mrs. Around hung on their newborn son. They christened the boy Stick.

Why would parents do this to a child? Doesn't it mean they have a perverted sense of humor? --- JUST ASKING

Dear Just: Not necessarily. Some parents want to give their child a name no one will forget. If I ever meet Stick Around I'll never forget him. How about you?

Dear Ann Landers: What a relief to read a letter in your column from a woman who has the same problem I have. For years I thought I was the only wife in the world whose husband collected pornography, hid it under the rugs, in the trunk of the car, and even in the rafters of the attic.

When I first discovered my husband's "hobby," I was disgusted and shocked. He confessed that his intense interest in pornography began in adolescence and I realized he was ill. I begged him to get a psychiatric help but he refused. When our son found part of his collection he agreed to see a doctor. Although he is far from cured, he now understands his illness and is trying to get better.

I hope other wives who share this problem will recognize it is a sickness. Please tell them it takes a great deal of strength and courage to live with somebody else's problem, but it CAN be done, and I know it can be done, because I have been doing it. --- DES MOINES

Dear D.M.: Cheers for you. And for the thousands (yes, I said thousands) of other women who wrote to say they, too, are living with husbands who collect pornography. A problem understood is a problem half solved. Thanks to all of you who wrote to say, "Me, too."

Dear Ann Landers: I am 18 and going steady with a fellow 19. Jamie dated a girl for three years before I knew him. He says it was kid stuff and his love for me is much greater than the feeling he had for her. He did admit that she broke off with him, however.

Jamie is very fond of this girl's parents. When we first began to date he used to take me over there at least twice a week.

They are nice people but I was awfully uncomfortable in their presence and told him so. A few times his ex-sweetheart was at home when we arrived and I wanted to die. Finally I refused to go anymore, but he still goes at least once a week.

Jamie wants to marry me next year but I'm afraid he is still in love with his ex-sweetheart. What do you say? --- MONTREAL

Dear Montreal: It sounds as if he is still torching, Honey. Date others and urge Jamie to do the same. If, in a year, he still wants to marry you, and has knocked off his visits, reconsider.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

While stationed in Japan, my brother, an Army lietenant, was impressed with the efficient maid service in his bachelor officers' quarters. But, to remove temptation, he always hid his prized Nikon camera before leaving his room. One day he forgot and left the camera out on his bed. He was worried on his return to find it gone - until he discovered that the maid had put it back in its proper hiding place!

Scottish Kilts

The traditional style of the early Scottish kilt was a 15-foot length of tartan that the owner spread on the ground and pleated. Then he lay upon it, belted it around himself and pinned the upper part at the shoulder. The modern kilt extends only from waist to kneecap.

Professional Women

The United States was the first country to admit women into any legal profession; the teaching profession being first. In 1849, at Geneva, N.Y., the first woman in the United States received a license to practice medicine, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The Prayer From The Upper Room

If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered. (John 15:6)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for the life in Christ to which we are called. Teach us to live in fellowship with Thee and to enjoy the blessings of sitting at Thy feet and serving those in need. Grant unto us Thy power to overcome all temptations to drift away. In the name of Thy Son who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . . Amen."

Annual Snake Hunt Slated

CHADWICK, Mo. (AP) - Hunters will vie for prizes at Chadwick's third annual snake hunt scheduled for Aug. 18.

The event, designed to rid the community of an excessive number of snakes, will get underway at 7 p.m.

The following night there will be a barbecue for hunters and the snake kill will be displayed.

Three prizes will be offered. One for the largest poisonous snake, one for the most snakes killed and another for the second largest kill.

Joe Hursh is in charge of the hunt for the Chadwick Cemetery Association.

Several hundred snakes were killed at the first hunt two years ago near the Pine Ridge Church area in Christian County. The hunt was organized during a church revival after residents claimed vibrations from musical instruments attracted the snakes.

There are many copperheads in the area.

Four-year-old Ronald W. Burkhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Burkhart, is reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital in Springfield after being bitten on the left ankle Sunday by a copperhead. The boy was playing in the yard of his home.
